Basketball Season Opens in Fine Style With Two Victories Against One Defeat

Juniata and St. Francis Bow to Mighty L. V. Team, while Penn State Wins by Narrow Margin—New Men Showing Up Well

In the initial game of the season, Lebanon Valley defeated Juniata College, at Huntingdon, Thursday evening by the score of 30-28. The game was closely contested throughout which can be easily seen by the comparatively close score. It was a complete surprise to the Huntingdon quintette who were intent on winning the game. Good teamwork throughout on both sides featured the game and added additional interest. At various times both teams were leading. Juniata, at the end of the first half led by the score of 16-14. Then Lebanon Valley took a spurt forward and changed the score to 25-18. Juniata retaliated and tied the score and an additional point on a foul. In a minute the local boys again led 30-27. During the last second a foul on

Lebanon Valley Soon To Have Co-ed Debating

Steps in Organization Have Already Been Taken With Much Interest

Lebanon Valley College is going to have a girls' debating team. The signs of the times are very bright, and this new star will certainly find a place among them. Agitation, on this score, has been promoted for over a year and finally reached a culmination when the question was taken up by the two girls' literary societies. It was discussed in each group, and any one who felt especially interested was asked to hand her name to a chosen representative.

The first meeting of this new campus light was held on Tuesday, Jan. 4th. Much interest was displayed by as many as attended. In fact, there was no difficulty along the line of "pep". It was right there. The difficulty lay in this that so many folks, who should have been there, forgot to come. Success or failure may depend on you? How do you know that you aren't the one who can serve the school better than any other? There is no better opportunity to develop reasoning and argumentative powers than that afforded by debating. Girls, if you are anxious to know more about vital national and international questions, enter your notebook and brain on behalf of the debating team. Why?

Listen: A second challenge has come to our girls from the girls of Washington College, Maryland. Remember that this is a second challenge. Maybe the girls from our sister college think that you can't debate, and that an easy victory is in the air. If you are interested, make it possible for the challenge to be accepted by entering the trial debate, which will be held Jan. 12th. Hand your name to Esther Flickinger, temporary chairman of the group.

L. V. C. ANNOUNCES SUMMER SCHOOL

The Administration of Lebanon Valley College announces that it is looking forward to another Summer School conducted in Harrisburg and Anville. Both sessions will begin June 20th and close July 29th. More detailed information will be published later when plans are more mature.

Philos Banquet As The Guests Of College Chef

Members of Society Enjoy Very Pleasant Evening Given by M. C. Favinger

One of the greatest social events of the season took place on Friday evening, when Chef Favinger was host to the Philokosmian Literary Society in his large banquet hall at the eastern end of Anville. Besides two members of the faculty, fifty Philos attended the event. The regular weekly literary program preceded the banquet.

Chef, who is an honorary member of Philo, had been contemplating entertaining the society for some time, but because of a very busy season prior to the Christmas holidays, he was not able to carry out his plans. However, as the Christmas season has passed and, consequently, as he had no banquet scheduled for Friday evening, he very kindly invited the members of the society to be his guests.

Lebanon Valley Represented In Many Meetings

Profs. Grimm, Derickson, Shenk and Reynolds Attend Various Conferences

Lebanon Valley was well represented in meetings of various kinds during the vacation period. The annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science was held in Philadelphia the last week in December, and was attended by Professors Grimm, Reynolds, and Derickson. In conjunction with this meeting, Professor Grimm attended sessions of the American Physiological Society, and Professor Derickson attended several sessions of the Botanical Society of America and the American Zoologists Society.

In the same week we were represented by Professors Grimm and Reynolds at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Teachers Association at Harrisburg. The American Historical Society met at Rochester, N. Y., where we were represented by Professor Shenk.

"Apple Sauce" To Feature Tonight In Chautauqua

Comedy-Drama Promises to Give Many Laughs—Closing Number Tomorrow Night

The Swathmore Chautauqua will be held in the College Chapel January 12, 13, and 14th, afternoon and evening. Fifty citizens of Anville have obligated themselves financially to guarantee the Chautauqua for 1927. Chautauqua's have been conducted in Anville for more than ten consecutive years, and have proved a great success both educationally and as fine entertainment.

January the 12th at 3 P. M. the Chautauqua will open with the Committee in charge. Besides the Jr. Chautauqua activities, a concert will be given by the Krantz Family Concert Co. playing 17 different instruments.

The evening program will consist of the Krantz Family and a lecture on "The Needs of the Hour," by Judge George D. Alden, an eminent barrister and former Massachusetts jurist, and for many years an outstanding figure of the American lecture platform.

On the afternoon of the 2nd day a Lecture-Demonstration will be given by Mrs. Josephine Dominick, whose subject is "Well Dressed on a Moderate Income." This lecture consists of a study of the fundamentals of good taste on a moderate allowance.

Cupid Conquers Many Hearts At Lebanon Valley

Again Proves That College Is the Beginning of Many Romances

Our Lebanon Valley Cupid is to be congratulated. Christmas has brought tidings of his most recent conquests, a number of the Alumni and a member of the Junior Class, most of whom were honor students in campusology while here, including Miss Martha Schock, '25; Miss Mary Kreider, '28, and the Messrs. Luther Weik, '25; Kenneth Roper, '26, and Allen Richards, '26.

Although the Kreider-Roper marriage has just recently been announced, the ceremony was performed on last August 15th, at Hagerstown, Md., by Rev. Reider, father of Harold Reider, '29. Mr. and Mrs. Roper are now living at Cornwall Heights, near Bristol. Mr. Roper has been teaching mathematics in the Cornwall Heights High School since early last fall.

Miss Schock and Mr. Weik were married on Christmas Day at the Schock home, in Tremont. The bride was attended by a classmate, Miss Catherine Nisley, '25, as maid of honor. The honeymoon began in the Penn Harris hotel. The following day the wedding party left for a week in Washington, D. C., accompanied by Mr. Allen Richards and his bride. Mrs. Weik expects to teach until June.

1928 Quittie Sales Campaign Now In Progress

Price to be Four Dollars—No Extra Books—Act Now

The 1928 Quittie Staff urges every student to buy a record of the school's activities during this year.

As a general rule, college year-books have been regarded in the past as of interest only to the class publishing them. The editions have been limited. Usually just enough have been printed to supply the members of the class. It has been taken for granted that others, outsiders, would not be interested. But now, college

Qualifications Required For Writers' Club

Candidates Required to Hand Application to Dr. Wallace

Attention has been called to the fact that there is some speculation on the campus, concerning qualifications necessary for membership in the Writers' Club. This organization has been in existence for almost a year and a half. It has had a rather perilous career during this short space of time. Originally it was formed with the idea of developing literary talent among students possessed of ability and interest along that line. This year several of the first group felt that because of other more pressing matters they would no longer be able to continue as members of the club. Reorganization took place with just a handful of folks—folks who

Glee Club Has Many Concerts To Be Rendered

Club Will Make Numerous Appearances Throughout State and in Washington

As the season is rapidly approaching when the college Glee Club will render its usual concerts, intensive practices are being held two nights a week in Engle Hall. From the present outlook, there is a very brilliant season ahead for the club, which is being directed by Prof. George Rogers, of the voice department of the conservatory.

Up to the present time, nine concerts have been definitely arranged, one each in Reading, Harrisburg, Red Lion, Lebanon, Dallastown, Hanover, and Washington, and two in Baltimore. It is quite certain that this number will be doubled, for there are prospects of engagements in Shamokin, Lancaster, Freeland, Hazleton, Enola, Lykens, Ashland, and other towns usually visited by the Club. Many towns have written to the business manager requesting him to arrange for an appearance there. One

Freshmen Hold Annual Banquet In Capital City

Unmolested by Sophs Freshman Hold Banquet at H'burg Country Club

The freshman class outwitted the Sophomores and held their banquet on Monday, January third, at the Country Club of Harrisburg.

Almost every member of the class turned out for this affair, which is always one of the highlights in the Freshman year. The peculiar tradition at Lebanon Valley is for the Sophomore class to try to break up the affair for the Freshies, and if not, to at least give them a thrill. This year the class selected the night after vacation and went direct from their homes to the banquet entirely unmolested by their rivals. The place for the banquet to be held was kept a secret. Never before was a banquet staged at the Country Club, but this proved an ideal place. The hall was very artistically decorated in the class colors, and every Frosh reports this as the biggest and best banquet ever staged by any class.

Eurydice Club Will Present More Concerts

Faculty Has Given Permission to Co-eds to Present Ten Concerts

Of mortals who have visited Lebanon Valley College and returned, none tells a sweeter story than that about Eurydice. She is a beautiful maiden, and a most famous musician, for she is known throughout the vast domains of Anville. Not only her fellow mortals are attracted to the conservatory windows and doors by her lyric voice, but other wild beasts are softened by the heavenly strains. Eurydice has a lover, Orpheus (Miss Engle), who woos her with such endearing words as "thy beaming eyes," "now let's repeat that 'heavenly bliss,'" "crescendo" and "I want 'thy trembling kiss' softer."

Orpheus wants to marry Eurydice and take her from her parental abode (conservatory) out into the world, but Father Jupiter and his host of gods (Dr. Gossard and the faculty) will not permit it. This refusal was having a bad effect on poor Eurydice, for she was becoming quite thin (in numbers). But Orpheus, dauntless and bold, repeated the request and had Eurydice sing her most plaintive and sweet music so that the stone hearts of the gods might be touched.

Convinced of her charming power of song, Jupiter said that Eurydice and Orpheus might journey over hill and vale, singing songs of cheer, on the condition, however, that they travel on their lucky days—the fifth, sixth, and seventh days of the week. Now indeed is Eurydice happy, and sings with renewed vigor and with such feeling that every soul on the campus has felt the charm.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

Ancient and modern civilized peoples' while differing as to the day from which they reckoned the beginning of the civil year, have agreed in distinguishing it by special activities. The Romans dedicated New Year's Day to Janus (hence the name January), who was the god of beginning. Every morning prayer in a Roman home was addressed to Janus and especially was he implored at the beginning of the New Year. They sacrificed to him and exchanged kindly greetings and wishes and sent to their kinsfolk and friends gifts called "strenae." This custom continued for some time until it finally became a duty for everyone to give gifts of the best to the rulers. This existed among the Saxons, Druids, English—it is said that all of Queen Elizabeth's wardrobe and jewelry were supplied by these contributions. Finally it became merely a means for the royalty to drain wealth from their people and the church condemned it.

But later on, the church took a different stand and they made it a religious holiday to commemorate the circumcision of Christ. Today we celebrate the New Year by such festivities as the "Ringing out of the old year and the ringing in of the New," together with the making of many resolutions. Resolutions probably originated with the early Christian tradition; that of the purification of the body. We throw aside the old and purify our bodies by the making of new resolutions, attempting to make our bodies purer, stronger, and more helpful.

ARE YOU GETTING WHAT YOU WANT?

In this day, when efficiency means so much, we do well if we stop to consider whether we are working directly toward the goal which we have in mind, or whether circumstances which could be altered are misleading us. Lebanon Valley College has always striven to fit her students for the positions in life which they shall choose. For this cause, the college was founded, and it is for the college of the present day to uphold this ideal.

However, when we look around us and see how the proposed courses of students are shattered to pieces, we wonder if some link in the chain of college requirements could not be strengthened.

A great man may have said that all men are created free and equal, but no one dares or ever will dare to say that within each human breast there lies talent which is capable of functioning equally well in any profession. How many master minds, although they exhibit great arts in a few lines, have been considered totally ignorant in other respects!

At the present time it is almost impossible to enter Lebanon Valley College and prepare mainly for one course in life. Those whose gifts of art lie in the academic plane are unwisely and inevitably required to sacrifice that gift for at least one year's study in science. In this respect, due to the severity of the science courses and the long laboratory periods, they are led to devote the major amount of their time to that which will be of little value to them. Thereby this proves a hindrance to the development of that talent which they are trying to cultivate. Then again, if they are not equally capable in the scientific field as in the academic, they are rated low, and in all probability are required to repeat the course or to choose another science.

We are inclined to think that to the wise person this does not look quite fair. Surely we are sacrificing that which we have and most desire for that which we desire not and have little ability to obtain.

Is there not reason to believe that this will lead to failure in the lines of all professions? Wherever this fault may lie, whether in the executive power or student body, of the school we do well to consider it thoughtfully and in such a manner as to allow each student the privilege of developing that talent which the Creator has placed within him.

Alumni Notes

Mr. V. Earl Light, '16, an assistant in the Department of Zoology, Johns Hopkins University, where he is completing work for his Doctor of Philosophy Degree, motored from Baltimore to Annville during the holidays and visited friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Kuntzman, '25, of Muir, announce the birth of a daughter, Ruth Rene, on Sunday, December 19th.

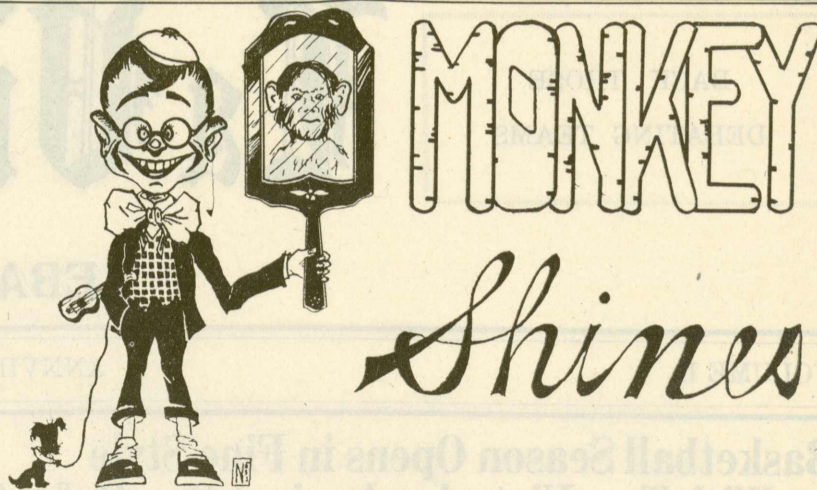

Miss L. May Hoerner, '10, professor of Home Economics in Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio, spent her Christmas vacation with her parents at Boiling Springs, visiting friends in Harrisburg and vicinity.

Mr. Carroll Daugherty, '21, is now holding an instructorship at the University of Pennsylvania, where he expects to complete the work for his Doctor of Philosophy Degree at the end of this year. Mr. Daugherty is a son of Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Daugherty, of Lebanon, also alumni of the college.

Dr. H. E. Enders, '97, professor of Zoology at Purdue University, in Indiana, was one of many Lebanon Valley Alumni to attend the recent convention of the American Association of Science, in Philadelphia. He stopped at Derry Church, Hershey, the former home of Mrs. Enders, nee Miss Moyer.

Miss Mae Reiter, '26, now teaching at Youngsville, spent her Christmas vacation in Palmyra, and called upon Annville friends.

Mr. Leroy G. Rittle, '26, is teaching mathematics in one of the high schools of Altoona.

This paper needs more humor in it. Benson says, "Humor is a kind of divine and crowning grace in a character, because it means an artistic sense of proportion, a true and vital tolerance, a power of infinite forgiveness."

If this new column accomplishes a better sense of proportion for your paper, and affords you the opportunity to laugh—then it's appearance is justified.

Before a capacity audience in the Y. M. I. Hall, Altoona, Lebanon Valley rolled St. Francis for a defeat by the score of 34-17. This was the second consecutive win in as many days for Lebanon Valley, having defeated Juniata, the night before, Jan. 6. St. Francis has an annual crack team in basketball, but superior passing ability, combined with carefully maneuvered teamwork was too much for St. Francis. Piela was the high scorer and star of the game. In the last few minutes of play he obtained 7 field goals. His exactness in throwing the ball into the basket was the cause of much interest on the part of the spectators. Gelbert had 9 points to his credit. "Big Boy" Wheeler offered

SHEET-IRON QUARTETTE
ON PROGRAM IN KALO

Kalo resumed its literary activities on Friday evening, January 7, after a rest of several weeks. The entertainment consisted of extemporaneous selections of great variety, due to the fact that there was not sufficient time to prepare a program after the vacation. The new president, Gordon Starr, presided, and gave a very inspiring address.

James Hazelton, a new member of Kalo, entertained with a very touching reading of the Revolutionary days, and a quartet composed of Augst, Lewars, Kiehner and Mentzer rendered several humorous selections. There were several other interesting numbers by different members of the society.

A very interesting program has been planned for next Friday night. It is to be followed by initiation of several new men, after which a smoker and social hour will be enjoyed by all.

the sensational part of the game. As a pivot man he was working in full form and style and his successive tip-offs at center gave the boys a great advantage. The score at the end of the first half was 17-0 favor of Lebanon Valley. St. Francis, although a very highly rated team offered little resistance to prevent the boys from victory. Roetzel, opponent guard, played a good game. Line up:

L. V. vs PENN STATE

After two consecutive wins Lebanon Valley tasted the first defeat of the year at the hands of Penn State Saturday evening by the score of 40-32. On several occasions the local boys lead State by a few points, but due to the strain of the two games, the two days previous, the Lebanon Valley team was exhausted and bowed conquered to their foe after waging a bitter battle. Captain Haines, of State excelled in his abilities as a player, being a good defensive won and able to shoot baskets at most any angle, long or short. He had to his credit eight field goals and five fouls for a total of 21 points. Gelbert with 12 points was high score for the locals. State had no easy time defeating the veteran Lebanon Valley team, for throughout the game the latter was very insistent on victory. The score at half was 19-15, favor of State. Wheeler and Piersol played a splendid defensive game, Wheeler also having 3 field goals. Line ups:

OF COLLEGE CHEF

The members of the society met at his place at 7:15 and rendered a short literary program. This consisted of the following numbers:

Harold Ryder, Bruce Behney
Parody.....John W. Beattie
Sketch.....Moser & Co.
Quartette

Presentation.....Harvey Nitrauer
In his address, President Mimura, on behalf of the society, expressed the sincere appreciation the society holds for the Chef, not only because of his generosity in this instance, but because of his continued interest in the affairs of the society of which he is a member. While all the other numbers of the program were very commendable, the sketch by Moser and Company is especially worthy of mention. The members of the company beside the director and leading actor were Arnold Zwally and Luke Mimura. Lewis Candano and Paul Barnhart acted as stage hands. The action took place in the photographic studio of Moser, and centered around the photographing of the infant Mimura. Zwally acted the part of the proud mother. The sketch came to an abrupt end due to the absent-mindedness of the photographer. At the conclusion of the program, the president called for general remarks, and Professors Grimm and Wagner, also honorary members of the society, responded. Their remarks centered around traffic problems, though in a different relation than might be supposed.

Immediately after the program, the Chef proved his ability as host by setting forth a banquet fit for a king. The menu consisted of rolls, biscuits, salmon croquets, chicken salad, waffles, pickles, coffee, sundaes, chocolates, cigars, and cigarettes.

After all the members had satisfied their appetites, Millard Miller acted as toastmaster, and the following members responded with toasts: Allen Klinger, Abram Dohner, Elmer Keiser, Prof. Wagner, Prof. Grimm, and Chef Favinger. Lewis Candano also gave an exhibition of the Charleston, the famous dance originated by the Scotch. In his toast, Elmer Keiser read his literary masterpiece, "Zanzibar." All speakers concluded their remarks with reference to the success of the society both as a literary and social organization.

The account of the society's activities of last Friday evening, which included the regular program and a banquet tendered the society by our chef, is found in another column.

Too much praise and appreciation cannot be expressed by the Philos to Chef for his hospitality. The banquet was by far the greatest social event in the history of the society. Although every member always had a warm place in his heart for Chef, every one now cannot but agree that Chef is one of the best friends the society has and as a host he is unexcelled for, indeed, "he is a jolly good fellow."

GLEE CLUB HAS

One of the reasons for the widespread popularity of the club is that it always appears in the church services and renders several selections in whatever towns it happens to be over the week-ends. This is always highly appreciated.

It is still too early to announce the concert program. However, it may be said, that as far as quality is concerned, it will surpass that of last year, which was regarded as the best in years. Although the Club has many new members, yet, because of the unusual ability showed by them, the director and officers are very well pleased.

year-books are coming more and more, to be records of a year's activities, as participated in by members of all classes on the campus. The 1928 "Quittie" is sponsored by one class, the Juniors, it is true, but it is planned with pictures of the faculty, societies, and activities of all classes included to be interesting as an all-college story to members of all classes, and to alumni as well.

The price of the "Quittie" is $4.00. In previous years the largest number of books sold by any class was 280, that by the present Senior Class. This income amounted to almost $1200. The book complete costs between $2000 and $2500 leaving almost $1500 to be raised through other channels. The proceeds of the Junior Class play are turned over to the "Quittie" staff, but this is never much more than $100. Through advertising $300 or $400 more are raised with $1000 still to be accounted for. This is apportioned among the members of the Junior Class and each one is assessed $10 or $15 exclusive of their class dues. All this is done in order that the best book possible can be given to the students, who pay but $4 for something that is really priceless. Every student with the right L. V. spirit will purchase a 1928 "Quittie," and every loyal student is expected to own one. The value of the "Quittie" far exceeds the price set. The engraving contract calls for the finest engravings that money can buy, while the printer will use the highest quality of paper and other materials. The book, which will contain hundreds of photos and many new features, is artistically planned from every angle.

mense appetites a very interesting program was rendered, which was as follows: "Fresh Resolutions," by Edgar Shoryer, class president; Vocal Solo, by Leah Miller; Reading, by Alcesta Slichter; Piano Solo, by Hilda Hess; Reading, by John Hafer; Address: "Fresh Freshies," by Dr. C. H. Garwood, superintendent of public schools of Harrisburg. It was through Dr. Garwood that the class was able to secure the Country Club for their banquet. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. Gossard, Dr. and Mrs. Garwood, and Dr. Wagner. served as toastmaster. The banquet proved to be an incentive for the frosh to flunk their subjects, that they may be eligible for the freshman banquet next year.

are very much concerned that the club should be a vital factor in campus life.

A candidate for membership in the organization simply must be one who is ready to work and willing to learn. If you have literary ability together with the above mentioned qualities, put in your application for membership at once. This takes the form of a manuscript of your own composition, which should be handed to Dr. Wallace.

MUHLBERG AND WESTERN MARYLAND VICTIMS OF BLUE AND WHITE CAGERS

Mylinmen Defeat Ancient Rivals at Allentown with Snappy Form After Losing One to Loyola and Defeating Western Maryland

GEORGETOWN AND MT. ST. MARY'S ARE VICTORS

MUHLBERG GAME VERY THRILLING

With spectacular playing and a real comeback Lebanon Valley defeated Muhlenberg 24-13, at Allentown January 19. Muhlenberg at the end of the first half lead the score 10-5. In the second half Lebanon Valley displayed real form and made 19 points to Muhlenberg's 3. The offensive attack of the home team was too much for the fast team of Muhlenberg. Gelbert and Piela with 14 and 6 points respectively were alert on the scoring line, while Wheeler who replaced Miller at center, tapped the ball splendidly into the hands of his teammates. Muhlenberg's low score in the second half was due to the superb guarding of Bell and Piersol. Caldren and Sholeums of Muhlenberg displayed fine teamwork.

WESTERN MARYLAND GAME

Western Maryland went down to defeat at the hands of Lebanon Valley, January 12, at Baltimore, Maryland, by the score of 38-22. Western Maryland has a very unique team this year and showed good form, but superb team work on the part of Lebanon Valley gave the latter the long end of the scoring card. Piela and Gelbert made some remarkable shots and contributed the majority of points for the local team's victory. Piela turning in a score of 18 points and Gelbert 14. The good defensive work of the guards, Piersol and Bell, caused Western Maryland to put up a hard struggle for all points scored. Wheeler as pivot man had the jumping edge on his opponent. Broll, Captain of Western Maryland, played remarkable both in the offensive and defensive side. Line-up:

LOYOLA GAME

In a hard fought game at Baltimore, Tuesday, January 11th, Lebanon Valley tasted defeat at the hands of Loyola College, by the score of 26-14. This was but the second defeat of the year and Lebanon Valley lacking the necessary floor work against this fast combination was unable to gain to any advantage. The Loyola team on a whole were good marksmen, making baskets from any distance or angle of the floor. Dudley, star guard of Loyola, played remarkable basketball, having to his credit 13 points. The points scored by Lebanon Valley were equally distributed among the players, no one obtaining more than two points. In the second half Lebanon staged a comeback but the early lead of Loyola could not be overcome. Line-up:

DR. GOSSARD ABLE TO BE ABOUT AGAIN

Dr. G. D. Gossard, president of Lebanon Valley College, who for the past week, was confined to his home with an attack of la grippe is again able to be about to attend his duties as president. This is of great importance to the students for he has been missed very much and we trust that he will have a speedy recovery and soon be able to be about as before.

ATHLETIC CLUB GIVES REGULAR WEEKLY PROGRAM

That the "L" Club is doing its part to stimulate athletics is shown by the programs which it is sponsoring in the college gymnasium every Wednesday night. Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A. IN JOINT-SESSION

Louise Rounds of Student Volunteer Association Gives Address

The regular joint-session of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. was held Sunday evening, Jan. 16, in Engle Hall. The meeting was in charge of Kenneth Reissinger with Nelda Spatz as soloist.

Miss Louise Rounds, a graduate of the University of Texas, and traveling in the interest of the student Volunteer Association, was the speaker for the evening. Miss Rounds attended the Milwaukee Conference and brought to us many good thoughts that she had gathered while there. Especially did she emphasize the importance of being a world Christian if one would be a Christian at all. She held many interviews with those who desired to receive new information and new light on the problems that Christian Volunteers must meet every day. The two days of her stay on the campus were certainly most profitable and helpful.

The attendance at the joint-session was a source of gratification to the officers of the two associations. Interest seems to be growing with regard to devotional life.

ALFRED HERSHEY NEW PRESIDENT OF SENIOR CLASS

Piersol Elected by Juniors, and Freshmen Elect William Lehman

With the beginning of a new semester close at hand, many of the class organizations on the campus have taken on the task of electing officers for the coming semester. At about the same time there was an inauguration at Harrisburg, commemorating the installation of our next governor. But those on the campus we deem equally important to us in our little college commonwealth.

After the proper amount of "electioneering," stump speaking, and small scale campaigning, the several classes entrusted their responsibility to the following:

In the Senior Class of 1927, Alfred N. Hershey, son of Rev. and Mrs. I. Moyer Hershey, of Philadelphia, has been elected to the position of president. Mr. Hershey is well known about the school and has taken part in many of its activities. Miss Kathryn Young was elected to the chair of vice-president and Miriam Daugherty as secretary. Both of these ladies are very active members of the Senior Class.

In the Junior Class of 1928, Paul Piersol, of Coatesville, Pa., was elected as president. Mr. Piersol is well known in and about the school as an athlete, and very active in that class. Indications are that he will make one of the best presidents in the history of that class. Mabel Hafer was elected as vice-president, with Mary Geyer as secretary.

In the Sophomore Class of 1929 Palmer Poff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poff of Dallastown was elected. Other elections of this class have not been made public.

The Freshman Class of 1930 elected as their president William Lehman, son of Rev. and Mrs. Lehman, of Harrisburg. Other elections were: Vice-president, Ruth Cooper, Recording Secretary, Hilda Hess; Financial Secretary, Alfred Shenk.

CO-ED QUINTET OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY

Play Very Spectacular Game Before Record Crowd in Alumni Gym

The co-ed's basketball season began with a bang! On Friday evening, January 14, in the Alumni gymnasium, the co-eds carried off the spoils from the Schuylkill College sextette to the tune of 34-22. The Lebanon Valley girls outplayed their opponents throughout the battle, and were ably led by Captain Rabenstine who scored nineteen points of the final score. At the end of the first half, the score stood 12-8 in favor of Lebanon Valley. Much pep and en- (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

METROPOLITAN SINGERS WILL GIVE CONCERT

Star Course Presents Nine Thorough Musicians As Third Attraction

Ellsworth Gilbert and His Metropolitan Singers will give a concert in Engle Hall on Monday, February 7, at 8 o'clock. This concert is the third number on the Star Course program, sponsored by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.

Nine thorough musicians make up the personnel of the Metropolitan Singers. The vocal ensemble is delightfully augmented by the instrumental support of violin, cello, piano, and reed organ.

Excerpts from grand and light opera, including outstanding favorites from such modern operas as "The Student Prince" and "Rose Marie" will comprise in large measure the Metropolitan program. Another important feature, however, will be a group of numbers in costumes reminiscent of the former Cathedral Choir, of which Mr. Gilbert was the organizer and conductor.

Encores, liberally interspersed, will include popular vocal and instrumental numbers in symphonized form. The modern orchestra of Paul Whiteman type has made classics out of popular numbers. A similar policy will be followed by Mr. Gilbert, using the vocal-instrumental combination effectively in his extra selections.

While the Metropolitan program will be primarily vocal, and no thorough accord with Mr. Gilbert's high ideals of song literature, it is also provided that the company instrumentalists shall not only assist in the ensembles, but also shall offer some of the better classics.

SENIOR GIRLS GIVE BOYS AFTERNOON TEA

The Senior girls entertained the Senior boys at a party Tuesday afternoon in North Hall. Madeline Mark, representing the class, made a delightful hostess and helped to create a lovely atmosphere. The girls gave a short program, which consisted of a reading, "Si and I" by Mary McLanahan; a piano solo, Sir Edward Baxter Perry's "Summer Revue" by Blanche Stager; and the class prophecy given by Myra Sheaffer and Florence Dundore. Every part on the program was well given and well received. After hearing Mary, we know who happens to be her "steady beau." Music does charm as was attested by Blanche's selection which was such a delightful and appropriate interpretation. Every Seniors future was interestingly told and led all to wonder just what the future held for them. The girls then served delicious refreshments which was followed by a lovely social hour. All seemed to have such a good time that similar events are being planned for the future. This was a new venture and proved a very successful one.

MUSIC STUDENTS ENTERTAIN WITH SELECT RECITAL

Conservatory Students Give Second Recital of the Season

The second recital of the season, given by the pupils of the Conservatory of Music, was presented in Engle Hall, Tuesday, January 18, before a large audience of students and friends of the college. Many pupils who did not appear on the opening program made their appearance on Tuesday evening. The program was presented in a very pleasing manner and the efforts of the students were appreciated by all.

The program was rendered as follows: "Butterfly," by Merkel, Gladys Wagner; "Frolic," by Friml, Mary Grace Mills; "Sailing" and "A Story," by Bostelmann, June Gingrich; "Marche Grotesque," by Sinding. Olive Weigel; "Mammy's Sleepy Time Song," by Strickland, Josephine Yake; Cathedral Prelude, by Plag, Christine Evans; "The Lord is My Strength," by Wooller, Edith Brandt; "Pas des Amphores," by Chanimade, Alice Woy; "Andante Cantabile," by Tchaikowsky, Benita Strebig; "The Beaming Eyes," by MacDowell, and "Rose in the Bud," by Forster, Leah Harpel; "Serenade," by Pierne, and "The Chase" by Rheinberger, Mary Grubb; Vision," by Rheinberger, Hilda Hess; "Ave Maria," "Hedge Rose," and "Hark! Hark the Lark" by Schubert, Benetta Burrier; and Fantasia in D minor, by Mozart, Violet Feree.

SOCIAL OPINION SURVEY RESULTS OF UPPERCLASSES

Recent Survey Taken by Education Department Yields Valuable Information

Mr. E. E. Cortright, Assistant Professor in the School of Education, New York University, is conducting a Social Opinion Survey for the purpose of getting the reactions of College students from a large percent of the Colleges and Universities in the United States. Working in conjunction with the Department of Education in the various Colleges and Universities, he sent a number of these questionnaires to the Department of Education at Lebanon Valley College, requesting that they be distributed among the Seniors and Juniors, their reactions tabulated, and the results returned to him. Following is the questionnaire filled out by our students, and the results obtained.

ARE YOU GETTING ENOUGH SCIENCE?

The following is a letter received by the editor, commenting upon a recent editorial appearing in this paper. The editor wishes to inform the readers that he is not the author of the article but welcomes any comment concerning any editorials appearing in this column.

To the Editor of La Vie Collegienne:—

In an editorial in your issue of January 13th entitled "Are You Getting What You Want?" the writer in no uncertain terms regrets that all students during their four years of college study are required to take one course in science, and that the taking of this dreaded course makes unattainable "the goal we have in mind" that "circumstances which could be altered are misleading us"—that "to the wise person this does not look quite fair" and note should be made "how the proposed courses of students are shattered to pieces." We must confess that we were much wrought up over this sad state of affairs especially after learning that this "will lead to failure in the lines of all professions."

We looked in vain through the article for a line of redeeming humor and are finally led to ask if this is representative of the 1927 student. In this twentieth century with its inheritance of knowledge accumulated by thousands of men and women whose memory is cherished as the founders of our civilization, many of whom sacrificed liberty and life itself that truth might be established, can anyone refer to this wealth of knowledge and truth "that which we desire not?"

What thoughts arise in the mind of one who does not want to know ANY science if he contemplates just a little—the X-ray, electrons, chromosomes, cosmic rays, the radio, color photography, insulin, novocaine, radium, the dynamo, the aeroplane? Is he not at all interested in a balanced diet, vitamins, heredity, or that men have deliberately given their lives that we might have cures for leprosy and cancer? Could such a person acknowledge the possession of a college diploma and not blush when asked for an opinion on evolution, the origin of coal, the causes of eclipses? Would he invest money in a company that proposes to build automobiles using water only as fuel?

This editorial writer states that some master minds are ignorant in some respects. We would like to know of just one master mind WANTED to be ignorant of natural science. What poet would long interest us if he boasted such ignorance? The Barefoot Boy and Snow Bound show an unusually close acquaintance with nature yet Longfellow and Whittier are by no means classed as scientific men. What preacher can draw and hold audiences if he professes ignorance of God's handiwork?

Let a student set out to become a master mind! Can he select a field of activity (if a master mind could be developed by such choosing) in which knowledge of material things is inconsequential? Let the field be abstract mathematics—empty space—lines, points, circles—the circle and ellipse are glorified in the movement of planets, suns, comets, electrons. Let the field be philosophy and the student meets the earlier philosopher who ignored direct observation and experiment making ludicrous conjectures as to the causes of natural phenomena, and creating gods who each day brought up the rising sun and managed the winds and lightning.

Let the master mind's field be economics and social science. Our twentieth century civilization produces perplexing problems over night. An invention results in transferring the indigo industry from the fields of India to German chemical factories—the development of a two hundred million dollar rayon industry at the expense of the silk industry—A radio corporation springs up and a phonograph company stops paying dividends—A new rubber plantation of giant proportions call for natives enough to people a state.

Or, let our master mind be a painter. He will do well to know a little about paints, color interference, and light. And painters usually represent material things. If they always had known a little science, they never would have painted wings on angels. If Coleridge had known just a little astronomy he would not in The Ancient Mariner have described a star between the two horns of the moon—a humorous impossibility.

Ignorance in any field in not a disgrace, but a desire not to know should not be heralded in editorials. It creates only pity.

A PROPHECY

"Good things are better when they are shared." At the Senior tea last week, two members of the class assumed that most responsible task of prophesying their classmates future, and their prophecies sounded so plausible (?) that these productions were considered worthy of publication.

The first young lady was introduced as Miss Lucile Fox. With this brief but meaningful introduction she proceeded in the following words: "As you all know, I am a student at Lebanon Valley College. I came here in 1947 as a Freshman and have now attained the dignity of a Senior. I might mention this, too, that my parents are both graduates of Lebanon Valley. This sounds interesting, doesn't it? They both came to L. V. C. in 1923 and a beautiful romance was the result, followed by their marriage a few years after graduation. My father, Harold Fox, was the captain of one of the best foot ball teams L. V. ever produced and my mother was also an athlete starring in basket ball. I might mention that my mother was known as "Mad" during her college days.

But I've told you sufficient of my history to show you how closely connected I am with this college. And here I am studying so diligently under Prof. Roy Mauer. Why, he is the sole cause of my being here this afternoon. He has requested me and I heartily accepted (me) to make a report on all the graduates of L. V. who have their names in the Who's Who. And I've spent hours in the library—by the way that reminds me that my parents said it is the same library they used when they were at school. But Lebanon Valley must have been an odd looking place at that time! They had no smoking parlors for women, no swimming pool, not ever a decent gym, but that which surprised me most of all was the fact that they had no menagerie in which to keep their beloved pets—in fact they say they couldn't even have any in the dormitories. Why I just couldn't exist without Grant, my pet monkey. But here I am again off my subject and I'm here to give a report.

The first L. V. graduate I noticed in the Who's Who was the great Dr. of Campusology who is world famous. I was surprised to find him with the same Alma Mater I'm hoping to have, but now that I think back I recall hearing my mother say that L. V. was noted for its campusology. Why I am even studying one of his books at the present time, Dr. James Starr's Methods of Campusology.

The president of our own College, Dr. Todd Herr was a graduate of L. V., but he was given a place in the Who's Who for having given $175,000 for the establishment of 50 parlors in which the coeds may entertain—long live our Pres. Herr.

The Dr. Luke Shigeyuki Mura, a graduate of the Class of '27 is noted for his great invention of the formula by which Japanese may grow tall.

Next I discovered the most unusual thing—a person by the name of Jennie Shoop at one time discovered a means of crossing the vast ocean by wading and for some time was the famous teacher of this unusual art. But a disastrous event happened (perhaps not unhappily). While teaching one day she waded higher than her neck and now she no longer teaches.

Robert Knouff has become famous not only as an explorer but as a salesman, for he has become quite wealthy selling refrigerators to Eskimos.

Kathryn Davis is noted for her deanship of women at University of Penna., where her strict discipline is noteworthy.

The next name I found in the Who's Who was Dr. Samuel Clark, the great doctor—I might mention that he is still interested in his Alma Mater for only a few days ago he delivered a sharp address in our chapel which he so thoughtlessly termed a synagogue.

Emerson Metoxin, a remnant of the greatest people that ever inhabited America, has inherited the title of Chief and was the leader of the recent Battle of the Tomahawks.

Almost at the end of the book I discovered Dr. Lucile Meck Kann, the great surgeon who along with the aid of the brilliant Mr. Sprecher, has perfected the Kann operation which removes the cobwebs from the brain.

The last personage I saw was Madame Florence Dundore, the great specialist and captivating lecturer—who happens to be here in person today and has kindly consented to give us such message as is on her heart.

You notice by the last words that a second prophetess was to appear "on the scene" but due to lack of space, her revelations must remain concealed to you for this time. Perhaps they shall appear later. Why not consult these two crystal gazers as to your future?

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

KALOZETEAN GIVES SMOKER TO NEW MEN

Kalo is starting off a big year. This was shown by the literary sessions of the last two weeks. The meeting was held on Thursday, January 13, in order that all members could go to the girls' basketball game on Friday night. When the president, Starr, called the meeting to order every chair was occupied and several members were standing along the sides. The program was of a musical nature, displaying the talent of many new members.

A quartet composed of Brubaker, Hershey, Orwig, and Rhojahn gave several very good selections. Next was a series of popular song hits, given in a masterful way by Hafer at the piano. A second quartet consisting of Kiehner, Aungst, Lewars and Mentzer also sang some popular pep songs. This was followed by a well rendered trumpet solo, by Wampler. He can certainly make that trumpet talk. Light-footed Joe Bruno then gave a very pleasing exhibition of the Charleston. Darkes Albright cracked several jokes, and Disney informed the society on several current events. And last, but not least, Hen Ludwig and Bill Shaw entertained jointly on the piano. These fellows are extraordinary entertainers, of much fame throughout Lebanon County, and are always welcome on the program. Smokes, eats, and cider finally made the evening complete.

On Friday, January 21, the hall was again well filled for a good program. The program that evening was strictly literary and was well rendered. Foerelli gave a very interesting account of the customs of his native country, telling us many new things. We were then well informed on the Mexican trouble by Alwein.

The question: Resolved, that it is better to be rich than goodlooking, was discussed by Vanderwall and Toronto. No agreement was reached, although many ideas were created. Archie Lutz as the jester resurrected mirth after which Ulrich gave us the past, present and future of the basketball season.

CLIOS AND DELPHS
IN JOINT-SESSION

On Friday evening, January 21, the Delphian Literary Society entertained the Clonian Literary Society at a joint session in Delphian Hall. The program, which was well rendered, portrayed a typical "Fireside Evening" as follows:—

Pianologue.....Mary McLanahan
Book Review.....Nelda Spatz
Quartette—Winifred Peck, piano;
Alcesta Slichter, violin; Mary Oberly and Arabelle Overly, vocal duet.

Reading.....Winifred Peck
Solo.....Eleanor Snoko
Debate—Resolved: That there should be a girls' athletic association at Lebanon Valley; Aff., Esther Flickinger, Hilda Hess; Neg., Ruth Strubbar, Madeline Rife.

After the program, the usual social hour followed which was enjoyed by all.

INSTILATION, WIT
AND HUMOR AT CLIO

The newly elected officers of the Clonian Literary Society were duly installed at the regular, weekly meeting of Clio. They are as follows:

President.....Madeline Mark
Vice-President.....Esther Walmer
Recording Secretary.....Mary Geyer
Cor. Secretary.....Mabel Hafer
Critic.....Jennie Shoop
Pianist.....Mary Hartz
Editor.....Mabel Brewbaker
Chaplain.....Emma Shaeffer

After the installation ceremony a very interesting program was rendered. Anyone, who is seeking real wit, need not travel away from L. V. C. in order to find it. Esther Walmer and Anna Mark gave full proof of that. A simple but charming dance brought Alcesta Schlieter and Corinne Dyne into the foot-lights of CLIO Hall. It was done to the tune of "Jingle Bells." The last number was a sketch directed by Kathryn Bork. Liveliness and fun were stellar attractions, portraying the eternal masculine and the eternal feminine.

CLARENCE ULRICH
PHILO PRESIDENT

Scientific discussions were foremost in the Philo program of Friday evening, January 21. The different speakers showed particular ability in giving interesting talks on supposedly serious facts kept the interest at a high tension. The numbers composing the program were:

Exploring the Electron Universe.....Homer Wiest
Weather Predictions.....Ira Matter
Molds.....Harold Herr
Hunting the Ivories.....Robert Jacks Feature Number.....David Rank
Lectures in Psychology.....Leroy Fegley
General Sciences.....Editor

For Friday evening, January 28, a feature program has been prepared. It is made up entirely of a mock trial with the familiar charge of bootlegging as the crime committed by the defendant. Come and see whether the defendant is really guilty as charged. Those taking part in the trial in one way or another are:

Judge.....Samuel Meyer
Defendant.....Carl William Sloat
Plaintiff.....Glenn Bendigo
Lawyer for Defense.....Paul Hunte
Lawyer for Plaintiff.....Albert Kelchner
Witness.....Abram Dohner
Witness.....Harry Stone
Witness.....Uhl Kuhn

Philo held the regular term election last week and the following officers were elected and installed:

President.....Clarence Ulrich
Vice President.....Arnold Zwally
Rec. Secretary.....Harvey Nitrauer
Corr. Secretary.....Daniel Pugh Critic.....Charles Wise
Pianist.....Jacob Horst
Ch. Ex. Comm.....Paul Moser Janitors.....

Joe Campus says he doesn't believe that kissing is unhealthy—he's never been sick.

Fegley (just returning from home): There was a big crowd at church on Sunday night.
Reissinger: New minister?
Fegley: Naw, the place burned down!

Prof. Gingrich (in Law Class): I'm going to call you "Necessity" Lichtenberger.

Prof: Because you know no law.

Zemski: Do you know him?
"Dan": Yeah. He sleeps beside me in History.

Someone has said that in the old days the girl spent the evening wondering whether the man was going to try to kiss her. Now she wonders when. How about it?

"Bawl two," cried the umpire. Correct—twins!

"Speed" Knisley (In Lebanon): May I kiss you if I take you home?
The Girl: I never kiss anyone.

"Speed" (Later): Is your mother at home?

She (After a while): Yeah—but Paw wouldn't let you kiss my mother crew took the lead early in the contest when Hercules Schwalm caged a two pointer, at an angle of one hundred and ninety-five degrees, with the floor. The Toronto Aggies, however, forged ahead when Bovino made two buckets, in rapid succession, from the shadow of the enemy basket. Ruddy Keiser, the referee then took time out to oil his whistle and brush the cobwebs out of the baskets. As soon as play had been resumed, a fowl was called on Toronto for standing on Orwig's shoulders to stop a pass. The Wiestarians, encouraged by the pushing of Mimura, had just launched a powerful center rush when the whistle blew to end the half. The score stood tied at 4 to 4.

During the intermission there were several fast boxing bouts. Among the foremost pugilists was Judge Francis James Marshall, Jr., who won over his roommate, O. K. Myers, by an untechnical knockout in the last round. Toronto and Bavino fought to a pull, Louis Firpo (Condano) won the decision over Kitty Hafer, and Pug Snyder took Bull Zappia for three lively rounds.

The final period of the basketball game found the Aggies unable to cope with the fast running and hard hitting of their opponents. The referee attempted to rob the winners, but the sharpshooting of Captain Wiest and Secretary Schwalm made it impossible. The game ended with the score 13 to 11, unfavorable for the Aggies.

The lineup:
Aggies Wiestarians
Schwalm F. Sneath
Wiest F. Vanderwall
Orwig C. Toronto
Bovino G. Emenheiser
Mumura G. Hertzyer

Referee—Keiser, Lower Village.
The second program of the series was held on January 19. The main event being a basketball game between the preachers of the dormitory and the inmates of room four. The game was very fast and warmly contested throughout. The ministers were in the lead throughout the game, although they were hard pushed by their opponents at times. The first half ended with the score, 16 to 6 in favor of the parsons. The final whistle found the score to be 27 12 in favor of the preachers.

SCHUYLKILL AND ALBRIGHT DEFEATED IN CLOSE GAMES BY BLUE AND WHITE

Record Crowd Fills Lebanon High Gymnasium to See One of the Best Collegiate Basket Ball Games Ever Offered in Lebanon

ALBRIGHT COLLEGIANS PLAY EXCELLENT GAME

In the most interesting game ever played on the Lebanon High School gymnasium, Lebanon Valley College, before a huge crowd of spectators defeated their old rival Albright College by the score of 35-33. Both colleges have a very good team this year which fact made the game a greater drawing card to those interested in the annual basketball contests.

The Lebanon Valley band was appreciated by all and added much interest during the intervals of cheering between the rival colleges. Lebanon Valley College quintet appeared on the floor a few minutes after the Albright team. Cheer after cheer

WALLACES CHRISTEN SON

David Harold Wallace, seven week's old son of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. W. Wallace, was baptized on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Dr. G. D. Gossard, president of Lebanon Valley College. The Christening robe was a dress made by the grandmother, mother of Mrs. Wallace, which is 56 years old, and has been handed down to all the grandchildren, as a Christening robe.

Tea was served after the baptism to these guests: Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Gossard, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Reynolds, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Bennet, Miss Mary Kathryn Wallace and Miss Lucy Sutherland.

President Delivers Sermon on Evening Set Apart as "College Night"

Dr. G. D. Gossard, President of Lebanon Valley College, delivered a sermon in the Annsville United Brethren Church of Annsville, Thursday evening February 10th, to a large audience of both town people and college students. The evening was set apart as "College Night" of the series of evangelistic services which the church had had for a period of three weeks.

The Howard Sisters lead the congregation in a fifteen minute song service, and after prayer by the Rev. J. Owen Jones, the pastor of the College Church, the sisters sang a duet, "Oh Calvary."

Dr. Gossard took his text from Genesis 7:1, "Come thou and all thy

LADIES AUXILIARY'S BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Auxiliary of College Successfully Celebrates Seventh Birthday Anniversary

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Lebanon Valley College successfully celebrated its seventh birthday anniversary on Thursday afternoon, February 10th, the date of the sixtieth anniversary of the college. The birthday program was staged in a perfect setting, the parlors of North Hall which were beautifully decorated for the occasion. The guests included, in addition to the large local representation, members and friends of the college from Lebanon, Palmyra, Hummelstown and New York City.

The president of the auxiliary, Mrs. G. D. Gossard, opened the program with an appropriate address and devotional exercises. Mrs. Gossard

PHYSICAL TRAINING CLASSES HAVE BEGUN

Prof. Stokes is Now Instructing Girls' Gym Classes Twice a Week

Physical Training for girls is beginning to receive recognition at Lebanon Valley. Classes in this important subject are being conducted by Prof. M. L. Stokes, every Monday and Tuesday evenings from 6 to 8 o'clock. Prof. Stokes, who is also coaching basketball for girls this year is a very capable physical instructor, and his courses are much appreciated by every girl.

CAST FOR JUNIOR PLAYS ANNOUNCED

Rehearsals Begin at Once No Date Set for Presentation

Prof P. W. Wallace, head of the English Department made final selections last week for the casts of this year's three Junior plays, and rehearsals are already in progress. The juniors responded very well to the call for tryouts, so that the coach had a wealth of material to choose from. Fully thirty-five of the class of '28 tried for the various parts in the three plays.

The plays selected this year will form a well balanced program. The first is "Ile," a powerful drama of the sea, by Eugene O'Neill, the greatest dramatist in the history of American drama. Sir James Barrie's, "The Well Remembered Voice" will be the second play of the evening. This play which is perhaps the best of Barrie's shorter ones, is taken from his "Echoes of the War." "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," a clever force

ELSWORTH GILBERT DELIGHTS VERY MANY

Adanac Male Quartet to Appear for Last Attraction on Star Course

Ellsworth Gilbert and his Metropolitan Singers rendered, in Engle Hall, February 7th, one of the most delightful concerts that have been heard here for many years. The Star Course Committee, under whose auspices they appeared, is certainly to be congratulated for securing such talent.

The Metropolitan program while primarily vocal, contained just enough of the instrumental music to make it well balanced, and to insure an evening of entertainment for everyone.

The two little Hungarian girls displayed their superior ability on the violin and cello. Mr. Gilbert, coach and director, as basso had an important part in the company's success. The solos of Miss Bonifield, soprano; Miss Jirak, contralto; and Mr. Stockwell, baritone were very much appreciated.

The company rendered selections from grand and light opera, made classics of popular numbers, and used the vocal-instrumental combination very effectively.

The Star Course committee announces that for the fourth and last number it will present a company that is even more popular with American audiences, "The Adanac Male Quartet." This company will appear on March 8th and it is hoped that every student will be out to hear them.

A part of the program is given in Scottish costume, and we will again have a chance to hear some of those old Scottish ballads.

The committee wishes to give you only the best talent, and this can be done, only if you support the committee.

ILLNESS AND GRADES HARD ON GLEE CLUB

Strenuous Efforts of Members and Prof. Rogers Helps Relieve Condition

Apparently, this year is the unlucky year for the Glee Club. This is rather pessimistic statement, no doubt, but, nevertheless, it seems hard luck is continually following the club. At the beginning of the rehearsals everything looked bright and rosy, even though it was necessary for the director, Prof. Rogers, to break in a large number of new members. However, since the Christmas holidays there has been one reverse after another.

The first and most serious was due to the sudden illness of the president, Mr. Alfred Hershey, who has been suffering with pneumonia for several

Mr. Frederick Frantz of the firm of D. A. Lebanon Valley College is exceedingly fortunate and also unique considering the fact that such a course has never before been presented in any collegiate institution of eastern United States.

One hundred and fifteen girls have registered for the course and attended the first lecture on Thursday evening, Feb. 10th. The class will meet one hour every Thursday evening in

Meyer Stars for Blue and White with Five Field Goals

On Saturday, February 5, at Chambersburg, the Lebanon Valley sextette swamped the Penn Hall team by a score of 18-1. The game, which began at 3:30 P. M. was fast and interesting. The Penn Hall team is to be congratulated on its clever, clean passing. Emma Meyer, Lebanon Valley forward, scored five of the total eight field goals. The team as a whole played a fine game, each player doing her bit towards gaining the spoils.

RECEPTION IN THE ALUMNI GYMNASIUM

Tomorrow evening, February 18, the Delphian Literary Society will celebrate its fifth anniversary. The society, which was organized through the inadequacy of one girl's literary society on the campus, has flourished admirably since its beginning. On such an occasion, the best of each girl is required to make a success of this, the big event of the year. Every member is busy and from the outlook of thing, the program this year should be better than ever before. Not only those on the program are working to make it a success but all the members of the numerous committees are cooperating faithfully.

"CHAT BOOK" MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE

The Writers' Club Displays Talent in It's New Publication

Several days ago "The Chat Book," a Writers' Club publication, made its initial appearance on the campus and was well received by the student body. So well did the students like the book that a hurry call for a second edition was necessary.

On Thursday, February 10th, the Writers' Club took charge of the chapel exercises and at that time the cat was left out of the bag. The secret has been in keeping for several months and it was indeed a surprise to many. For several days prior to the appearance of the publication, every student seemed interested in a poster which appeared in the Ad-building and which told of something in the wind. Ingenious minds sought the solution to the problem, but the secret was maintained. In the Thursday morning exercises,

Final work on this year's "Quittie" has begun, and the book is taking shape. A finished sample of the cover, which came in this week, proved to be "delightfully different." The editor has already received the proof for the first "dummy" and is prepared to send in the remaining "Copy" on schedule time. The engravings which are coming through are all of the best and the printer is giving splendid service. Numerous new features have been planned and the art work is especially attractive. Look out for a "best-ever" book! Save your dollars folks—they'll soon be here!!!

HIGH OR LOW STANDARDS? WHICH?

The most discussed question on the campus today is grades and their results. No matter where we turn we hear discussions pro and con on the subject. You are nearly safe, when you see a group in a heated argument, to guess it is one on grades. The questions which always arise are—"Was that exam fair?" "What do you think of this professor's marking?" "What grade did you get in a certain subject?" "Who grades the easiest, who marks the hardest?" But after all these questions have been discussed to their fullest, the one great question which ultimately arises is—"What do you think of sending a student home because of low grades?" Some are in favor of it, while others staunchly oppose it. A few days ago while listening to one of these arguments we gathered the following points on both sides of the question:

It is a known and recognized fact that some persons have higher mental capacities than others. Is it fair to deprive a person of a chance merely because his native ability is lower than that of his classmates? He may be willing and conscientious and may try his level best to succeed in certain courses but fails. He may be able to pass successfully eight hours a semester through concentration on those particular subjects. It may be utterly impossible for him regardless of the amount of energy put on his work to pass seventeen hours a semester. Then, is it fair to deprive him of a college education?

Again, some people had never been taught how to study when they entered college. It takes them at least a semester to adjust themselves and to form a habit of study. Now, is it fair to send them home because of low grades just at the time when they have acclimated themselves?

If an individual is willing to take but eight hours a semester and go to college until he has completed his work, should the college interfere? As long as the person pays his tuition the college should care little whether he stays four years or eight years. It is an individual's concern as to how long he goes to school, the college should only see that only persons successfully completing their work should receive diplomas.

On the other hand we heard the following arguments:

If a student has failed why should the college want him here? It certainly lowers the scholastic standards of a college to send out graduates not fit for the work they will be called upon to do. It always reflects back on the college. Mentally lazy, careless, and indifferent students lower the morale of any school and certainly Lebanon Valley cannot escape this if she retains any type of a student. Do we want to sacrifice the school and the standard of all our graduates and those yet to be graduates for the sake of retaining a few indifferent students?

If it is a rule of Lebanon Valley that when a student has not passed a certain number of hours that he be sent home then let the college uphold that principle. It weakens any individual or organization to say a thing and then not live up to it. If the rule is a wise one, obey it; if not, abolish it.

Often the fact that a boy or girl is sent home because of lack of study opens his eyes and shows to him that in order to make his way in life he must work. There is no room in the world for the indolent individual. If the sending of a student home from college awakens him and proves to be an incentive to him to begin to truly work, then the college has rendered him one of the greatest services of his life—for it will have made of him a man.

Another argument in favor of this action was stated in this manner: "An example to those who remain at Lebanon Valley." Again, if a person who has failed in several subjects should be kept here it would no doubt be a waste of time and money to that student. That individual is fitted for some other trade or profession in life and evidently has not found the right one. We must admit individual differences and if he cannot profit by school life, he will learn in life's school.

house into the ark" the words of God to man, to Noah, in the spiritual setting. In his sermon, Dr. Gosard explained how God has made provision for every one of us to enter into the ark of eternal life just as He spared Noah's earthly life by instructing him to build an ark.

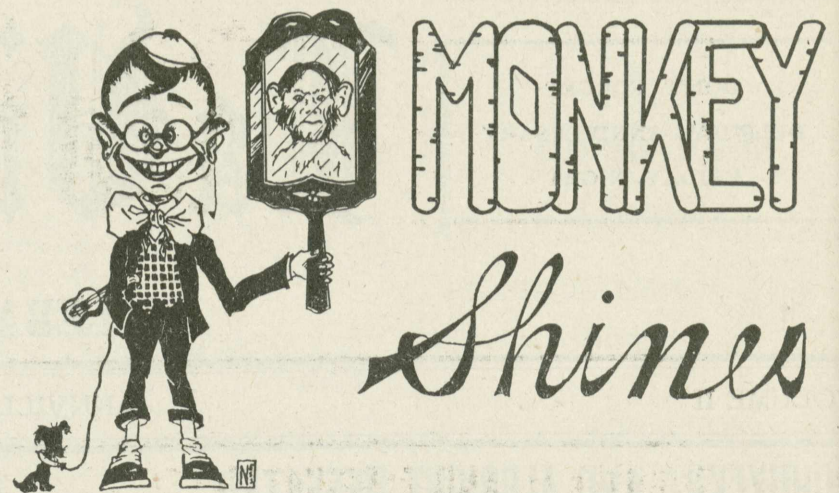

After the sermon, the Howard sisters sang a beautiful duet, "God is willing are you?" An added number was a female quartette, Miss Miriam Oyer, Miss Anna Kreider, Miss Helen Longenecker and Mrs. A. K. Mills. They sang "Teach Me to Pray."

On Wednesday evening, February 9th, Professor G. A. Richie of the college preached on the special service called Sunday School Night.

BASE BALL SCHEDULE IS NEARLY COMPLETED

Besides these definitely arranged games there are three more games pending and have been arranged with the exception of the definite dates on which they will be played. These are with Franklin and Marshall, Juniata, and Villanova. The students are well pleased with this season's schedule and appreciate the work of those who have to do with the arrangement of same.

CLIPPINGS FROM THE LITTLE BLUE BOOK

Tragedy versus Comedy! This is life, and "we're sometimes up and sometimes down." Aristophanes is credited as being the father of Comedy and what a healthy, ever growing offspring he has fostered!

The first week of February staged five days of Tragedy for L. V. students, and each one of us were given a pressing invitation to be a competitor and hand in our contribution to art. The professors sat as judges to decide whether these masterpieces were of a Tragic or Comic strain. Now we will pretend that all these little (?) errors are soldiers marching in before us; we, the Faculty and students, will represent the interested audience.

Now suppose Student X, Y, or Z, that Soldier A would bow to you. He recognizes you as his creator—take Prince Hal's method in dealing with Falstaff—give him the "cold shoulder"! You can't afford to associate with him anymore, why your Future at this institution depends upon your success at throwing over board such associates as he.

The curtain rises. The little soldiers march in. Some of them are rather bulky. They belong to the "stringing a line" division, and it was their weight that proved fatal. Here are some sprightly ones, they should have fared better due to their lack of cumbersome associations—but alas! They are called the "simplified spelling" corps, and are in great disdain.

A little soldier, tattered, torn, maimed and blind steps forward and tells his experience. I am all that remains of one of the girl's notes which she took to class carefully prepared on small cards, but mine was a terrible fate. Suddenly the enemy (Professor) advanced and my mistress, in dire distress lest I be detected, put me in her mouth and chewed me, long and savagely—the only thing that saved me from Jonah's experience was the recharge by the enemy in another direction.

Here is a sprightly little guy who admits that he carried this information in a question on Latin mythology, "The river that flows past Hell is the Styx."

This little soldier-error maintains that his mistaken identity is not as serious as those of his fellows for he happened to be a True-False statement. The only thing his master did was to admit the statement that "Erastus was a Saracus."

Then here is one who in his desire to be accurate gave the French department some information concerning a "Prisoner-ess."

From another corner of the stage ambles this representative of a cross between Economics and English history. He was written as a "bill of attainder" in an economics paper. His correct title? A bill of exchange, of course!

The soldiers in the cutter front deserves the conspicuous place by virtue of the definition he presented in the Physics exam. Listen to him speak! "My first words are one of apology to those who are familiar with the scientific terms we Physicists use. Just now I shall tell you what 'Resonance' is. Whether you are familiar with this word or not, all can easily recognize the worth of this homely definition. 'When the butcher comes within one block of the house, the dog barks and that is resonance!'"

Perhaps by this time the audience is tiring of these individual experiences. There is a still greater treat in store. The English errors were as numerous and so choice that they have decided to stage an examination, made up entirely of recruits from their ranks.

"Examination in English"

1. Identify the following persons:—
A. Lehigh Hunt.
B. Thomas A. Becket.
2. Give the substance of the following:

A. "Ode on a distant prospect of going to Eton College." (Note: This may be helpful ambitious students or students otherwise—)

- B. Irving's "Scrap Book."
- C. Herrick's "Euripides and the Noble Watchman."
- D. Burn's "Lines to Saint Patrick."
- E. Gray's "Eulogy of a Country Church Yard."
- F. Walton's "Complete Angular."

3. Locate and explain the following passages:

- A. "I have taken all knowledge to be my profits."
- B. Sweet is pleasure after pain; None but the brave deserve the beautiful."

4. Discuss the following statements:

- A. Keat's style is noted for its emotional equalities.
- B. Shelley married on a free basis.

C. Defoe was born before the Restoration and after the Chicago fire.

This last selection, being of such superior merit, in its own line, the program will close for the season. As the little soldiers march off, part of the audience is heard laughing and applauding; the other part murmurs, "It may be comedy to you but its tragedy to us."

SCHUYLKILL & ALBRIGHT DEFEATED IN CLOSE GAMES BY BLUE & WHITE

was given alternately by both student bodies and gave great impetus of pep to the players.

In the opening of the fray Lebanon Valley took a fifteen point lead to that of Albright's four points. It was not long however until the score became very close and continued thus until the end of the game. Gelbert, of Lebanon Valley, was in full form and added a few buckets in rapid succession. Throughout the game he was the sensational man on the floor and it was his final field goal which decided the game. The guarding on both sides was very good, while the forwards were kept busy trying to score. Albright showed very good form throughout and were successful in making their shots count at the opportune time. On seven occasions the score was tied. At first they were deadlocked at 20-20. Piela added a field goal and foul and made it 23-20. Greggs, of Albright, then did the same. The next tie was at 28, when Bell forged ahead and "planted" a shot in the bucket from nearly the center of the floor. Clemens added a field and foul to make the score 29-28. The score remained the same for a few minutes. The final gong rang with the score at 30-30. Both captains agreed to a five minute extra period. Lebanon Valley led in the scoring with a field goal and foul. Albright again retaliated with the same score. In the last few seconds Gelbert threw the sphere through the network making the final score 35-33.

Never in history of the colleges was a game so bitterly fought for, and as close in score. One time Albright students went wild, then Lebanon Valley, and vice versa. The Albright center played a very good game but failed to get the tip off from Wheeler during the greater part of the game. Piersol showed great form and was very influential in keeping Albright from scoring throughout the game. Snyder, of Albright, proved to be very alert throughout, and helped a great deal to keep his team in the scoring range.

The game was at all times played with much fervor and in a sportsmanlike manner. The spectators agreed as a majority that it was one of the best basketball games ever played in Lebanon.

Albright has another chance to come back when they play Lebanon Valley in a second game in March. There is no doubt but that it will add even greater interest for both teams are about evenly matched and will in the course of the next few weeks prepare for the final fray.

TRAVELS IN THE "HOLY LAND" ON KALO PROGRAM

Kalo men are interested in travel. This was shown by the very interesting "Travel Night" which was enjoyed by all on Friday evening, Feb. 11th. The travels began in France, the port being The Riviera. This was described by Henry Aungst, and although he does not claim to have lived there, his knowledge of the place would lead one to think he had. Miles Kiehner then told us of some of the thrilling experiences he had while traveling with Kimberly in South Africa.

The next traveler was the only one of the evening who could talk from actual experience. Anyone who missed it, missed something worth while. It was A Visit to the Holy Land, by James Hazelton. The description was very clear and gave everyone a desire to see the great Holy Places. Archie Lutz reversed our sentiment by his account of the Jineros of Borneo, and the Incas of Peru. The program was concluded by Earl Danmoyer's story of the great natural resources of Chile.

In a business meeting, which was held after the literary program, it was announced that work has been started on the Fiftieth Anniversary program. Miss Mary K. Wallace has consented to coach a play and assist in the preparation of the program.

Lebanon Valley College played its first home game of the season at Lebanon, Jan. 31, when they defeated the strong Schuylkill College quintet by the score of 26-20. The game throughout was a closely contested one, for both teams were of practically the same strength. Wonderful opportunities for a higher score were prevailing throughout but both teams were somewhat deficient in making field goals at times when they were easy to be made. Fast team-work featured the playing of both opponents, while a good passing game held the interest of all those present.

Lebanon Valley throughout the game lead in the scoring but in the last four minutes of play the score was tied at twenty. It was at this point that the game became more interesting. At once Lebanon Valley put forth a noble offensive charge, with Schuylkill doing the same. Three field goals were annexed to the local team's score when the bell sounded leaving Lebanon Valley the victor by 6 points.

Preceding the game a preliminary was played between the "Scrubs" and Shenk's Furniture team. The scrubs were victorious by 13-8.

L.V. COEDS 23-ALBRIGHT 32

Before a record crowd in the Lebanon High School, the Lebanon Valley lassies were defeated by the Albright sextette in the preliminary game. The battle was close throughout the game until the last few minutes of play, when the Albright forwards took a sudden spurt and ran up the score to 32 points, making the final score 32-23, Albright. CLIOS AND PHILOS IN CLEVER JOINT-SESSION

Clio-Philo joint session, held February 11th, was a never-to-be-forgotten event in the history of both societies.

Somehow or other Dr. Gossard's home took to moving and moved all the distance to Philo Hall. Perhaps we were seeing dreams of the past just as Scrooge saw the Christmas past—but, no, these were the spirit of the Valentine present. The faculty held a Valentine party!!! Leave it to them for real party "pep." There were hearts aplenty on display. Sad to relate most of them were paper hearts and therefore not to be depended upon.

After the program an hour or so was devoted to sociability. The joint-sessions are coming into the limelight because of the quality and originality of the fun which characterizes them.

EXTEMPORE PROGRAM GIVEN BY DELPHIANS

On Friday evening, February 11, the Delphians showed real talent in their clever rendition of an extemporaneous program. Although preparation is an important factor in the success of a program, sometimes it is well to make a test of ability by this kind of a program.

weeks in a hospital in Harrisburg and, without doubt, is lost to the club for the entire season. This, indeed, is a great loss for Mr. Hershey was the leading tenor and a valuable man on the quartette. While his duties as president are taken by the vice president, J. Bruce Behney, yet his influence and direction will be greatly missed, and without him the club will face a great handicap.

The second reverse came with the illness of Mr. John Walter, a baritone, who is at home suffering with a nervous breakdown. It is doubtful if he will be able to accompany the club on any of its concerts. Other minor illnesses have interrupted the progress of the club.

However, in the face of these difficulties the morale of the club is not broken and every member is resolved to put forth all his efforts in order to overcome these obstacles. It is this spirit which undoubtedly will carry the club through a successful season. Regardless of these conditions the management guarantees a concert program which will come up to the best ever given in previous years. An indication of the determination is shown in the hastily organized quartette consisting of Messers Pugh, Oyer, Brubaker and Mentzer which, with one week before it in which to prepare for the first concert, is practicing at every spare moment. As far as the club numbers are concerned there is not so much difficulty encountered, although the loss of several members due to low scholastic standing was keenly felt.

As was indicated earlier in this article, the first concert will be given on Saturday evening in Reading.

CARL W. SLOAT GUILTY OF MAKING MOONSHINE

A large crowd of interested spectators turned out on Friday evening, January 28, to see the trial of Carl W. Sloat, in Philo Court House. Mr. Sloat was charged with illegally concocting a preparation commonly known as "Mountain Dew." The trial proved to be one of the most bitterly contested trials in history. The Commonwealth, headed by Attorney Kelchner, had a splendid case (law case) to present which slightly overbalanced efforts put forth by the attorney for the defense, Mr. Harry Stone. Both produced powerful witnesses whose testimony was conveniently directly opposite. Because of the partiality shown by Judge Behney, and we do not wish to criticize the court, it was intimated that he had visited the home of the defendant several times and had come away each time with a twinkle in his eye. However, when the jury retired with the evidence, liquid and otherwise, and considered it from all angles, they returned and indicated by actions as well as words that the defendant was guilty as charged in the Nth degree. Sentence was pronounced and the court adjourned.

Those taking part in the trial were:

Judge—J. Bruce Behney.
Defendant—Carl W. Sloat.
Atty. for the Defense—Harry H. Stone.
Atty. for the Commonwealth—Albert H. Kelchner.
Clerk—Paul Moser.
Court Cryer—Harry H. Payne.
Witnesses—Uhl R. Kuhn.
Louis Candano.
Glenn E. Bendigo.
Paul Hunter.
Elmer A. Keiser.
Court Interpreter—Dominic Bovino.

Due to the midyear examinations no program was prepared for the evening of February 4th. The program for February 11th consists of a joint session with the Clonian Literary Society.

The classes must be attended by all Freshmen and Sophomore girls, and may be attended by girls of the upper classes. It is interesting to see that almost every girl is taking advantage of this privilege. We believe this is sufficient interest to deserve more provisions for this valuable course in our curriculum. Probably it will be soon that girls will have the same chances for physical development as men now do.

Miss Alice Kindt told of the beginnings of the "Chat Book" and traced its history down to the time it was ready to be placed in the students' hands. John W. Beattie supplemented the remarks of Miss Kindt with the purpose and principles of the "Chat Book" and gave the students an insight in the workings of the Writers' Club. As a canvass of the chapel was made, Miss Carol Brinser kept those in attendance well supplied with good humor by her campus cracks.

For a long time, many persons have lamented the lack of a proper publication for the expression of self in the form of essays or verse. "La Vie Collegienne" supplied an outlet for some, but there were still fertile and imaginative minds which conceived ideas not in accordance with the general "newsy" spirit of the college paper. All these ideas were developed and brought to the attention of a comparatively few of the students. Ambitions remained unsatisfied, and so when another paper was mentioned, the plan met with instant and unanimous approval. "The Chat Book" resulted and every member of the Writers' Club is justly proud of its achievement.

The Writers' Club is a young but growing, campus activity. Every two weeks its members meet to present and discuss the articles produced during their leisure time. Too much credit cannot be given to Dr. Paul A. W. Wallace for his critical aid and inspiration. The club is truly grateful that they may have the great opportunity to be under such a capable critic. The students may look for great things from this "baby" organization.

The party was one of the pleasant social gatherings of the friends of the college. The unselfish objective of the auxiliary is to beautify the three girls' dormitories on the campus and to subscribe to the college endowment fund. On this particular occasion each guest brought a bag of coins, resulting in a total contribution of more than fifty dollars.

development of furniture from its earliest beginnings to the period of the American Revolution. He emphasized the romance of furniture and its significance to society. A number of periods and designers well discussed, including Jacobean, William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Adams, Sheraton and Duncan Phyfe designs.

Mr. Frantz is a reliable, well informed authority who has devoted considerable time to extensive research in the field of furniture. The Lebanon Valley College girls appreciate his ability, his generosity, and the added honor of being pioneer students in a course of this type. It is a course which meets a real need, aiming to give future homemakers a more comprehensive knowledge of intelligent interior decorating, choice of draperies, selection and correct arrangement of furniture. Mr. Frantz hopes to make the course entirely applicable by having the students arrange model apartments in the Lebanon store after the completion of the lectures.

Blue and White Cagers Strike
Slump in Battle with G-burg

F. & M. GAME THRILLING

In a "free for all" battle Lebanon Valley took the count of Franklin & Marshall basketball quintet Wednesday evening by the score of 42-23. The game was one of great interest. The last half especially was very nerve racking for Lebanon Valley came from behind and decisively outplayed F. & M. In the first half F. & M. completely outplayed the local team due to the fact that the Blue and White was not able to advance the ball to the vicinity of the goal. Bad passing was prevalent in the first half which coupled to Lebanon Valley's inaccurate shots at the basket left F. & M. to accomplish much for their side of the victory. The score at halves was 23-15 with F. & M. in the lead. The forwards of F. & M. were exceptionally good at long shots and performed their

ASHCRAFT AND SHELL SPEAKERS IN CHAPEL

Both are Educational Workers Connected with the United Brethren Church

The college was honored last week by the visits of two prominent denominational educators, the Reverend William E. Schell, A.M., D.D., and the Reverend C. E. Ashcraft, B.D., Ph.D. Dr. Schell is General Secretary of Education in the United Brethren church with offices at Dayton, Ohio. He came in the general interest of the college, to survey its work and to catch something of its spirit. After addressing the entire student body in the chapel exercises, he interviewed students individually, endeavoring to advise them as to their life's work. Dr. Schell was greatly pleased with the atmosphere of our campus and its general tone—moral, spiritual, intellectual, and fi-

LADIES AUXILIARY VISITS SOUTH HALL

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary have become fairly godmothers to the girls of the college. They have invaded the parlor of South Hall, leaving them the more beautiful after the invasion. Luxurious portieres of rich velvet in soft brown and restful green were hung in the two spacious doorways. The long parlor windows are more stately than ever in new curtains with over drapes of brown and old gold. The South Hall girls feel, as girls have always felt towards fair godmothers, appreciative and very grateful.

QUARTET OF WORLD FAME TO ENTERTAIN

Star Course Pleased to Present
Adanac Male Quartet as Last Attraction

On Tuesday, March 8th, the students and friends of the college will be privileged to hear one of the best male quartets in the country. It is recognized throughout the United States and Canada as one of the foremost male singing organizations of the day.

The Adanac Quartet, which will appear under the auspices of the Star Course, was organized in the Dominion of Canada, and both in Canada and in this country critics have unqualifiedly endorsed the singing of this company, praising the remarkable organ-like tonal quality of the

THURSDAY MORNING WAS KALO MORNING

Kalozetean Literary Society took over the chapel exercises Thursday morning, February 17, and presented an enjoyable entertainment. Music, somehow, holds the interest of everybody, especially when it is good music. The soft, flowing tones of a saxophone cause us to sway back and forth, making us wish we were on a dance floor, particularly when a master of the instrument, as Kennedy undoubtedly is, plays it. A good quartet always gets the applause. So it was Thursday morning, an encore being sung. Vocal numbers appeal to us in a certain way, but the gentle, stirring tones of a violin strike

GOSSARDS' ENTERTAIN SENIOR GIRLS AT TEA

Junior Girls also Guests of President and Wife on Wednesday

Mrs. George D. Gossard was hostess to the girls of the Senior class on Wednesday afternoon, February twenty-third, and to the girls of the Junior class on March second. Both affairs assumed the form of afternoon teas. It is in accordance with a charming, well-established tradition that the girls of the college are annually invited to tea at the President's home.

The Senior tea, being the day after Washington's Birthday, was staged in a Colonial atmosphere. Appropriate decorations included American flags and the historic cherry tree. The program rendered by class cousins of the Seniors featured Revolutionary days. Quaint Martha Washington costumes were worn by the performers. Their program consisted of a vocal duet by the Overly sisters, a reading by Mildred Umholtz, a piano duet by Grace Daniels and Violet Krone, a solo by Winifred Peck, and the minuet danced by Mildred Lane, Edna Gorski, Janet Miller, Winifred Peck, Mary Overly, Arabella Overly,

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO ALFRED HERSHEY

Many Seniors Attend Funeral of Former Classmate and President

Funeral services for Alfred N. Hershey were held in the United Brethren church at Hummelstown, on Monday, February 21, at 2:30 P. M., with Rev. G. W. Hallman presiding. Rev. C. A. Snively, of Harrisburg, read the Scripture, and prayer was offered by Rev. H. F. Rhoads, of Highspire. The college quartette consisting of Mentzer, Brewbaker, Pugh, and Oyer gave several well rendered selections. The obituary was read by Rev. A. E. Lehman, of Harrisburg. Rev. S. C. Enck preached the sermon, and Dr. G. D. Gossard gave a very fine address.

The pallbearers were: Raymond Wood, Floyd Lichtenberger, Rodney Kreider, Milford Knisley, J. Luverne Snively, and Carl Bachman, all of whom were close friends of Mr. Hershey during his three and one-half years at college. There were many flowers, all of which were very beautiful. Almost every organization on the campus paid their respect by sending flowers.

Present Their Initial Program

The Glee Club of Lebanon Valley College opened its schedule on Saturday evening, February 19, in Reading before a large audience. The club appeared in the Y. M. C. This concert was also well attended.

Due to the death of the president of the club, Mr. Alfred Hershey, the members were under a great handicap in both concerts, for Mr. Hershey

INTERESTING RECITAL BY MUSIC STUDENTS

A Student Recital was held by the Conservatory of Music of Lebanon Valley College in Engle Hall, Tuesday, February 15. The program consisted of numbers from all the departments of music except the violin. It is interesting to know that the Conservatory is growing, for there were three new people to make their debut.

The program was as follows: "Fairy Frolic," (Williams), Alice Richie; "A Little March," (Burbank), Helen Kreider; "First Study in Chords," (Addison), Catharine Kreider; "Elves at Play," (Terry), Helen Butterwick; "Curious Story," (Hel-

MANY ALUMNI AND FRIENDS ATTEND ANNIVERSARY

MRS. O. E. REYNOLDS CONFINED TO BED

Mrs. O. Edgard Reynolds, wife of Prof. Reynolds of the Education Department, has been confined to her home due to serious illness for more than two weeks. She is greatly missed, especially by the college girls who know her as their loyal Sunday school teacher. They all hope that her recovery will be rapid.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE BY REVEREND KNIPP

The Reverend J. Edgar Knipp, of Baltimore, one of our most capable representatives in the United Brethren missionary field of Japan, honored the college by a brief visit on February twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth. On Sunday morning he addressed the college girls Sunday School class in the absence of their teacher, Mrs. O. Edgard Reynolds. He brought the message of the hour in the church services of the morning and presented remarkable lantern slides of the old Island Empire and the new Japanese Republic in the evening. On Monday morning he ad-

ASHCRAFT SPEAKER AT JOINT-SESSION

Dr. Ashcraft of Bonebrake
Seminary gives Stirring Address

A joint session of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. was held in Engle Hall, Sunday, Feb. 20th. Leroy Fegley had charge of the service. Benetta Burrier furnished a special, vocal number with Nelda Spatz as accompanist.

President Gossard then introduced Dr. Ashcraft, of Bonebrake Seminary, who brought the message of the evening in a deeply original manner. His subject "Paying the Price" presented new avenues of thought towards the ever new yet ever old vision of ideals. He not only compared ideals but also pointed out the trails by which they can be reached. As one of the most inspiring and thought-provoking addresses, of the year, its influence upon the campus has already been marked. Altogether the hour was very pleasantly and profitably spent.

Dr. Ashcraft delivered several other messages of merit and power during the time that he spent on the campus. Most certainly the silently expressed wish of not a few must have been that he should come this way again.

Friday evening, February 18, the Delphian Literary Society, for the fifth time in its history, entertained faculty and friends with its Anniversary program. For a few weeks there had been whispering and hustling among the Delphians. Friday evening showed that all the hurry and hard work had not been wasted, for this indeed proved the banner year for Delphian.

The first part of the program included the invocation, the president's welcome, and a group of songs by Pearl Lindenmuth. Lola Desenberg, one of the society's alumni, offered the invocation. Florence Dundore, in a few well chosen words, explained the main feature of the program and by her manner and words of welcome, prepared the audience for the play which followed. Pearl Linden-

Body

Saturday evening at eight o'clock the Girls' Debating Teams opened their debating season, a new adventure in the history of L. V. C. for the co-eds. The initial debate was held with one of the strongest teams in the State—Ursinus College. Although the home team realized defeat was almost certain, they kept their poise and not once did they disregard the fact that if defeat must come, it will come only after every womanly effort has been put forth to avoid it. The chairman for the occasion, Mr. A. K. Mills, surely did help much to keep up the morale of the team by his suitable witty remarks. The question "Resolved, That the United States should cancel the War Debts owed to it by the Allied Nations" was

FRENCH TEA PARTY IN NORTH HALL

Mrs. Mary C. Green, assisted by her daughter, Miss Yvonne Green, was a charming hostess to her class in conventional French on Monday afternoon, February twenty-eighth, at a French tea in North Hall parlor. All conversation was in French; decoratious, games and refreshments all helped to a truly Parisian atmosphere. The guests were enchanted by the novelty and originality of the affair, and have concluded that they have had a very educational experience. Mrs. Green plans to arrange a French tea every two weeks during the spring months.

IN MEMORIAM

Again the grim victor death has visited our campus and has taken with him one who was very dear to us. Alfred Nissley Hershey son of Rev. and Mrs. I. Moyer Hershey passed into the great beyond leaving behind him many friends and admirers, who shall long cherish memories of his beloved kindness.

We the students and faculty of Lebanon Valley College wish to convey our sincerest sympathies to the family and friends of the deceased.

THE POINT SYSTEM

The point system which is working on a large percentage of the campuses of United States, is a system whereby every office in any club or organization is equivalent to a certain number of points and no student may carry more than a specific number. This would open the door to many more office holders than we find at present, for those with outstanding ability who attempt to function in so many organizations would be limited. An individual could not be president of a large organization and hold an important office in another club. This gives the other student a chance. There are many hidden abilities on every campus and often becoming a leader in some organization will bring his ability to the front.

There is not a person on the campus who would dare venture to say that we do not need something to change this unfortunate situation on our campus. With no less than 30 organizations and clubs, it is easily seen that a few capable individuals will bear the majority of the offices unless something will check it otherwise. And what would be better than a point system? Again, all realize that it is impossible for anyone to be equally interested in two or more organizations. That individual may succeed splendidly in both, but if he could concentrate all his time and work in one organization, the weight of that organization would not stop within the campus. What would our organizations and clubs portray if they had as their leaders the hidden talent of individuals who were conscientious and vitally interested in their work and who could give all of their time to its advancement? Our campus would be wide awake if such were the conditions. Some may say that it is a system for large colleges and universities, but the small campus is the one on which it is most needed. For it is on the small campus where all know the able and talented students and where all organizations covet his leadership that we find a few bearing the whole burden.

Some may say, "Yes, it is a lovely ideal to talk about but that is as far as it would go. Will you say THAT when hundreds of colleges have taken the steps and instituted such a system? We dare say not one of you would say that Lebanon Valley cannot do what other schools have done. It is not a difficult thing to do. All that is necessary after everyone on the campus is willing to see a system like this is to have a committee work on the number of points to be given for each office and the total number permissible to any student. What would be the results? They are clearly seen. We would not have any student overworked with extra-curricular activities as we find them now on the campus, and more students would be given a chance for leadership and experience. There are many who believe that extra-curricular work is half of your training at college and if that is true should we not try to train more along that line? We are debarring some from this vital experience as long as we permit one student to hold more than one presidency or to hold a presidency and several other offices in our organizations. We BELIEVE in giving to every student all we can and all that college life should give him. Let us do what we believe.

was a leading tenor on the club and sang second tenor on the quartette. As it was practically impossible to completely organize a new quartette in the short time afforded, the program was rearranged and the quartette, with Mr. Russell Oyer filling Mr. Hershey's place, only appeared once, but received a hearty encore. Besides the difficulty caused the club by this vacancy, a feeling of sadness pervaded the members which could not be hidden entirely during the rendition of both concerts.

However, favorable comment on the quality of the program came from many sources, and several individuals who have heard the club in former years stated that the chorus numbers are the best in its history. This speaks well for both the club and its director, Prof. George Rogers, who have been laboring under many difficulties all year.

Considerable appreciation was shown the club for its appearance in the Sunday Scholl and Church services in the United Brethren Church in Reading on Sunday morning in which it rendered several selections.

The schedule will be resumed on March 11, when the club leaves on the annual trip to New Park, Dalls-town, Baltimore and Washington.

Alumni Notes

Every Literary Society Anniversary brings back to us the old "grads." Among those who returned to celebrate Delphian's fifth birthday were: Lola Desenberg '25, Isabella Smith '25, Kathryn Nisley '25, Iva Weaver '27, Francis Friedley '27, Mary MacDougal '26, Olga Smith '25, Edith Geyer '25, Elsie Clark '25, Ver-na Seitzinger '25, Madeline Hark '29, and Margaret Stern '28.

Edwin Harold White, A.B., '17, went overseas during the late war. Upon his return he was employed by the Aetna Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. After serving with that company at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Huntington, W. Va., he was called to the home office at Hartford where he was put in charge of a large group of men. About two months ago he was honored by being elected an Assistant General Agent with officers in Philadelphia. While here he took part in athletics, was a leader along Christian lines, and a general leader with the student body. This paper extends congratulations to him for the new honors which have come to him.

Carroll R. Daugherty, A.B., '21 taught for several years after graduation in Mercersburg Academy. Later he entered the graduate school of the University of Pennsylvania to study history and sociology. About two weeks ago, at the end of the first semester he received the Doctor of Philosophy Degree.

ensemble work and the excellent individual artistry.

Splendid as the quartet is in the rendition of numbers of genuine musical worth, ranging from grand opera selections to old Scotch ballads, it also ends in the presentation of songs of a humorous character. As a matter of fact, the program is calculated to bring many an uproarious laugh. The humorous musical monologs of H. Ruthven McDonald, manager of the quartet, are always a feature of the program.

The Star Course is very anxious to have a crowded house. You make possible our securing of the best talent by your support. Have it said that you have heard one of the best quartets in Annville. You can do that for the small sum of fifty cents. We are lowering the price so that every person can have the opportunity.

SEXTETTE CONQUERS GETTYSBURG CO-EDS

Nell Raubenstein Plays Stellar Game, Scoring Twenty-eight Points

Saturday, February 19, the Lebanon Valley sextette conquered again! The co-eds defeated the Gettysburg team by a score of 47-17. Nell Raubenstein starred for the home team scoring twenty-eight points of the total score.

Line-up:
Lebanon Valley Gettysburg
Raubenstein (Capt.) F. Schussler
Lane F. Fisher
J. Miller C. Longanecker
I. Miller S. C. M. Richards
Fencil G. Fogel
Mark G. E. Richards (Capt.)

Total score—Lebanon Valley, 47; Gettysburg, 17. Substitutions—Myer, March, Cochrane, Borden. Referee, Mayer, Harrisburg.

COLLEGIATE CIRCLES

None of us is so narrow that our circle of interest is confined to our own Lebanon Valley Campus. We are all interested in what other college students are doing and thinking on the campuses.

The following paragraph appeared in "The Bucknellian": "Inter-class Council received astonishing information on Monday night, February 7, when Frank Sedlack, '30 who had been reported for visiting the College Inn during the forbidden hours, confessed that he never read the Bucknellian and therefore was not familiar with the new Frosh rules. It seems that Sedlack did not know that such a paper was published. He was compelled to wear a sign for the balance of the week to remind him that the Bucknellian is printed to be read." Certainly every L. V. Freshman reads the "La Vie Collegienne" and could not be charged for not knowing of the existence of our school paper.

The "Albright Bulletin" contained this startling head line: Student Government Proposal Offered To Men Rejected Until Status Quo Is Changed—Decide To Wait Until Something More Definite is Offered—Correct Kind of Government Will Be Welcomed—Plenty of Discussion Offered Among Students—Time is Ripe is Claim. According to the article following this head line the men of Albright College are quite aroused over this new issue. "A short discussion under the direction of the presidents of the upper classes took place (in chapel) with a number of spirited arguments, revealing the fact that there is some support for the idea."

"The Gettysburgian" informs us that "The Radio Club" of their campus elected its new semester officers. If new radios are continually being erected in the men's "dorm" at L. V. C., it is probably that the "radio fans" may band together for the extension of work in the radio world. Evidently Gettysburg has a live-wire club. "At the present time the club members are busy building a transmitter, and expect to have it in operation within the next week. This transmitter is in the tower of Glatfelter Hall and will be operated from the Radio Club room. The club is planning to relay messages for the members of the college."

Day by day girls' glee Clubs are becoming more important and are seeking to be recognized. The girls at Bucknell have about the same opinion as our own L. V. C. Co-eds. Their club has arranged for a small tour. Why not? Here's just a part of the article: "The Girls' Glee Club has been rendering the air about the Music School so much lately that queries have been received concerning its intentions. The consensus of opinion seems to be that they are wasting their efforts within the confines of Miss Pine's studio, and ought to strive for bigger and better halls and audiences."

Since the lecture "In Defense of the American Constitution" was delivered by Hon. Clinton N. Howard in the United Brethren Church of Annville, everyone has been thinking more seriously than ever of the possibility of repealing the 18th amendment. Here's students' opinion: Concerning the student referendum on the Volstead law, the Chicago Post says, "A student referendum on various phases of the wet and dry controversy, in which votes were cast by 7,800 students, representing 37 American universities, presents as its most significant result, the fact that only 937 students or 12 per cent favored repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

DELPHIANS STAGE HISTORICAL DRAMA IN COMMEMORATION OF FIFTH BIRTHDAY

moth has appeared on the Lebanon Valley stage many occasions during her college life and has never yet disappointed an audience. On Friday evening, she was at her best. Her three selections were rendered with technique and expression.

The second part of the program consisted of the historical drama, "Peggy Shippen" written by M. K. Wallace of the English department. The curtain rose upon a colonial drawing room, and immediately the audience was carried back to the time of the Revolutionary War, and the events in which all American take so much pride. Again, as many years ago, Peggy Shippen, the belle of Philadelphia, was advised by her parents—nay, ordered by her father—to turn away the brave General Benedict Arnold; for stories of his extravagance were afloat in the city. However, the general had won her heart, and Mr. Shippen could not but relent in the face of her grief. When Peggy's heart was divided by love for her sweetheart and loyalty to her father, Mollie, the single hearted Quaker girl, who had been reared in the family, showed her that love should be given its way. Arnold's frank story of the reprimand he had been given by General Washington, served only to increase her sympathy and love for him. The wedding ceremony, which was performed, was very characteristic of the times and very spectacular as result of the beautiful costuming. A few years later, Benedict Arnold and his wife and baby were in straitened circumstances but Peggy's love never wavered. Arnold was worried. He had never forgiven the American cause for the treatment he received in its service. Moreover, he wanted money with which to make Peggy happy. Major Andre of the British Army, called secretly and Arnold, not without qualms of conscience, handed over the plans of the fortifications of West Point of which he was then in command and received gold in return. Too late, he repented of his treason and Peggy entering the room found him in an excited condition. In amazement, she listened to the questions he put to her. "Would she always love him, no matter what happened?" to each question, she answered in the affirmative, with the explanation that "I'll always love you, Arnold. We do not love people because they are good or strong or wise but—because they are themselves." Suddenly, Saunders, Andre's attendant, burst into the room with the news that Andre had been captured with the treasonable papers in his possession. All was lost and Arnold's only safety lay in flight. Upon one person, he still relied and to that one he turned for comfort. But alas, his last and worst deed had lost to him the love of his own faithful wife. Sadly and slowly, he passed from the room. Only when the sound of his footsteps had died away, and the door had closed upon him, did Peggy recall her promise to him. She would love him always because he was himself. And so ended showing Peggy overwhelmed with the realization that she loved her husband in spite of all.

Throughout the play, the audience was held tense, the success of the drama was in large part due to the fine manner in which all the actors played their roles. Darkes Albright portrayed the character of Benedict Arnold in a most satisfactory manner, whether in yielding to temptation of treason, or in making love to Peggy. Kathryn Young, as Peggy, played the part to perfection. It was an emotional role, requiring real act-

CLIOS GIVE LOW- DOWN ON A CO-ED

The evening of Feb. 25th was a cheerful evening in the annals of the Clonian Literary Society. The judiciary committee provided a program, interesting in every detail, under the name "A Day with a Co-ed." The following was the order of routine:

Sociology -----Eleanor Snoko
Chemistry -----Elsie Reider
Dinner -----Nelda Spatz
English -----Gladys Knaub
Harmony -----Fae Bachman
Supper -----Nelda Spatz
6-7:30 P.M. -----Mabel Brewbaker

Everyone came away realizing that Co-ed life is a round of work and play that can't be beaten for "love nor money."

After such a successful program the Clonian Literary Society wishes to congratulate the Delphian Literary Society on the success of their fifth anniversary.

A week later, on March second, the Junior girls were entertained by the same hostess. A bewitching program was rendered by talented members of the Freshman class, followed by tea and the sort of social hour which college girls most thoroughly enjoy.

ing, as did that of Arnold. From the picture of Peggy weeping at her father's orders, to Peggy standing like a statuette immune to the entreaties of Arnold, and finally heart-broken at the fall of the curtain, every action was engraved on the minds of the audience. Kind-hearted Mrs. Shippen played by Mary McLanahan, and her conscientious husband, Wade Miller, will long be remembered, as well as Katherine Flinchbaugh, as the tender Quaker girl, worrying about her sweetheart at Valley Forge. James Starr as Major Andre, Hilda Heller as the minister, and Elmer Keiser as Saunders portrayed their roles admirably.

The reception was given afterwards in the Alumni gymnasium, which had been transformed to an arbor of roses, under the able direction of Louise Fencil.

The Delphians take this opportunity to thank Miss Wallace for her untiring and intense efforts to make the affair a success, to Professor Shenk for his aid in collecting the contemporary historical material, and to all the boys, both those who assisted in the dramatization and those who assisted on the various committees.

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

KALOS AND PHILOS IN JOINT-SESSION

On Friday evening, February 25, a precedent was established which probably will continue throughout the coming years of Lebanon Valley. The Philokosmian Literary Society entertained the Kalozetean Literary Society in a joint session in Philo hall. This is the first time in the history of the societies that this has ever taken place, and is an indication of the growing feeling of friendship between the societies. The program was entitled "Something Different" and the title was well chosen in more ways than one.

In order to follow out the idea of "something different" the order of the program was entirely reversed, and the audience partook of refreshments at the very beginning, and after listening to the critic criticize a program not yet rendered, all enjoyed the numbers which occurred thereon. The entire program is as follows:

Refreshments
Critic's Report -----Charles Wise
Where are the World's Wars Taking Us? -----Roy Flock
Selection -----Octette
Trans-Oceanic Telephone

-----Homer Wiest
Illustrated Lecture-----James Hazleton
Selection -----Octette
Lebanon Valley Infirmary-----Paul Moser, Howard Allan, Dominic Calabrese, Luke Mimura, Uhl Kuhn.
Social Hour

There were many points of extreme interest in the program. Mr. Flock, in connection with his topic, reviewed the situation in Nicaragua and China and afforded the audience a chance to get a conception of the relation which these conflicts have on the progress of the world as a whole. The talk by Mr. Wiest, the Steinmetz of the Senior class, was interesting, not only because of the information he was able to give concerning the wonderful improvements made upon the telephonic system, but also because of the flashes of humor he was able to intersperse throughout his discussion. Mr. Hazleton related his experiences while traveling in France, Italy, Spain, Turkey, and Palestine. He added to his talk by having a large collection of trinkets which he picked up in these various countries. He related many thrilling experiences and also some which were quite humorous. He ended in a clever manner by announcing that the most extraordinary trinket which he ever picked up was one which he got in this country and after carefully opening a package produced a freshman dink. The final number of the program produced the thrills.

After the conclusion of the program the appetite of those in the audience again called for refreshments which were served again, this time more completely. A short social hour followed.

Rev. Knipp is a graduate of Johns Hopkin University and of Bonebrake Theological Seminary. Having devoted the past twenty-five years of his life to missionary service in Japan, he speaks as an authority upon Far East development, difficulties, and projects. His plea for the Japanese is for less legislative discrimination against Japanese immigrants to America. His vision of the future is one of international brotherhood and good-will, with "malice towards none and charity for all," a universal fra-

PHILOS HAVE SHORT AND VARIED PROGRAM

A very short literary session was held in Philo Hall on the evening of February 18. The program was shortened in order to allow the members of Philo to attend the Delphian anniversary program which was held later in the evening. The program later in the evening. The program which was rendered was as follows: Why Study Math?-----Elias Kline
Osteopathy -----Francis J. Marshall
Piano Solo -----Robert Jacks
Conditions in China-----Lloyd Weber

The Philokosmian Literary Society is pleased to extend to the Delphian Literary Society its heartiest congratulations on her fifth anniversary. Her rapid growth and progress in her short history is recognized by Philo as an indication of earnest endeavor toward the upbuilding not only of the society but of the institution as a whole.

The college was well represented at the funeral. The entire faculty was there in a body, the Glee Club was present in its entirety, and almost every member of the Senior class was there. Many other students, as well as several members of the Kalozetean Literary Society, of which Mr. Hershey was a member, were present.

During his stay here at Lebanon Valley Mr. Hershey had been very active in every phase of college life. He was a member of the Glee Club for four years, having been elected to the office of president for the last year. As an athlete he showed much skill in tennis, and was manager of that sport in his Junior year. His ability as an orator will always be remembered, for the record he made on the debating team last year. The Senior class recognized his ability as an executive, and elected him to be its president during the last semester of its college history. He also took an active part in the affairs of the Kalozetean Literary Society.

Statistics show that 58.3 per cent of the students attending Lebanon Valley College are not pursuing any definite course with the exception that they are on a honeymoon.

The Ten Commandments of the Mohawkers' Association.

- 1—When eating peas with a knife first mash the peas to avoid their getting away from you.
- 2—Don't drink coffee from a saucer (Use a plate—you get more).
- 3—Help yourself. Don't worry about other people at the table.
- 4—When reaching for something, keep one foot on the floor.
- 5—When reaching for bread, don't use a fork—you may stab someone's hand.
- 6—The man who can sneeze his soup up on the chandelier is SOME sneezer.
- 7—Don't yell about side dishes. Your stomach has no partitions.
- 8—Soup should be "zipped"—not gargled.
- 9—It's no crime to trip the waiters.

the imagination in a way that voices cannot. Lewars and Shroyer make a good duet with the violin, and they certainly proved it that morning. Speaking of syncopation at the piano, Ludwig absolutely is a master. A normal person can hardly sit still when he plays that lively, snappy music. It fills everyone with pep and happiness. Unfortunately the time allowed was short, so that the boys had to omit some very fine numbers due to lack of time.

Kennedy started the program with a solo on the saxophone, Ludwig at the piano. Next came the quartet consisting of Kiehner, Shroyer, Ebersole, and Mentzer. Next in line were Lewars and Shroyer in a violin duet, while last but not least came Ludwig, with his own interpretation of popular numbers, at the piano.

Last Friday night was a red letter night for the men's literary societies. For the first time they held a joint session. At the invitation of Philo Kalo visited its brother in Philo hall. An entertainment of a unique character was presented entitled, "Something Different,"—and it was!

CONGRATULATIONS

The Kalozetean Literary Society wishes to congratulate the Delphian Literary Society on the success of her fifth anniversary. The society's wishes are that our sister-society, may enjoy further the progress made by her during her five years as a literary society.

nancial. He will report his survey to his Board of Education.

Dr. Ashcraft visited us several days later, coming with the thought of Lebanon Valley College in its relation to Bonebrake Theological Seminary. Being a professor of the Seminary, he was in position to interview those of our Seniors who anticipate Seminary work next year. On Sunday, Dr. Ashcraft spoke in the morning and evening services of the college church, and in the Joint Session of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. He spoke to the students alone in chapel on Monday and Tuesday mornings. Half a dozen of last year's graduates are now at the Seminary. Dr. Ashcraft found that a number expect to enter next fall. He, as well as Dr. Schell, was very enthusiastic about conditions as they found them here.

task of throwing them in free of the basket from all angles of the floor. Wheeler of Lebanon Valley, played a great defensive game although he suffered from a sprained ankle. Miller, who substituted for him played remarkably well in the same capacity. Piela got away to a good start in the second half and played a very brilliant game. Defensive and offensive he was a star and was very accurate in his shots. It was the fighting spirit of the home team for their school which made them put forth renewed effort to come back and forge ahead in the scoring lines. Piela had the most points individually when he boosted his total to 24. F. & M. must be given credit for their exceptional floor work and decisive shooting at critical periods of the game.

IN A SLUMP

Gettysburg College cagemen passed their way to a 58 to 19 victory over the Lebanon Valley quintet at Gettysburg Feb. 21. It was the worst defeat Lebanon Valley has tasted this year. Gettysburg showed some fine exhibition passes, which, coupled with their fine shots, made from all angles of the floor, was too much for the local boys. Due to the fact that the participants of the Lebanon Valley team were injured and unable to do their best, the score was thus advanced to such an extent. All through the game Gettysburg lead in the scoring. At the end of the first half Gettysburg led 37 to 5. In the latter half the local team retaliated with some better passing but failed to overcome the early lead. Haller, of Gettysburg, was leading scorer with 12 field goals and 5 foul goals, while Gelbert, of Lebanon Valley, led his team with 9 points.

defended by Misses Mary Ax, Hilda Heller, Hilda Hess and Corinne Dynne, alternate. The negative team consisted of Misses Mary Garber, Gladys Park, Elizabeth Miller and Bertha Weaver, alternate. The judges were Attorney Ray G. Light, J. Walter Esbenschade, and Rev. C. E. Lieber. The debating teams are indebted to Miss Viola Wolfe and Winifred Peck, for the organ solos and group of songs that added greatly to the evening's enjoyment.

The first debate is over and lost. No, the debaters did not lose alone. Lebanon Valley College lost. The loss may not entirely be placed upon inability or lack of training. A potent factor of success in college activities is often determined by school spirit. The girls tried and tried hard. An audience, less than three-score, hardly warrants that the best has been done by the student body. The debaters are going to do their level best on Thursday evening, when they meet Schuylkill in a dual debate. May we count on the student body?

LAFAYETTE CAGERS LOSE TO MYLINMEN

Blue and White Outclass the Strong Lafayette Team
at Easton

Lebanon Valley decisively outplayed Lafayette College at Easton, March 3, by defeating them 28-22. It was the biggest floor on which the local team has played this year. This offered exceptionally good chances for some good passing. Lafayette opposed with much fight but were unable to overcome the lead held by Lebanon Valley throughout the second half of game. The first half was particularly closely contested for Lafayette lead at half time by the score of 14-8. Gelbert was high scorer for Lebanon Valley with 5 field goals and 2 fouls.

JUNIORS WILL SHOW DRAMATIC ABILITY

Program of Tragedy, Everyday Life and Subtle Humor will Feature

The evening of March 23rd, has finally been chosen as "gala night" for the Juniors. Three splendid, one-act plays, "Ile" by Eugene O'Neill, "A Well-Remembered Voice" by Sir James Barrie and "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" by Bernard Shaw will furnish a program of tragedy, everyday life and subtle humor.

The caste of each of these plays has spent many hours, studying and, learning to interpret the parts which have been assigned to them by the director, Dr. Wallace. Success depends not only upon the ability of the actors to perform their parts easily but also skillfully and is the quality which they are striving to acquire. On the other hand much of the success of these plays is in the keeping of the student body and the friends of the students. The performance will be worth-while. The players are earnest and well-trained. The audience should be large and sympathetic. Come out and support the Juniors.

SENIORS ELECT ROY V. MOUER PRESIDENT

Owing to the death of the Senior Class leader, Alfred Hershey, a new president was elected at a special business meeting of the class, to take his place. Roy V. Mouer, of Oakville, Penna., was the one chosen to head the class for its final semester at Lebanon Valley. He is a leader among the men of the school, and was manager of this year's football team. The duties of the Senior class president require time and responsibility owing to the graduation exercises, many of the arrangements, of which have to be made by the class. We feel confident that our new president has the ability to carry out his functions as president of the class of '27 in its final work.

E. L. Mark of Harvard Offers Use of Facilities

CLASS WILL BE LIMITED TO FIFTEEN STUDENTS AND WILL EMBARK JUNE 20

Lebanon Valley College will be extended to the Bermuda Islands during the 1927 summer session, it has been recently announced. The college has approved the plan of Dr. S. H. Derickson, to conduct a class in Marine Biology at that place. The schedule of travel from Annapolis to Bermuda and return is completed, and a limited number of steamship reservations will be made.

The idea of this trip for study was originated by Dr. Derickson about a year ago. It was related to several graduates and present students of the college, all of which though well of it. A desire was expressed by all to take the course if it could be offered. Accordingly investigations were made, and it was found that the conditions would be favorable. The plan was then authorized by the authorities of the college, who decided that eight semester hours shall be accredited for the work, which may count either toward a Bachelor's, or a Master's degree.

The class will leave Annapolis for New York, by the Reading Railroad, on June 20, and will stop at the Hotel Majestic in New York City. Several days will be spent, in the Botanical Gardens in the Bronx, the American Museum of Natural History, the Zoological Garden, and the marine Aquarium. The group will leave New York on the Furness Bermuda Line, on June 25, and will arrive in Bermuda on June 27. The time will be spent there in the collection and study of the various marine plants and animals, with particular reference to their habits, morphology, and ecological relationships. The party will leave Bermuda on July 26, and will arrive in Annapolis on July 28.

Prof. E. L. Mark, of Harvard College, director of the Bermuda Biological Station for Research, is cooperating with Dr. Derickson and has extended a cordial invitation to the class to make use of the facilities the station has to offer. Mr. L. L. Mowbray has also extended an invitation to the class to study the rich collections of marine life exhibited in the Bermuda Aquarium, of which he is director. The cooperation of the men in charge of the Botanical Garden, the Zoological Garden, the American Museum of Natural History and the Marine Aquarium, has also been assured. With the help of all these men the students will surely feel at home wherever they are studying.

ALBRIGHT REVENGES WITH BITTER DEFEAT

Mylinmen Fail to Get Started with Rivals in Final Game of Season

The old rivals—Lebanon Valley and Albright—staged their annual basketball game on the Lebanon High floor wherein Albright retaliated for their first defeat by defeating Lebanon Valley 50-39. It was a loosely played game throughout, Albright at all stages having the edge on Lebanon Valley in passing and shooting goals. It seemed that while Albright was very efficient in making goals Lebanon Valley lacked the necessary fight to come through. At all angles of the floor Albright shot perfectly. Their offensive work was well displayed. Lebanon Valley had many chances at the goals but failed to throw them perfectly. The score at half time was 24-19 in Albright's favor. The latter half was

It appears that the Point System is going to be given a trial at Lebanon Valley. The joint Faculty-Student Council is preparing to take definite action upon the matter and perhaps till another year Lebanon Valley will enjoy the results of such a system. The Women's Student Government Association has already discussed the matter and approved its adoption. Other organizations on the campus are preparing to discuss it.

DR. AND MRS GOSSARD ENTERTAIN AT TEA

According to the annual custom of our honored President and his wife, the Sophomore girls were entertained at a tea at the home of the President. The program for the tea was presented by the class cousins—the Seniors—whose numbers on the program were very select and extremely novel.

The program opened with a piano solo by Grace Daniel. "My Shadow," recited by Mary McLanahan and pantomimed by Myra Shaeffer afforded much amusement and was thoroughly enjoyed. The two selections, "The Mither Heart" by William Stickler and "The Japanese Love Song" by Clayton Thomas, were sung by Lucille Kann and were followed by an original poem dedicated to the Sophomores entitled "My Sisters" by Madeline Mark. Grace Daniel played a second piano solo and the

The Girls' Debating Teams met the Schuylkill Girls' Teams in a dual debate on Thursday evening, March 3rd, resulting in a two to one victory for both of the opponent's teams. Both contests were characterized by enthusiasm, school spirit, and friendly rivalry. The question for the season, "Resolved, That the United States should cancel the War Debts owed to it by the Allied Nations" was ably defended by well-trained, thoroughly-informed contestants.

The Men's Glee Club of Lebanon Valley left on Friday morning for a week's tour through several Pennsylvania towns as well as the cities of Baltimore and Washington. This is the first tour of the season, although the club rendered two concerts two weeks ago, one in Reading and one in Lebanon.

The schedule as announced for this trip included New Park on Friday evening and Dallastown on Saturday evening. On Sunday morning the club appeared in the services of the United Brethren church, of Dallastown. In the afternoon the Club left for Baltimore and attended the evening services in the Salem United Brethren church of that city, where it also rendered several numbers. STUDENTS ON RADIO PROGRAM FROM WMBS

Another of the predictions of the "1927 Quittapahilla" has come true. "Hen" Ludwig popular pianist has made his first appearance before the radio audience. Ludwig is well known about the college and Lebanon for his ability to tickle the ivories. On Friday evening, March 11th, a program was broadcasted by the "Chef" who conducts a banquet hall, east of Annapolis, from station WMBS at Harrisburg.

The program consisted of Lebanon Valley talent. The program started with a few dance numbers by "Skipper" Hain and his Night Hawks. This was followed by a few delightful vocal numbers by Miss Bernita Burrier. Miss Burrier possesses a very charming soprano voice and pleased her invisible audience very much.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

To the new staff: We wish for you the greatest success.

It has been one of the greatest opportunities of our college life to serve as a member of this staff and we trust our efforts have not been in vain. We have tried to reflect back to the students and friends the college spirit and life.

You will need cooperation and it will take hard work, but we as a staff feel you are capable and with a willing effort you can produce an excellent paper.

And now, we of the staff of 1927 lay down our work that it may be taken up by the newly appointed staff, hoping that you will profit by our mistakes and that yours will be a year of happiness and success.

NOTE—The 1927-28 "La Vie Collegienne" staff has not been appointed as yet by the faculty but will be named till the next issue goes to press.

DEFEAT VS VICTORY

"And though you win your goal or only near it
Can win with poise or lose with equal grace."

The quotation above is one of the most difficult attainments of one's life. Few men, few organizations, or few schools have fully realized this goal. It may not be so difficult to win with poise, but the real test of an individual's character comes when he meets defeat. It is not an easy matter to accept a defeat with a smile. There is always the temptation to sneer, find excuses, and complain. But the individual who has accomplished this and who meets defeat with grace is a true gentleman.

Organizations and schools, as well as individuals, have this same difficulty to combat. This perhaps can be most readily seen at a game. Can the onlookers, as well as the contestants, take a defeat with a smile, or are they going to make some excuse, as placing the cause of the defeat on the referee? With reference to the last few games, we challenge your judgments, students of Lebanon Valley College, have we not met defeat in a splendid manner and as gentlemen should?

HAVE YOU HEARD THIS?

Did you ever hear anybody say, "That teacher makes me sick." Then again, did it ever enter your thoughts that probably he thinks just the same about you and maybe feels discouraged because none of his efforts has had any apparent result? Think of the hours and worry that have been spent in trying to work out a plan so that everyone will have an opportunity to achieve. Yes, part of education is to learn that there are two sides to a great many problems. If you don't believe it ask the Economic Students.

This is the time of year when everybody is taking account of their store of knowledge or rather the "profs" are doing it for us. Be broadminded and make a fair estimate of your work, instead of blaming everything on someone else. No matter how impossible teachers may seem to be, try and see if they aren't really human in the final analysis. Not everyone in the class fails so take heart and be strong enough to admit that you are the one responsible for the failure. Don't shift responsibility because it shows weakness of ability.

Those who have achieved success deserve credit for their work. It is a compliment to the one who gives knowledge as well as to the one who receives it. Those who need suggestions for a method to measure up to standards which they have made for themselves or the standards of the schools, John Ruskin submits this plan. "If you want knowledge you must toil for it; if food, you must toil for it and if pleasure, you must toil for it. Toil is the Law. Pleasure comes through toil and not through self indulgence and indolence. When one gets to love work, his life is a happy one."

Alumni Notes

Charles Smith, 24, and his wife, Ruth Oyer Smith, '24, moved recently from South Hampton, N. Y., to Wayne, Pa. Mr. Smith is now teaching science in the Radnor High School at Wayne.

According to a recent dispatch, Harold B. Bender, '22 has been forced to flee from China. After graduating from Lebanon Valley and continuing his studies at Harvard, he became head of the biology department of Yale University in China. Due to war conditions he has been obliged to leave the country and is now on the Pacific, enroute for America, with his child and wife, a graduate of Brown University.

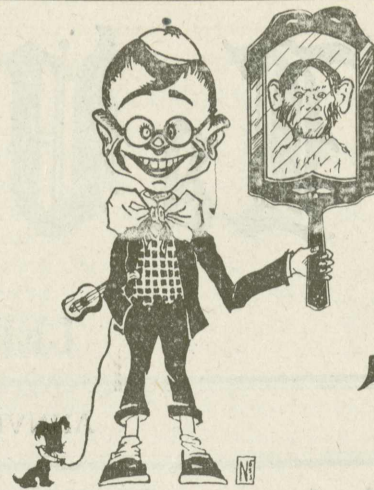

Olive Darling, '21, has recently been appointed secretary to the president of Northwestern University.

G. Wallace W. Hanger, '24, of the Federal Board of Mediation, is on his way from Washington, D. C., to California. His work for the next few months will keep him on the Pacific Coast looking after affairs of state. Mr. Hanger is a nephew of Bishop J. J. Glossbrenner who was a honored bishop in the church for twenty years.

J. Walter Espenshade, '03, principal of the Lebanon High School, stated that he would not be an applicant for re-election. He has been on the Lebanon High School faculty for twenty years.

Rev. C. C. Gohn, '02 of the First United Brethren church, of Johnstown, left for Europe several weeks ago to be gone three or four months traveling in the Holy Lands. His post in the Johnstown church is to be supplied by appointments during his absence.

Misses Yvonne Green and Mary Wallace instructors, were visitors at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., over the week-end.

A PAGE FROM TRUE STORY; A LETTER OF CONFESSION

Dear Reader:—

Oh, I beg of you to believe me that I am indeed weary. This strain of picturing you as "ithers see ye," of trying to grind out something funny when it is 12 P. M. and sleep is worrying me—all this has been my experience for many a day. The purpose of this letter of confession (published by the kind permission of the editors of True Story—who are always seeking for truth which is truth and which elevates) is to help some other "brother" or "sister" who will soon take up this task—may he or she carry it on more successfully! Also to give my readers an idea of the constant jeopardy I am living under, lest this column, intended to excite at least a smile, will be mistaken for a funeral oration!

I shall proceed to explain to my successor, my method of attack! First of all, one must be keenly alert in class. In this way you can kill two birds with one stone. First of all you get the Prof's lecture and that is helpful against some further judgment; then again many of the so called "monkey shines" originate in the classroom. Let me expedite matters by citing some examples which A or B individual have furnished. Have you ever heard the anecdote concerning Lincoln and Cartwright, when they were running for Congress? I will repeat it for those who were not in History class. Peter Cartwright, the famous preacher, asked his audience, which included Lincoln, first—"How many of you are going to heaven?" Everyone rose but Lincoln. Then he asked, "How many are going to hell?" No one responded. Then Cartwright said, "Mr. Lincoln, where are you going?" Lincoln answered that he thought such personal questions should not be asked but since the question was put to him "he was going to Congress." This is real humor—but it was heightened by having our attention arrested by the many times that story must have been told and retold by "tobacco juice marksmen, who not only told the story but emphasized it by punctuating the sentences with their marksmanship's skill! This is humor and realism. Then there is HIGHER math where the students solve a "dam" problems—and that isn't swearing either. But the deepest subject as yet discovered on our curriculum is in the Latin department when a young lady in her recitation was told to go down "to the bodies of the dead!" So deep as to be uncanny, ain't? A Scriptural basis for a contention is something effective but when it is supported by this well known verse, somewhat (?) reversed: "It is more blessed to receive than to give"—one almost comes to the conclusion that the person quoting this must be Scotch.

These are enough examples of "class room" procedure—Here are other ways. Second in importance are the college dormitories. But since this magazine prints only the choicest material, I must refrain from mentioning the dirt that collects in these halls. How much more valuable information could be put in this column if only "the one half knew what the other half said." Then there are the L. Club shows, games, etc. which provide enough comments from the side lines alone to make a weighty volume.

Now, my successor and patient reader, can you understand my exhaustion as I close this strenuous turn. It has been a laughing job—and "it is better to laugh than be sighing," but in my closing words, I heartily indorse the critic of Shakespeare who said that "Shakespeare had to kill Falstaff or Falstaff would have killed Shakespeare." The analogy is not perfect but I should either shortly murder this column or it would have killed me. Reader, am I not expressing your sentiments; if I leave with you these words of Longfellow "we should be thankful for the ink that remains in the inkwells of the writers."

No longer,

Your Tormentor.

Fisher with the banjo and Kennedy with the saxophone proved to be equally as entertaining. "Skipper" Hain's orchestra furnished the strains of syncopation which most of us are familiar with. Ludwig with his popular dance diversions also contributed to the success of the program.

We are all very sorry to hear of the fire which destroyed the studio of the Mack Battery Station, on Sunday; from which station the program was broadcasted. We trust that the new station as planned will soon be completed and that we will again have the pleasure to listen to some of our own talent.

Most delicious refreshments were served by the Sophomore class sisters and all the girls declared their tea was one of the big successes of the events in the college year.

closely contested in comparison to the first. Albright evened the series by winning, Lebanon Valley having taken the first game. Greggs and Clemens starred for Albright, the former having 21 points to his credit. Piela of Lebanon Valley, was high scorer for the home team with 23 points to his credit.

WHY THE POINT SYSTEM

Perhaps you have already read the editorial on the Point System in the last issue of "La Vie Collegienne." If not, may we suggest that you do so immediately and become acquainted with the merits of such a system. It has been tried and adopted by many of the leading colleges and universities of the country and the time has come when the smaller schools will adopt it.

The system needs very little if any further explanation. Each activity that demands the time and energy of the student has affixed to it a certain number of units or points assigned by comparison. The student upon election to an office shall receive the number of points assigned to that particular activity. When a student has received the allotted number of points (about forty) he would be informed of the fact and would be prohibited from accepting more extra-curricular work.

The point system has been established at Juniata. This decision follows the ratification of a resolution passed with a few amendments by a vote of the joint Student Associations. This new system will limit all extra curricular activities—something which L. V. C. would do well to emulate.

In an effort to make the above clear we have placed a valuation upon several of the activities, on the campus, in terms of units or points. No student is permitted to carry more than forty points. With the aid of information furnished by Weaton College, we are able to submit the following:

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

PRE-SPRING PROGRAM
RENDERED BY KALO

On Friday evening, March 12, Kalo met in a regular literary session, and although the subject for discussion was not "Spring," it might have been called a "Pre-Spring" session. Laurence Derickson started the program with a discussion of, "The Symptoms of Spring." This was followed by some "Spring Blues," blown from the trumbone of Maynard Wilson. Harry Zechman then gave several humorous readings, and was followed by some original stories by Henry Aungst. The program was concluded with, "Gleanings from the Edges of the World," by James Hazelton.

UNIQUE DUTCH PROGRAM
PRESENTED BY CLIOS

Clio got in "Dutch" March 11 when she presented a "saurkraut" program. It was very good "saurkraut" and quite aristocratic and genteel as the following numbers will suggest:

Home Making in the Pennsylvania Wilderness ----- Mary McCurdy
A Collection of Poems ----- Sara Blecker
Ephrata Cloisters ----- Myra Shaeffer
A Group of Songs ----- Leah Miller
Bred in the Bone ----- Jane Fearnow
Estella Michaels

The critic's remarks hinted at more delectable "saurkraut" for future meetings. All that is necessary is to find "cooks" with as great a knack for preparing and seasoning as those who served this concoction.

ed Brethren church. This concert completed the schedule of the tour and the Club returned on Wednesday.

It seems as though misfortune is still pursuing the Club for it is feared that Mr. Frank Hoffman, a first tenor, who is in a hospital in Lebanon slowly recovering from a serious operation, will be lost to the Club for the most of the season. Thus far the Club has lost seven members through sickness and low scholastic standing and so the membership has been reduced from twenty-seven to twenty. The spirit of the Club still remains high, nevertheless, and wherever the Club appeared the audiences were highly satisfied with the type of program presented.

The date of the home concert is not yet definitely decided upon but efforts are being put forth to arrange for the concert on the evening of May Day. Such arrangements would meet with the hearty approval of students and friends of the college, for the concert would add a touch of completeness to the annual May Day exercises.

KELCHNER INSTALLED
AS PHILO PRESIDENT

On Friday evening the members of Philo presented another of the programs which have been creating a good deal of comment on the campus because of their originality and interest. The session opened with the installation of the newly elected officers. Mr. Robert Kelchner delivered his inaugural address, voicing the desires and ambitions which he holds for the society. Mr. Kelchner has always been a loyal and active member of Philo and so he is quite worthy of the honor conferred upon him by its members.

The program which followed the installation contained a good deal of variety as usual, and held the attention of the audience throughout. The debate, especially, was of interest, for it showed how friendly roommates may become hostile to each other when the occasion demands. The arrangement of the program was as follows:

The Einstein Theory ----- Samuel Meyer
My Hobby ----- Albert Sitlinger
Something—Nothing -----
Roy Flinchbaugh

Round and Round ----- Ira Matter
Debate:—Resolved, that Vare's Seat in the Senate should be taken from him.
Aff., Henry Kohler—Neg., Harvey Nitrauer.

A Footprint ----- Leroy Fegley

On Thursday of last week Philo held the spring elections. The newly elected officers are:

President ----- Albert Kelchner
Vice President ----- Jacob Horst
Rec. Sec. ----- Harold Rider
Cor. Sec. ----- Elmer Keiser
Treasurer ----- Luke Mimore Critic ----- Wade Miller
Chaplain ----- Henry Kohler

LEBANON VALLEY TO CONDUCT SUMMER COURSE IN MARINE BIOLOGY OFF COAST OF BERMUDA ISLES

Dr. Derickson will personally supervise and direct all work. He is well qualified for this, by his experience. He graduated from Lebanon Valley in 1902, took graduate work at John's Hopkins, and was sent as Land Zoologist on an expedition to the Bahamas, by the Baltimore Geographical Society. He was then elected to the directorship of the Biology Department in Lebanon Valley, where he has served to the present time. In the summer of 1908 he directed the collection of Eocene and Meocene Fossils for Vassar College, and in 1910 he studied in the Bermuda Islands. Thus, he is well acquainted with condition on the islands, and will be able to obtain all possible advantages for the success of the course.

A letter containing complete information concerning the trip has recently been sent to a limited number of those who had previously shown interest in the idea. It states that the class will be limited to fifteen, and that early application for enrollment is advisable. It is probable that most of the students will be graduates of Lebanon Valley. This should make a fine and happy group. Complete information may be had by application to Dr. Derickson.

CO-ED DEBATERS LOSE DUAL MEET

The affirmative team consisting of Corinne Dyne, '30, Captain Hilda Heller, '27, and Hilda Hess, '30, with Mary Ax, '30, as alternate, assumed the defensive on home territory. Dr. S. Hoffman Derickson, head of the Biology department, acted as chairman.

The judges were Attorney Clarence Becker, Rev. J. L. Hynson, and Mr. C. A. Boyer, all of Lebanon.

The negative team, Janet Miller, '29, Anne Apgar, '30, Captain Esther Flickinger, '28, and Mary Buch, '29, alternate, debated at Schuylkill.

Although neither decision was in our favor, the teams were heartily supported by the student body. With their defeats behind them, the girls are preparing for future victories.

On Friday night, March 18th, they will meet the men's teams of Albright College in a dual debate, with

FLORENCE DUNDORE OF FREDERICKSBURG CHOSEN BY STUDENTS AS QUEEN OF MAY

Nellie Rabenstine to be Maid of Honor; Attendants are G. Buffington, B. Stager, M. Shaeffer, J. Shoop, M. Mark and K. Young

PLANS FOR CELEBRATION TO BEGIN AFTER EASTER

Hail to the Queen of May, who in the person of Florence Dundore will reign supreme in this year's May Day. After the regular chapel service last Tuesday morning a well regulated system of voting was introduced and the result of the poll was as follows. The honor of May Queen goes to Florence Dundore. Her maid of honor is one who is indeed worthy of the place for in the person of Nellie Rabenstine we have a most representative girl of this year's senior class. The attendants who are Blanche Stager, Kathryn Young, Gladys Bunington, Madeline Mark, Myra Shaeffer and Jennie Shoop will likewise call forth the admiration of the crowd.

The observance of May Day is undoubtedly the most cherished custom among the students, and it is the greatest honor students can attribute to their number to choose the representative girls of the senior class as the leaders in this day of days.

Plans will begin in earnest after Easter and for almost all of us, we now begin to reckon time by its occurrence before or after May Day.

LIBRARY INCREASED IN VOLUME BY GIFT

Class of 1901 Adds Two Volumes to Each Department of the College

The class of 1901 has very recently added a number of volumes to the library. Two volumes were given to each department of the college curriculum. These were selected with care, and represent some of the best authorities on the different subjects treated. The volumes represent a real gift to the college, and they take this means to make known the gift, and to thank the class for their generosity.

The addition is as follows:

Robertson—Grammar of the Greek New Testament.

Robertson—Luke the Historian.

ELEANOR R. SNOKE Y.W.C.A. PRESIDENT

New President Already a Member of National Council of Y. W. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. of Lebanon Valley held the annual election of officers on Friday, March 18th. Miss Eleanor Snoke of Philadelphia was chosen to head the Association during the coming year. All other officers, with one exception, are members of the class of '28. Immediately after the results of the election were made known, Miss Snoke chose her cabinet.

Miss Snoke has always been deeply interested in Christian work on the campus at L. V. She has served three years on the Y. W. C. A. cabinet this past year as chairman of the Social Committee. That her efforts were recognized and appreciated is shown in this election for the office of president carries with it no small amount of responsibility and trust. The Y. W. C. FACULTY ANNOUNCES NEW "LA VIE" STAFF

Albright Chosen Editor and Pugh Business Manager

The new La Vie staff has been appointed, with H. Darkes Albright '28 its Business Manager. "On paper" the staff looks like a winner. With a very few exceptions, due to the coming point system, old staff members have been reappointed.

Anna Mark '28 and Millard J. Miller '28 will be Associate Editors. Miss Mark held an editorial position on this year's Quittie staff, while Mr. Miller is new in that capacity. G. Clifford Singley, '28, after a year's experience on the Quittie staff, has been appointed as Athletic Reporter, while Miss Mary Hartz '30, a newcomer with high recommendations, will report Conservatory news. Miss Ruth Struthar, a member of this year's staff, has been appointed General Reporter, working with James C. Hazleton, our busy Freshman. The Society Reporters will be announced later.

The Business Staff looks to be quite as efficient as the one described above. Mr. Pugh, although a newcomer on La Vie, spent a busy year managing the Quittie's affairs. Archie Lutz '29, promises to be an energetic and successful assistant to Pugh, while Jacob M. Horst '28, is expecting a big year as Circulation Manager.

These people should make an excellent staff. The retiring members unite in wishing them the best of success for the coming year.

Y.M.C.A. CABINET ELECTION HELD

J. Bruce Behney to Succeed Wade Miller as President

On Monday afternoon, March 21, the Y. M. C. A. held the annual election. Mr. J. Bruce Behney of Free-land, Pa., was elected president for the ensuing year. Each class is represented on the list of officers chosen who form a very well balanced staff. Several days after election the new cabinet was announced by the president elect. It includes all men who served on the cabinet last year and again eligible, and other men who are filling the places vacated by the graduating class.

Mr. Behney is a ministerial student of the class of '28. This will be his third year on the cabinet for he served in his Sophomore year as secretary and during the past year as vice president. The Y. M. C. A. has made great strides at Lebanon Valley during the past several years because of the very capable officers which it has had. This is especially true of this past year in which it was very

SEXTETTE FINISHES SEASON BY BANQUET

Team and Guests Attend Theatre after Banquet at Chef's

On Friday, March 18, 1927, the co-ed varsity basketball team ended their season by a very appropriate social event. A banquet held at Chef's Place began the evening's activities. The banquet, one of Chef's delicious, well prepared type, was enjoyed by all, giving evidence that no "training" was being observed.

Kathryn Young, manager of the team, acted as chairman of the even-

Tomorrow evening, April 8, the Kalozean Literary Society will celebrate its Golden Anniversary. The society was started as the result of overcrowded society and has grown in fifty years, to rank with all societies on the campus. It is attaining its aims, which are, the literary training and social culture of its members.

As a special feature of the Golden Anniversary, the society has made arrangements to have Mr. William Garman, the organization president of the society, to be present and deliver a short address as a part of the Friday evening program. Mr. Garman now resides in Harrisburg, where he is an officer in the Railroad Brotherhood.

The remainder of the program has not been made public, except that it shall consist of a very interesting play and some musical numbers. Miss Mary Wallace has been working hard with the cast, and the cast has been doing their part, so that is expected to be a success.

As this is the Golden Anniversary it is probable that there will be many of the alumni here for the event. Plans are being made to entertain these persons and make them feel at home when they return. They will surely be pleased to see the progress that has been made by the college in recent years.

CO-ED DEBATERS FINISH SEASON

Plan to Organize Debating Club in very Near Future

The last debate of the season was held March 24, with the Men's teams of Elizabethtown College. The negative team, consisting of Mary Buch, Anna Apgar, and Esther Flickinger, with Janet Miller as alternate stayed at home to convince the affirmative team of Elizabethtown that the debts owed to us by the Allied countries ought not to be cancelled. At Elizabethtown the girls suffered defeat tho' they debated very well and showed much improvement. The traveling team from L. V. C. consisted of

The freshmen Co-eds did the unexpected on Saturday, March 26, when they defeated the Sophomore Sextette by the score of 27-25.

This was indeed a surprise to everyone, even the freshmen. The sophs were picked as the better team due to the fact that their team included three varsity players. The frosh had only one player who participated in

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

On a drowsy Sunday morning in late summer a south-bound train discharged a single passenger, a stranger apparently, from the way his quick glance roved here and there taking in unaccustomed surroundings. The man was of medium stature, a typical Englishman from his very manner suggesting a well disciplined mind, a will under iron control, and method beyond the point of efficiency. As people are, he was of course met and taken to some place. It developed that he was the new professor of economics and business administration in Lebanon Valley.

In the course of a few days the students came tramping back to school to begin a new year. Here they were introduced to the new professor who quietly and quickly began to make his presence felt. During the next day or two all over the campus, on the feminine side at least, could be heard these remarks, "Did you see the new prof?" "Is he married?" "He's taking Prof Gingrich's economics." The last of these was only too truly realized as the new professor's reputation among the students was soon established. Great was the astonishment when one evening it was rumored that he was coaching the girls basket ball team. Evidently he knew quite a bit about basket ball for under his able guidance the team won six and lost four.

But this little Scotchman's pep, energy, bundle of surprise were not nearly exhausted as yet, for with the unexpected announcement of girls' gym classes a sensation greater if possible than any he had created before was now brought about. The improbable had happened. A long cherished ambition was realized. Gym classes for girls which have proved both helpful and healthful are now on the curriculum of L. V. all through the kindness of one professor who sees much that needs be done and does it.

Perhaps we could no longer be surprised for we had grown to expect most anything, but we were delighted when we found out that Professor Stokes was backing our girls debating team. It's success too was no doubt largely due to him.

Lebanon Valley wishes to take this opportunity to extend their thanks and appreciation to the gentleman who has so ably seen the need on our campus and who has made that need a realization.

NOTEBOOKS

What kind of a note book do you have? One of those which no one can understand and which has scarcely anything in it; or do you have a well organized, and legible one with something worthwhile in it? Did you ever stop to consider that just as your notebook is in school so you might be in life? It is wise to refrain from negligence and carelessness here if you wish to do so later. Look at your notebook and think it over!

NOTHING BUT ROADS

We are road-builders as the Romans were. We experiment every day with new surfacing and new beds. If there is a wrinkle in the asphalt, a crack in the concrete, our complaints are loud. We drive cars, large and small, polished or dull, all upholstered. Rubber tires and steel springs add to our comfort. We don't care what the countryside is like so long as the roads are good. Come on, come on! We don't care where we're going, but we're going.

Each one of us must have a dwelling somewhere along the roadside. But we give it little care. We only sleep there. Where then can we go? Have we made no beautiful places to which our roads can lead us? Of what use are our roads if they do not take us to some place where we want to go?

Oho, education is a fine thing. It is the highway of the world. It gives us method, it teaches us to think. Of what use is thinking if it brings us to no conclusions? Of what use are facts if they bring us to no philosophy of action? Are we to ride up and down forever, intellectual tramps, without a home where we can welcome our friends or give shelter to the traveller?

The New Student.

4:00 P.M.—Easter vacation Begins.

Easter brings an array of beautiful spring hats and dresses for the ladies of our nation and even nature dresses up for this day of joy and peace. The birds carol a happy spring song and the buds on the trees and flowers burst open to greet the sunrise. Yellow jonquils, daffodils, and bright colored tulips nod in a friendly manner from every door yard. What a joy it is to live on Easter day. But there is a deeper, holier thought connected with Easter. It is the Resurrection Day of Him who gave His life that we might have life and have it more abundantly. Also, His resurrection demonstrates to us that life can be victorious over death and that when we leave this life we only go on to live a richer, fuller one over there in that Great Beyond. The very atmosphere of the season commemorates the most hope-filled event known to man. Life, an about us bursting forth is reviving from its deathlike appearance of winter and is bursting forth into new life and beauty. So are we, in our lives here on earth, preparing ourselves for a greater life in heaven. Every act, thought, or deed accomplished means either a subtraction from or an addition to that life across the Great Divide. Let us each look up in our life this spring and, with the promise of that better life, take a new interest and hold on our work that we may better be prepared not only for the future here on earth but for that future that no man really knows of its capacity. We only have the words of Jesus: "I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in Me, though he were dead yet shall he live."

The people who are the head of certain organizations find it hard to carry on all the work themselves, yet it is harder to get some people to cooperate. If some student is asked to make a short talk he is surprised and answers that he can not talk, that he never could and to please ask someone else. The same thing is true of many people when they are asked to write a short account of a happening. They say that they will tell you or someone else the facts but they can not write it all themselves. Now we feel sorry for such people because really their case is pathetic. What good is a college course to any student if he can not write a short article on a thing that has happened and they have witnessed? Or what do they think their tongues were given to them for if it was not to talk and to express certain ideas or truths they have learned?

It seems that by the time a boy or girl has reached the college age that he would at least try to speak or write. What kind of citizens are we going to be when we get out of school if we are afraid even to try to do some of the things that are hard. There is scarcely any one who can stand before an audience and not at some time or other feel nervous. Yet this person does not give up speaking because once he lost control—he keeps trying until he is able to speak with poise and not show that he is excited.

People who are asked to write articles for La Vie Collegienne forget that anyone is liable to make mistakes but think they are the only ones who ever do. They forget that they do not have to sign their names at the end of the article and also that their fellow students probably never know who wrote the article. Those who never try never get anywhere. Unless an effort is put forth we are sure to stay in the same spot and die of dry rot.

Alumni Notes

Francis D. Beidel, A.B., '20, has been teaching at Enola since graduation. Upon the resignation of Professor Gemmill, Mr. Beidel was promoted principal of Enola schools. His honor is well merited.

William N. Martin, A.B., '18, A.M., '22, served as principal of the Lebanon Valley Academy for two years. He then went as a missionary to Africa where he became the principal of Albert Academy, Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa. The work there advanced rapidly under his direction. Last June they with their two children, Grace and Paul, came home on a furlough. As conditions for their return to Africa did not seem favorable for the near future, Professor Martin has accepted the position of teacher of science in the Enola High School.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CIRCLES

The debating teams of Elizabethtown College have set up an enviable record. To date their varsity teams have appeared in seventeen debates and won all but three of that number. An extensive tour is now being arranged for the debaters and they will travel through Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia.

Five undergraduates were summarily dismissed from the University of Georgia by Chancellor Charles M. Snelling after a faculty committee found them guilty of publishing a paper deemed "grossly discourteous" and "probably libelous." The five students made up the staff of The Iconoclast, an independent student publication. The Iconoclast came into being because of allegedly undue faculty pressure on the editors. The Red and Black, official student paper, and in order to discuss certain university questions that the student paper refused to treat.

Princeton still moves on wheels despite faculty ruling barring automobiles. Several members of the junior were roller-skating to their classes and to various clubs on Prospect Street recently. One determined junior appeared with a placard on his back, proclaiming, "They haven't banned this yet." Another bore a sign reading, "Is this an automobile?"

A sex war is on at Oxford, competent observers declare. From time to time the Isis, the men's journal, comes out with an indictment of the policy of harboring women in the ancient citadel of men. Ever since women have been admitted to the University the men have been hostile.

Jealousy is the motive of the men, the women declare. Every woman at the college is an honors student. So rigid is the examination system that none but the most intellectual girls pass the gauntlet. One Summerville girl recently said that for the eighty vacancies at her college last autumn there were 240 applicants. It is extremely irritating to the men, many of whom are content with merely the pass degree, that they should be outshone intellectually by mere women.

—The New Student

At New York University the aggregated students' earnings for the year exceeds $13,000. More than eighteen thousand of the 28,813 students work while attending college. Many students serve as substitute actors in Broadway theaters.

President Ernest Hopkins of Dartmouth has a plan for saving college football both from its defenders who shut their eyes to imminent "dangers" and from its enemies who would annihilate it altogether. In a letter to the president of the Dartmouth Athletic Council he outlines his proposal for saving the sport from its much alleged excesses.

The three following changes are suggested by President Hopkins:

First, eligibility for participation in intercollegiate football on varsity teams to be limited to men in their sophomore and junior years in college;

Second, intercollegiate football contests in the major games of the schedule to be arranged on a reciprocal basis, by which each college should develop from the varsity squad two major teams, one of which should play at home, and the other of which should play on the rival's home ground;

Third all coaching to be done by undergraduates, presumably by seniors who had acquired knowledge and experience during their participation in intercollegiate athletics previously.

CO-ED DEBATERS IN INTERCLASS GAME

Corinne Dyne, Hilda Heller and Hilda Hess, with Mary Ax as alternate.

During the season undoubtedly the most successful season Lebanon Valley College has ever had in debating, the girls debated the girl's teams of Ursinus and Schuylkill and the men's teams of Albright and Elizabethtown. They were unable to defeat the ladies' teams, but the men's teams were glad to "split even" in the decisions rendered.

The debating season in one sense is closed—but in a true sense it is only begun. The girls have developed sufficient interest both in Faculty and Student Body to convince all that truly the real fruition of this year's season will but begin to blossom. So that the progress of this year may not be lost, the students are about to face the opportunity to organize a Debating Club. The aim of the club is to develop an interest in Platform Debating and Genuine Debaters. Albright and Elizabethtown, perhaps two of the best teams in the State had to acknowledge that they had met their equal. This was done by eight girls and only a few of the Faculty members. Our aim is to get both boys and girls interested. The Faculty have pledged their support to next year's teams. With this support, a chance to begin now, and the student body organized, Lebanon Valley College will go on record next year, not only as having her most successful year, but proud of the fact that her representatives have captured coveted decisions from the best debating teams in the State.

At the time of this writing, we are unable to state definitely when the club will be organized. Listen for announcements. Talk about it. Above all—let's begin right. The idea for organizing this year is merely to get organized, elect officers and select delegates to next year's Inter-Collegiate Debating Convention, and to keep alive the interest that is being manifest.

The teams are indebted to their coaches Prof. C. R. Gingrich and Prof. M. L. Stokes. We wish to express our gratitude to them in this manner and also all others of the Faculty who aided much in giving advice, and information, acting as chairmen, and giving to us the moral support that beginners so much need. The "School Spirit" was excellent. We expect more when we are more mature and are able to give better debates. The progress of Lebanon Valley Debating rests on the Student Body. Let's organize—and make our school boast of doing no less in this field of activitise than similar institutions.

ing staff, which has been weak in the past few seasons, is greatly bolstered this year by the appearance of Zappia, Hagar and Lebo who will be a great help to pitching staff. Al-eran left over from last year. Although having not yet pitched to rival batsmen, they seem to have a world of stuff in the preliminary workouts, but their fate is yet to be decided. The catching department is well taken care of by Metoxen, a veteran of several seasons and Bendigo, a fine backstop from the freshman class. Both these men can hit the ball, although Metoxen is of the monied hitter type. The infield has Capt. Smith at third-base, Gelbert at short and Piersol at first-base from last year's team. These three men each have several seasons' experience and are well able to take care of their respective positions. Wentz, who is an outfielder, also makes a valuable util-

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

HEMPERLY ELECTED KALO PRESIDENT

On Friday evening, April 1, Kalo enjoyed a very interesting program. It was just the sort of program that is able to banish the spring fever. The opening feature was a piano duet, by Kiehnner and Haier, who became famous for their music while on a recent trip with the glee club. The audience was then carried back to Holland by a Dutch reading, which was well rendered by Russell Becnel. The next number, a violin duet by Lewars and Shroyer, was much appreciated by the society, and the artists were called upon for an encore. The entertainment was complete with the review of modern plays, which was well presented by Norman Vanderwall, an able critic.

After the regular session a business meeting was held, at which time the officers for the spring term were installed. On account of the illness of Wohn Walter, who had previously been elected to serve that term as president, it was necessary to elect a man to serve in his place. William Hemperly was selected for the office, and was installed by the retiring president, James Gordon Starr. Mr. Hemperly has always been an active and loyal member of the society, and has given his brothers many interesting lectures. He delivered a short inaugural address, expressing his desires for the future success of the society and asking for cooperation and suggestions from all members. He then installed his staff of officers, who are as follows: Vice president, Roy Flook; Recording Secretary, Palmer E. Poff; Corresponding Secretary, Archie Lutz; Treasurer, Walter Waggoner; Critic, Wayne Sparrow; Pianist, John Bixler; Chaplin, William Blatt; and Sergt.-at-Arms, Michael Toronto.

ity infielder, along with Hendricks, a freshman, who has shown promise during the early training. Gelbert led the team in hitting last year and with another season back of him should prove a valuable man to bat fourth in the batting order. Piersol and Smith, while not strong hitters, are able to hit the ball with fair consistency. There should be a great fight for outfield posts. This department like the pitching staff has been weak the last few seasons, especially in batting. Wentz is practically sure of his old job in left-field. The other positions will be filled from Albright, Piela, Hagar and Zappia. All these men are pitchers but Albright, but each one is able to hold down an outfield post in creditable manner. Piela played center-field last season when not pitching, and in all likelihood will fill the same garden this season. From the form shown in batting practice they all are able to sock the apple. And in present day baseball that is what wins ball games.

The schedule this year calls for more home games than ever before so that the student body will get plenty of opportunity to see the team in action. Let's make up our minds now that we are going to support the team, which looks to be the best in the past few years.

MIRIAM DAUGHERTY DELPHIAN PRESIDENT

In Delphian Hall on Friday evening, April 1, an appropriate program was given as follows:

April Fool-----Mary McLanachan
April Laughter-----Winifred Peck
Several April Gems-Mildred Umholtz
April Voices-----Ruth Strubhar
Resolved—That April Fools' Day is beneficial to the community.

The following spring term officers were recently elected:

IMPROMPTU PROGRAM RENDERED BY CLIO

April 1st is All Fools Day and Clio celebrated in a perfectly satisfactory manner. An impromptu program proved delightful without the worry and fuss which goes with a prepared entertainment. It was altogether foolish. The following numbers were rendered:

Fools Fantasies (Piano Solo)-----
Mildred Myers
How to Lead a Fool's Life (Speech)
Mary McCurdy
Thunderstorm (Duet) -----
Eleanor Snoke, Leah Miller
Folly of Youth (Speech) -----
Hazel Bailey

sportsmanship and Mr. Kack and Mr. Metoxen for their assistance. Other toasts were given by Nellie Rabenstine, our captain; Emma Myer, our captain for the coming season; and Janet Miller, our new manager. The party then drove to Harrisburg, where they attended the State Theatre.

This social event was an opportunity for the team to show their appreciation of the kindness of members of the faculty and others who aided in making the season a success. Those who attended the banquet were Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Gossard; Dr. and Mrs. P. A. W. Wallace; Prof. and Mrs. C. R. Gingrich; Prof. M. L. Stokes; Raymond Koch; Nellie Rabenstine; Madeline Mark; Kathryn Young; Emma Myer; Olga Freeman; Mabel Hafer; Sarah Lou Rose; Anna Mark; Mildred Lane; Edna Gorski; Nancy Ulrich; Janet Miller; Irene Miller; Carol Brinser; Janie Lee Borden; Ruth March; Gladys Buffington.

KALOS WILL HOLD BANQUET FOR ALUMNI

The program will be by Alumni men, except for our president's address, by William Hemperly. Dr. A. S. Lehman, of the Derry Street Church, Harrisburg, will be the toastmaster. Other Kaloes, who have gained reputation since their graduation will be present and take part on the program. A special menu is being arranged by Chef, and all things point toward a delightful time.

The matter of an anniversary banquet is new on the campus, but it is hoped by the society that many more will be required in the future. It will be an occasion for the present members to meet the former members, and to learn of some important events in the societies history.

PHILOS PRESENT ALL FOOLS DAY PROGRAM

Philo held a very interesting All Fools' Day program on Friday evening, April 1, in Philo hall. The numbers on the paino, with one or two exceptions, were impromptu. A good deal of humor was expressed throughout the program.

Mr. Albert Kelchner, president of Philo, delivered a well prepared speech on "The Origin of April Fools' Day." He was followed by an impromptu by Mr. Carl Sloat on "April Showers Bring May Flowers." Of course, the program could not have been complete without our peer of orators, Mr. Francis J. Marshall, Jr. being called upon. His impromptu speech was entitled "Joe Bass," a term closely connected with April Fool. Mr. Milford Knisely, our humorist, livened up the program with the presentation of a number of current jokes. The program then took a more serious trend and Mr. Harry Stone delivered a very interesting and well prepared talk on "Wars Beginning in April." An impromptu debate followed this on the question, "Resolved, that April 1st is a Foolish Day." The affirmative was upheld by Mr. Paul Moser and the negative by Mr. Millard Miller. The judges' decision was in favor of the negative speaker who proved his arguments by the point that it is not the day that is foolish but the people. Mr. Samuel Meyers concluded the program with a talk on "What April Means to Me."

After the literary session a business meeting of Philo was held in which meeting of Philo was held in which be the Philo reporter to the La Vie Collegienne during the coming year.

A FAIRY TALE

(Memoirs of a Recent Glee Club Trip)

Once upon a time there was a Junior who liked to laugh at the boys who had to wear green caps. One day he went far away, with some other boys on a trip to sing—or something. All the boys were eating their lunch at a Y. M. C. A. Cafeteria, when he—late, as usual—thundered in the room, looking quite hungry. (No, dear children, I can't tell you his name, for then Jitney would be terribly cross.) Several of his dear boy friends soon told him how to secure his lunch, and it wasn't long until he had gathered quite a sufficient meal. But, or, how the other children clapped their hands in glee when he tried to pay for his lunch with his Y. M. C. A. card. The naughty boys must have thought he wore a green cap! on the program came from many sources and considerable appreciation was shown the club for its appearance in the U. B. Sunday School and church. The Tower City and Shamokin concerts were also very successful.

On the preceding trip the club broadcasted from the Lion Theatre, Station WKBG, Red Lion, Pennsylvania. The theatre was packed to the doors, almost 1500 being present. This was the first radio experience of the year, but will not be the last. The boys also had charge of the services at U. B. church on the Sunday they visited Red Lion. J. Bruce Behney '28 preached the sermon and the club appeared several times with sacred numbers. It was on this trip, while visiting York, that Brubaker discovered several new uses for a Y. M. C. A. card.

The members of the club heard the pleasant announcement that Mr. Walters will return to school. Although it is very improbable that he will appear in any of the remaining concerts, his presence on the campus will greatly bolster the morale of the club. These two trips complete the list of the longer tours, but several concerts remain to be given in nearby towns.

PHILOS WILL CELEBRATE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY ON EVE OF MAY DAY

Dramatic Entertainment, Coached by Dr. Wallace, Will Feature —Reception Will Follow the Program, Which Promises to be Best in Years

MANY PHILO ALUMNI AND FRIENDS EXPECTED

Plans are almost completed for the celebration of the Sixtieth Anniversary of the Philokosmian Literary Society which will occur on Friday evening, May 6. A pleasing program has been arranged for the dramatic entertainment in the Engle Conservatory at 8 o'clock, and while no definite announcement has yet been made concerning the early evening diversion, a play will feature.

Dr. Paul A. W. Wallace is training the cast of the play in their parts and this feature number will be preceded by a varied program which will include several numbers and addresses.

Preparations are being made to accommodate the large number of alumni and friends who will attend the annual gala affair of Philo. After sixty years of growth, the active members of the society will attempt to show the members of a bygone day that

LOCAL BOYS AT F&M CONFERENCE

College Y.M.C.A. Problems Discussed at Lancaster Meeting

From last Thursday evening until Sunday noon, (April 21-24) a district conference was held at Franklin and Marshall College. As representatives from Lebanon Valley College, Behney, Mentzer, Aungst and Flook attended. The conference was primarily for officers but it dealt with the whole of the College Y. M. C. Several outstanding men were secured as speakers for the conference.

There is a highly commended movement on foot to change the college Y. M.'s from state supervision to a special college department which will devote all its time to the colleges in respective national areas. It is reasoned that under this plan all colleges will have better cooperation from the National Y. M. C. A. This change was also discussed at the conference. It is believed that the plan will be accepted by the colleges.

-----Subjecting all class, society, or individual prejudices to an ever greater cause, we will present for your consideration problems and movements vital to our campus and frequently to others as well. We expect to be frank—and invite you to be the same. All signed letters sent to the editor for publication will be used, without disclosing the writer's name, if that desire is expressed. Let us hear from you!

KALO ANNIVERSARY BANQUET A SUCCESS

Innovation Introduced This Year To Become A Tradition

The Kalozetean Literary Society held its Golden Anniversary banquet at the Chef's place, on the evening of April 9 at 7 o'clock. Besides the active Kalos many friends and Alumni as well as some faculty members of our brother society were present.

After the relishing of a delicious menu prepared by Chef we were in an appropriate mood to listen to some toasts by Kalo Alumni and Dr. Wallace and Dr. Wagner of the faculty. The toastmaster was Dr. A. S. Lehman of Harrisburg. By his wit and meaningful remarks he kept his hearers in a very attentive attitude and made them anxious for more. The toasts by Dr. H. E. Miller of Lebanon, Prof. C. E. Roudabush, of Minersville, Rev. Geo. Hallman of Hummelstown, were interesting to the highest degree. The program for the evening is as follows:

PLANS FOR MAY DAY ARE BEGUN

Committee Planning Gala Affair—Miss Wallace to Direct

On Saturday, May 7, Lebanon Valley College and her friends will take a step into the past, when the Y. M. and Y. W., working with Miss Wallace, will attempt to show the glories of one of the first May Days after the Restoration. The plan is to copy some particular May Day celebration, and the committee is using one that took place in a small village on the outskirts of London in 1660, the first year after the Restoration of Charles II to the throne of England.

Co-Chairmen of May Day Committee—Eleanor Snoke, Bruce Behney, Madeline Rife, Sec.

Faculty Advisors—Mrs. Green, Miss Engle, Miss Wallace, Prof. Bennett, Prof. Ritchie, Prof. Wagner.

Entertainment Committee—Darkes Albright, Chairman, Alice Kindt. Platform and Ground Committee—Sam Meyers Chairman, Calvin Keene, Howard Allen.

Decoration Committee — Frances Long Chairlady, Jacob Horst. Processional—Jimmie Starr.

Finance Committee—Roy Flook. Costume Committee—Mary Geyer Chairlady, Alice Woy.

Refreshment Committee — Arnold Zwalley, Chairman, Madeline Rife.

Program and Tickets — Henry Aungst.

L.V. DROPS OPENER BUT WINS NEXT TWO

G-burg Takes One, But Schuylkill and Juniata Lose to Mylinmen

Gettysburg, April 12.

Lebanon Valley opened her baseball season with a loss, dropping the first game to Gettysburg 14-11. Lebanon Valley enjoyed a three run lead for four innings. In the first Albright doubled, Wentz got on base on an error and Gelbert's Ruthian swat accounted for three runs. Piela weakened in the fourth and four G-burg runs dented the plate. The scoring for the rest of the game was nip and tuck. A base on balls, hits by Gelbert, Bendigo, Piela and Piersol pushed across four runs in the sixth. Lebanon Valley bunched hits for three runs in the eighth. Gettysburg managed to score every inning after the fourth, bunching hits in the fourth and sixth for a total of nine runs.

CONTEST PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Next "Chat Book" to Announce Winners of Writers'
Club Contest

The Writers' Club of Lebanon Valley College closed the contest for the writing of short stories and parodies on Monday, April 25. The winners will be announced later, when the judges, Miss Mary K. Wallace of the English department of Lebanon Valley College, Mr. Alfred K. Mills, and Miss Mary E. Clemens, teacher of English in Hershey High School have made their decision.

The prize for the best story is five dollars and two dollars for the best parody. Both will be published in the Chat Book together with a few parodies and stories receiving honorable mention. The money was made available through the sale of the first edition of the Chat Book.

Committees have been appointed to work on the second edition of the Chat Book which is going to appear in May. The club is anticipating the same splendid support which it has been receiving.

ANNUAL RECITAL DATES ANNOUNCED

Miss Engle Planning Spring
Recitals for Conservatory Students

Miss Ruth Engle, head of the Conservatory of Music of Lebanon Valley College, has arranged a number of spring recitals to be given by the more advanced students of the conservatory during the month of May. The programs will consist of organ, piano, and voice numbers.

The schedule is as follows:

Thursday, May 13.
Benetta Burrier, Soprano; Grace Daniel, Piano; Viola Wolf, Organ.

The girl's Eurydice Choral Club of Lebanon Valley College, under the direction of Miss Ruth Engle, will give several out of town concerts in the coming weeks. Their first appearance will be in the Seventh Street Lutheran Church at Lebanon on Tuesday, April 26. They will also sing at Palmyra Friday, April 29, Lancaster May 13, and Harrisburg May 19.

The club will be assisted by the well known soloists Mrs. Edith Gingrich and Miss Merle Saylor who will take the place of Mrs. Mills, due to the latter's illness.

This is the first year that the girls are giving their program way from home. All those who heard the home concert are assured that the club, with its very able leader, Miss Engle, will become as well known as our Men's Glee Club.

INSTALLATION FOR Y.M. AND Y.W. HELD

Dr. Gossard Installs New Cabinets in Annual Public Ceremony

The installation of Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. officers held in chapel on Monday, April 14th, was impressive and gave the students the idea of the purpose and benefits that the students derive from these associations.

It is customary to have the officers installed by the president of the school before the student body and to render a short religious program suitable to the event. The program was exceptionally inspiring and beautified by the costuming—the girls wearing white while the boys wore dark suits. The retiring president in a short address challenged the new members to give their best to the carrying out of the duties of the Y. W. and Y.M. and, if possible, to exceed the goal the old cabinet had attained in their successful year. The president of the school, Dr. Gossard, then laid the charges of the offices before the new board. Miss Snoke, the new president of the Y.W. responded and on behalf of the cabinets she accepted the responsibilities of the office and promised to do her best to raise the standards still higher.

The program was as follows:

The Kalozetean Literary Society, celebrated its Golden Anniversary on April 8th, with one of the finest programs ever presented at Lebanon Valley. Engle Hall was crowded with students, friends, and alumni. The program was opened with a piano solo by Henry Ludwig. A prayer was then offered by Rev. I. S. Ernst, a Kalo alumnus. David Shroyer then rendered a vocal solo to the delight of the audience. One of the most interesting features of the program was the Golden Anniversary President's Address by Mr. William Garman '77, the organizing president of the Society, fifty years ago. He told how Kalo originated and of the hardships which any newly formed organization must contend with and overcome in order to be a success. Kalo did overcome these hardships and to-day she

GLEE CLUB HOME CONCERT MAY DAY

Special Concert to Crown Successful 1927 Season

Culminating the most successful season since its inception, the Lebanon Valley College Men's Glee Club will present its annual home concert in the Engle Conservatory on the evening of May Day, May 7, at 8:15 o'clock. Under the capable direction of Prof. George Rogers, a number of specialties, denied the audiences on the trips, are being prepared for the students and friends in the local appearance.

The 1927 program combines in a most pleasing manner many sacred and secular numbers, carrying one at times from the sublime to the ridiculous and then returning to reality. Quartettes, readings, solos and short sketches intersperse the club numbers in an interesting and attractive manner.

Although the club was hard hit by sickness and death as well as by grades, it has been strengthened and balanced by several new voices.

Perhaps the publication of "Enough Rope", a book of light verse by Dorothy Parker, (Boni & Liveright) is responsible for the slump in student suicides. At any rate "The Windmill" found therein a poem called "Resume" that should be posted in all conspicuous places about the campus:

Razors pain you;
Rivers are damp;
Acids stain you;
And drugs cause cramp.
Guns aren't lawful;
Nooses give;
Gas smells awful;
You might as well live.

EDITORIALS

This issue of "LA VIE" marks the beginning of the 1928 regime, one and one half years after our paper's humble origin. How "The Crucible" died and how the school lacked a newspaper for two whole years are both history. We are concerned, now, with the story of LA VIE—its humble beginnings, its struggle for existence, and its present hopes for success.

Just before Thanksgiving in 1925, the first edition of LA VIE made its appearance. With no traditions on which to build, no alumni circulation on which to depend, and with no students trained for the work, the first half year presented hard roads to travel. Under "Bill" Grill and "Hen" Gingrich, that first staff worked earnestly and quietly, laying foundations for the LA VIE we have to-day. They made no presumptions concerning their efforts, unselfishly laboring for the LA VIE that was to come. The next year, with but a half year's work to build on, "Kelly" Ness and Wade Miller took up the work, laboring for a better paper and sounder finances—and achieving for us the most successful campus news-paper in L. V. history.

To-day, with every chance for success in the future, it behooves us, the present staff, in our first edition of this paper, to outline, in a manner, the principles upon which this publication will be run and the policies for which it will stand. Our hopes for a wider circulation, improved and more vital editorials, "newsier" articles, and better feature sections will not need discussion here. They will be evident, we hope, to the campus and its friends in the future.

In the first place, then, we will aim to present in a clear, interesting, "newsy" manner, all items of interest to Lebanon Valley people, on the campus or elsewhere. That does not mean that LA VIE will not be a student paper—of, for, and by the students—but merely expresses our belief in the importance of broadening our horizon to ALL Lebanon Valley folks, EVERYWHERE.

Secondly, we hope to broaden our editorial functions. The columns of this year's LA VIE will strive always to impartially reflect and guide student thought. Our guide here will be a "Bigger and Better Lebanon Valley". Subjecting all class, society, or individual prejudices to an ever greater cause; we will present for your consideration problems and movements vital to our campus and frequently to others as well. We expect to be frank—and invite you to be the same. All signed letters sent to the editor for publication will be used, without disclosing the writer's name, if that desire is expressed. Let us hear from you!

Finally, our third and perhaps greatest function this year will be an intense but unprejudiced support of ALL worth-while student activities and enterprises. Among our aims will be support of all worthy clubs and organizations now existing; debating for all; athletics for all; the upholding of our dramatic tradition; wider and better publicity for campus traditions and activities; and last (and perhaps greatest), full support of the administration in raising scholastic standards.

That is what WE expect to do, folks, students, alumni, teachers, friends—what will YOU do? This is YOUR paper; it needs YOUR support. We stand for Progress—for a "Bigger and Better" Lebanon Valley. Do you?

REMEMBER—WITHOUT YOUR SUPPORT, LA VIE DOES NOT DESERVE YOUR CRITICISMS!!!

SUPPORT "LA VIE"!

After this part of the program came the splendid production of the play, "A Bill of Divorcement" under the direction of Mary K. Wallace of the English Department. The play kept the audience on edge from the beginning to the end. Miss Kindt and Mr. Aungst gave exceptional per-

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us

—BURNS

Oh Beby! What circus did you escape from? C'mon boy, strike him out! Just look at those cute blue and yellow stockings—There goes Beatty's Ford! The Bullentin is getting a red hot line on this game. Tomorrow we'll find the write up in some corner of the paper—Who ate all them peanuts? Them's mine!—Wow! see that one! This is Boob's heavy day. Let's give him a clap when he comes in—O poor thing! Did the naughty ball hit you in the side? C'mon Smitty, give us another homer—And that's the way to play base-ball from the sideline.

Never say die, do it—and save the world from at least one crank.

From the cradle to the grave women and men must differ. Take for example the college age. When the fellows start to raise moustaches, the girls get their hair bobbed again.

Everyone feels that Hooks isn't long for this world. He smiled during the Juniata game.

This is the grass on the campus. This is the horse that walks on the grass on the campus.

This is the mower that follows the horse who walks on the grass on the campus.

This is the professor who is angry at the mower which follows the horse who walks on the grass that grows on the campus.

Once upon a time there was a nice little collitch which was a good collitch and sent all its boys and girls home at Eastertime—for their spring vacation—to help their mammas to clean house and to catch up on their studies. But how glad the little boys and girls were to get back to the campus again, to eat the wholesome food and see the collitch bugs flying around the light at night. For the little boys and girls had gone to bed so early all through their vacation, and they were very tired, so the kind professors, who were young once themselves, let them sleep in class. And the little boys and girls studied very hard—how to get a few more shekles from dad after the Easter touch, or how to break those dumb dates made in the Easter rush. Yes children, if you'll do what these good collitch boys and girls do maybe you'll flunk some day and go to heaven too.

We wish to thank the former martyr to this column for her kind expressions of sympathy in the previous issue. We are sure we will need X amount of it to the nth degree.

"Quixotic is his enterprise, and hopeless his adventure is Who seeks for jocularities that haven't yet been made.

This old world has been joking for over fifteen centuries, And all the really funny things have long ago been said."

The Society wishes to express their sincerest appreciation of the untiring efforts of Miss Wallace in the making of this play a decided success.

After the program in Engle Hall, the audience was invited to the Alumni gymnasium where a social hour was enjoyed. The decorations in the gym were unsurpassable. It was arrayed in all the colors of spring with a large illuminated bell of different colors. An orchestra led by "Hen" Ludwig furnished first class music for the occasion. Refreshments were then served—the "end of a perfect day", and with the exception of a few hardships, the end of fifty Golden Years for Kalo with our motto ever in view: "Palma Non Sine Pulvere".

Kalo expresses its heartiest appreciation of the courtesy shown by Mr. M. B. Krum in furnishing the stage property and also the aid of several Professors and friends.

A surprise was given to all when the illuminated Kalo emblem appeared above the stage. This is the first time that any society on the campus displayed an enlarged reproduction of their emblem. Much credit must be given to the efforts of Walter L. Ness, '27 and his helpers.

IN COLLEGIATE CIRCLES

Prisoners at the New Haven County jail have demanded that compulsory chapel attendance be abolished, basing their appeal in the same language that the undergraduates of a prominent University used in petitioning the faculty to abandon compulsory chapel attendance there. Qu'est-ce que c'est?

The girls' rifle team of the University of Maryland defeated Syracuse 500 to 496. Six possibilities were made against Keene Normal and 499 against Georgia. The girls have dropped only one lone point in four matches. An idea for Lebanon Valley?

"Fraternity ideals and principles are vital for the welfare of our land and the life of the world today because of the great change in college life during recent years and the resulting confusion to the college student." Thus spoke Dr. Joseph C. Nate, national Historian of Sigma, Chi, at an inter-fraternity conference held at the University of Illinois early in March. There were more than 3,000 men present at the gathering, the first of its kind ever held in the United States.

Dr. Nate contended "The Modern problem of Greek letter work is that the ideals should not be lost in the midst of the many things among which chapter life must fight for its share of recognition and attention."

—The Bucknellian

A Junior at the University of Georgia carried an alarm clock to class so that he might be awakened from his sweet dreams in plenty of time to get to his next class. But evidently on a sudden inspiration, the time-piece began to alarm a few minutes before the period was ended and awoke the entire class before it could be recovered from the depths of his pocket. The professor kindly offered to awaken the class the rest of the year.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court decided that the recent merger of the United Evangelical Church and the Evangelical Association was legal. The decision reverses the Lebanon County Court which had decided the merger invalid as affecting the East Penna. Conference. The case before the court involved the control of Albright College at Myerstown, and was a vital one to the college. After the consideration the mergerites named six trustees to the Board. Court action taken by the anti-mergerites resulted in their being ousted by a decision by Judge Henry of the Lebanon County Court. The entire denomination is now under the same status as before the controversy which split the denomination 30 years ago.

A certain Southern College recently opened its baseball season by losing to an old rival with a score of 52 to 0. The next morning the President of the college said in a consoling way, "Boys, I'm proud of you. In yesterday's game you never disputed the decision of the Umpire in a single close play." We, who profess to know baseball, wonder how there could have been a close play at any single time.

"C"—"What do you mean, a triple threat prof?"
E—"Doesn't he teach Latin, Greek, and Spanish?"

"You say he broke up the bridal?"
"Yes. The horse was dead, the leather was rotten, and he had no further use for it."

KALOS HOLD POST AN-NIVERSARY MEETING

Easing up after the strenuous activity surrounding their Golden Anniversary, the Kalos gave a short but interesting program Friday evening, April 22. Roy Rook, vice-president, presided. The program follows: What's Wrong with China? Wm. Blatt; It may be so—Zechman; Quartette—Harmony Howlers; German Reading—Forrest Miller; What's New?—Kelly Ness. A business session followed the literary program. The meetings were very well attended.

Reading, April 20.

In a game filled with hard hitting Lebanon Valley swamped Schuylkill 22-11. Scoring 18 runs in four innings, the Arville Collegians eased up and Schuylkill romped across the plate 7 times in the fourth Zappia tightened up, allowing only two runs the remainder of the game. Bunching five hits in the ninth, one of them a home run by Wentz, Lebanon Valley scored four more markers. The hard slugging of the Lebanon Valley club was the outstanding feature of the game.

Annville, April 21.

Pitching a great game, Piela shut-out Juniata, allowing them only two hits. The first five innings Juniata was hitless, getting one in the sixth and one in the ninth. Lebanon Valley scored in the first when Hendricks tripled, Albright doubled, stole third and scored on Gilbert's sacrifice. Two scored in the second on hits by Piela and Piersol, Metoxen's sacrifice, and Hendricks' single. The third was like the first two innings, two runs being scored on hits by Mayer, Piela and Piersol. This ended Lebanon Valley's scoring until the seventh, when Hendricks doubled, stole third and scored on Wentz's sacrifice. The hitting of Hendricks and Piersol with Piela's fine hurling stood out for L. V. C.

CLIONIANS PRESENT SPECIAL PROGRAM

The members of Clion were surprised last Friday night to find how many professional members they had in their midst. A pleasing program was rendered which was both entertaining and educational.

It was as follows:

Music—Mildred Meyers
Sports—Madeline Mark
Serenading—Grace Daniel, Bebe Burrier.
Poetry—Emma Shaeffer
Dancing—Florence Miller
Golddigging—Pauline Shaeffer

DELPHIANS LEARN ALL ABOUT BUYING

The regular literary session of Delphian was held on Friday evening, April 22, at six o'clock. Tis true that "in spring a young girl's fancy turns to thoughts of pretty dresses." Delphian girls were told how to buy the most for the least amount of money, through the following programme.

TWO GOOD PROGRAMS PUT ON AT PHILO

The barnyard animals made their appearance on the stage in Philo Hall on Friday evening, April 8 when the Farm Show was presented by the members of the society. When the show began, Oscar Sneath led the procession with the "Horses" and he was followed rather closely by Carl Sloat with his "Cows". Fegley showed up following with his "Sheep" with all the tenacity of a good shepherd lad while "Judge" Marshall was in his element among the "Poultry". Sprecher concluded the program with his "Living Thoughts".

Returning from their vacation full of vim, vigor and vitality, Philos gave an extemporaneous program on Friday evening, April 22, as follows: Ye Olde Thyme Songs, Audience; Can a Rabbit Beat a Turtle to a Given Goal? Keene; The Importance of the Moon in Love-Making, Zwally; Love at First Sight, Horst; Is the Lumberyard an Asset or Liability to L. V. C., Kohler; Debate: Resolved: That it should be a misdemeanor in the state of Pennsylvania to hug, kiss, pet or otherwise, any girl who is not yet your close kin or your wife. Affirmative: Nitrauer, Negative: Pugh; How I Spent my Vacation, Snyder; My First Date at L. V. C., Sneath.

The Philokosmian Literary Society takes this opportunity to congratulate the Kalozetean Literary Society upon the successful celebration of their Golden Anniversary.

PHILOS END SIXTY YEARS' ACTIVITY WITH FRIDAY EVENING'S PROGRAM

Large Crowd of Alumni and Friends See Well Balanced Program
—Dr. Wallace Directs Play—Reception
In Gym Follows

The Philokosmian Literary Society opened its sixty-first year of activity on the Lebanon Valley campus on Friday evening, May 6 with a program which far excelled previous Philo entertainments. The celebration of the close of sixty years' progressive work began at 8:15 o'clock in the Engle Hall which was crowded with the many members and friends of the society. Dr. C. H. Holzinger, '16, offered the opening prayer. Wade S. Miller, '27, gave the President's Address, using as the basis of a most inspiring talk the motto of the society "Esse quam videri"—"to be rather than to seem". Jesse O. Ziegler, '19, gave a vocal solo, "Nocturne" by Curran, which was well received by the audience. Prof. R. Porter Campbell, '16, accompanied Mr. Ziegler. Jacob M. Horst, '28, closed the first part of the program with an organ selection, "Dithyramb" by Lucas.

The Nineteen Twenty-eight "Quitties" are scheduled to arrive next week and will be on sale before Memorial Day. The final proof reading and other last minute touches were completed several weeks ago and the printers are going ahead with the work, promising the book in the near future.

While the staff, for obvious reasons, does not care to disclose the details of this year's volume, it promises a book filled with photographs that are distinctive, and art work that is "different" and well handled. The beautiful (Continued on Page 3)

At the chapel exercises last Friday morning, Dr. Butterwick presented gold foot-balls to this year's eighteen letter men. The balls this year, furnished by Auld's Incorporated, of Columbus, Ohio, are of beaten gold, with raised enameled "L's". The name of the player and his position are engraved on each ball.

The following men were awarded balls this year:—Captain Fox tackle; Captain-elect Gelbert, Singley, Nitrauer, Starr, Zappia, backfield men; Cunjack, Bendigo, Piela, Elberti, Wood, Piersol, Wilson, Wheeler, Heath, Metoxen, linemen; and Mouer, Manager.

SECOND SENIOR TEA A SUCCESS

Men Again Succumb to Wiles of Female Classmates—Affair
Is Well Attended

Two weeks ago today, North Hall parlor was indeed a "homey" scene, as the senior girls dropped cushions here and there in preparation to entertain the senior boys at tea. Although the weather was inclement, the spirits of those present were not dampened in the least.

Pearl Lindenmuth delightfully entertained with a vocal solo, "At Morning". A rather wierd sketch entitled "The Witch of Vesuvius" taken from "The Last Days of Pompeii" was presented by Gladys Buffington, Miriam Dougherty and Sara Blecker.

Dainty refreshments were served by the girls, and, after persuasion, "Hen" Ludwig rendered further musical entertainment.

This is the second time that the senior girls have attempted to acquaint their bashful class mates with some of the formalities of Society. The girls report that the boys are learning rapidly—even "Zorky" Fox's foot-ball manners are becoming more civilized.

Timely Hitting Feature
Both Games

Before a colorful May Day crowd Lebanon Valley took Western Maryland into camp 5-3. Piela pitched magnificent ball, and except for the fourth inning, when an error and two hits gave Western Maryland two runs he was unbeatable. The boys from Maryland lead L. V. until the seventh when the locals pushed a run across to tie the score. Metoxen duplicated his feat of last week by knocking in the tying run with a slashing double to left. In the eighth L. V. scored two runs on hits by Wentz and Gelbert and Western Maryland's error on Piersols' bounder, enough to win the game. Piela struck out two men in the ninth, bringing his day's total to twelve. Piersol continued his hard hitting getting two singles in four trips to the plate.

This victory matched one of the Saturday before, when, in a beautifully played game, the exact opposite of the 22-11 victory at Reading, Lebanon Valley defeated Schuylkill Col-

On Friday, April 29th, Prof. Shenk took his class in History 46 for an all-day trip to Gettysburg, where they visited the battlefields. Prof. Wallace also accompanied the group. Prof. Shenk pointed out all the points of interest and explained in an interesting manner the history of the spot. They also visited the graves of many outstanding patriots not only at Gettysburg but on the return trip by way of Chambersburg, Carlyle and Harrisburg.

L.V. CONQUERS G-BURG IN TENNIS OPENER

Team Shows Up Well In First Match, Winning By Large Score

With our first tennis victory tucked safely in our belts, things have brightened up. The tennis prospects for this season's play looked decidedly poor with the loss of Dave Shroyer and Oritz from last year's team. The incoming freshman class possessed some likely looking prospects, but they have never competed under competitive match play and were therefore of an unknown calibre. The one sided 6-0 victory over Gettysburg's fairly strong team, has given things a new light. We have a fine team representing the school on the courts, and should have for a few seasons, in light of the fact that three of the men, Shroyer, brother of Dave of last year's team, Fink, and Hertzler are freshmen. Herr, a senior and Eberly a sophomore, were members of last year's team.

On Saturday afternoon, May 7th, students, alumni and friends, witnessed one of the most beautiful demonstrations in the history of Lebanon Valley—that of the 1927 May Day. Old Sol shone down in all his glory on the Queen of May and all the lads and lassies who came to pay homage to her, as he, too, gave evidence of his approval of this gay event.

This gala affair was a reproduction of a May Day of 1660 in Hereford, England. After the Cromwellian rule ended, there was a return of the royalty to the throne of England. Many changes were made in the manners and customs. The people, naturally happy because of the return of the royalty, demonstrated this fact by the erection of May Poles around which they danced with glee. As the merrymaking of the folk was in preparation, Nell Gwyn, a favorite of Charles II, came back to Hereford. The peasant folk had much respect and love for her and (Continued on Page 4)

Harold Jauss, Opens Series
Of Special Recitals

The first of a series of special Conservatory recitals was a two violin recital given by Harold Malsh and Harold Jauss in Engle Hall, Monday evening, May 9 at 8:15 o'clock.

Mr. Malsh a member of the conservatory faculty, has frequently appeared in Annaville both as soloist and member of the Harrisburg string quartet. He is not only a brilliant violinist but has been recognized as one of the best teachers in this section of the state.

Mr. Jauss began his violin study with Mr. Malsh and continued studying with him until he was accepted by Leopold Auer, the world's greatest violin teacher. To have a pupil (Continued on Page 3)

The Boy's Dorm became an "Open Book" last Thursday afternoon when the Men's Senate declared it open for inspection. The night before the halls had an unusual bath, so every thing was spotless—almost. Some of the boys could not appreciate the action of the Senate; but if they would have stopped to think that college training should prepare for every possible service they would have immediately seen the advantage of knowing how to clean a room, because men can never tell what misfortune may befall them,—can they?

MOTHER'S DAY

Last Sunday was Mother's Day. How did you fulfil its obligations? Did you at the last moment, remember to send her a ten-cent card? Did you send her flowers, candy or some trinket which she will cherish only because you sent it? Did you wear a flower for her, or send her a letter telling her how much you appreciate her—and possibly for the first time this year—omit asking her to send you something? Or did you forget all about Mother on Mother's Day? If you did remember her in some way, do you think it was for value received? Can a ten-cent card with a stereotyped sentiment repay full value for all a mother's love and sacrifice? However beautiful or costly our Mother's Day offering may be it cannot cover the many letters of complaints and crabbing about the delayed check or box, which mother receives in the course of a year; nor the strain of working feverishly that daughter may have the new dress in time for some college event. Perhaps Mother's Day reminds us of the holiday visit for which Mother longed, but we were too much rushed with dances and parties to spend a little time at home. Is Mother working our way through college? In that case we can never repay her sacrifices, but we might forget to mention money or our needs as often as we have done. We admire Lincoln and those great and famous men who attribute all their success to their Mothers—Let us permit our admiration of them to be our urge to lighten the burdens which our own Mothers must bear. And let us remember to make our appreciation of Mother concrete, not by feelings and sentiment only, but in words and deeds.

ALUMNI

The past week end has just demonstrated how much our Alma Mater still serves as a reunion ground for Alumni. The graduates who have gathered are of course mainly those who have received from the institution an early inspiration, which they have carried with them into business careers or, which may have been responsible for sending them into their life profession. But more than this,—they seem to assemble with deep affection in haunts that have grown sacred to them, where they meet with other "kindred spirits". We have men in every profession to-day who tell us that they are conscious of having more power and incentive because of college days spent here. Our strength and contribution thus reaches into many conspicuous and many out of the way places of life. We rejoice in the silent sweeps of this influence and the farthest thing from our minds is to ask credit for it.

Glad as the Alumni seemed to get back, the under-graduates were just as glad to see them. The students recognize and deeply appreciate the efforts of the Alumni to make a bigger and better Lebanon Valley. Hence there is a firm relation between college and alumni. We can both work together for a great mutual benefit. The more the alumni do, the more it means to the college; and the greater the college becomes, the more she will mean to the alumni.

Come again!

CUNJACK: "Oh it's great, it's great."

We heard that Wheeler met a girl called "Dizzie" in a revolving chair, and he's been going around with her ever since.

PHILO END SIXTY YEAR'S ACTIVITY WITH FRIDAY EVENING PROGRAM

1750 veering sharply at times from the tragic to the comic or the comic to the tragic. The audience was held in suspense throughout and showed its pleasure by generous applause. Credit can be given to no single participant in the play.

Philo can do no more than to express their most sincere appreciation of the part played by Dr. Wallace in the production of the play. Its success is a testimonial in itself of his work. For the assistance of Miss Mary K. Wallace the society is truly grateful. To those members of the cast who gave of their time and effort and especially to those members of our sister societies who assisted us, we express our thanks. Finally, to those members of the faculty and to the friends who assisted in any way to make the play and the anniversary such a great success, Philo is deeply obligated.

After the program in Engle Hall, the audience visited the Alumni gymnasium for the reception accorded it. The decorations in the gymnasium were the most exquisite ever produced on the campus. A scene of old Japan seemed to have been transported for the purpose. Flowers and cherry blossoms were present in profusion. Luke S. Mimura deserves special commendation for this work. A social time was arranged in the gym. An orchestra furnished music during the evening and refreshments were served at a cafeteria. Philo's giant birthday cake weighed almost 100 pounds and was sent to the society by J. G. Meyer.

The blinking sign of welcome over

—BURNS

Stut—stut—stutter! My j-j-joints were coming apart with every stutter. I had fallen asleep in a big wig, but the wearer was dashing about and slaming on his hat with so much energy, stuttering all the while, that to avoid being crushed I dropped gently out of the wig into the feathers of a huge bonnet. The bonnet was so loudly red that it kept me awake and I had a good time watching what went on around me. There was a puch bowl on the table but it held nothing exciting. The gentlemen were quiet reckless with their quesues. I was afraid the candles would roast the pig tails. And I noticed that every one said such exciting things. I heard one man tell the company that the lady in brown had seventy children. To me snuff seems to be more practical than gum. For one thing you can't stick snuff under seats and then too it would save the girls a lot of money spent on vanity cases which the fellows steal, because the fellows could carry snuff boxes which might have compartments for rouge and powder. Of course snuff can't be cracked like gum, but there is always the chance of a sneeze. Being only a worm I have often wondered whether in the days when men wore knee-breeches, they knew enough to stop runners when they occured. Some one told me that the reason women don't use fans as freely as they used to was because the fans blew away too much powder. Yes, sir I certainly enjoyed that play, it gave me food for thought.

Dr. Gossard and Prof. Gingrich held a coming out party at the foot of the stair-case in Engle Hall immediately after the Philo play. All the high brows attended (and Mister Bovino).

Since Pass Bollinger rerolled the tennis court the feelings of the Freshmen are very much hurt, and they absolutely refuse to roll them next year.

Mennonite—Special Delivery—Garabalbi—Moose-tooth—ney Whale—Broady—Economics—Cheesy—Bright-eyes—Mooney you bad boy—Family table—Two Gun—

—It's neither a cross word puzzle nor a list of Freshmen theme titles—see our next for the solution.

Since the Kalo play Hazleton spends a good deal of time in the library reading the "Cyclopedia of Social Usage".

Every two hundred flowers which go to seed on the campus means one quart less of dandelion wine.

Last week a Coed and a student took a walk.

I saw a Frosh go into the chicken yard for a tennis ball and come out with an egg.

Why did the students laugh when the chapel speaker stated that he found many improvements at L. V., dancing classes being one of them?

ative audience in the Parish House at Palmyra. Judging from the applause the program must have been enjoyed. After the concert the girls were delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Engle.

The program follows:

To the Spirit of Music (Stephens). The Club; A Pastoral (Cary-Saar) and An Irish Folk Song (Foote), Miss Burrier and Club; Reading, Miss Apgar; Aria (Weber), Mrs. Harnish; Ode to the River (Drigo-Silver), Thy Beaming Eyes (MacDowell), April, My April (Milligan), The Club; Quartet—All Thru The Night (Rhys-Herbert); Ave-Maria (Bach-Gounod), Mrs. Harnish, Miss Saylor and Club; (Violin Obligato, Miss Schlieter); Duet, Mrs. Harnish and Miss Saylor; In Spain (Chiara) and Habanera (Bizet), Miss Burrier and Club; Reading, Miss Apgar; Spring Symphony (Goslon), Mrs. Harnish and Club.

the doors of the Ad building proved a point of interest to all. The same was true of the "fish bowl" in the gym. Philo closed its sixtieth year in a very appropriate fashion.

The characters in the play were as follows:

David Garrick	Wade S. Miller
Mr. Simon Ingot	Albert H. Ketchner
Squire Chivy	Elmer A. Keiser
Mr. Smith	Harvey L. Nitrauer
Mr. Browne	Millard J. Miller
Mr. Jones	J. Bruce Behney
Thomas	Henry A. Kohler
George, Garrick's valet,
Ada Ingot	Walter D. Pugh
Mrs. Smith	Myra O. Shaeffer
Miss Arminta Browne	Jennie Shoop
	Nellie G. Rabenstine

Dr. G. D. Gossard, if his physician permits him, expects to attend a meeting of the Board of Education of the U. B. Church in Christ at Bonebrake Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio on Tuesday.

lege for the second time this season 2-1.

In this game, Clemens, the first man to face Zappia, singled, stole second, and scored on White's single. This ended Schuylkill's scoring. Zappia pitching air tight ball, blanked them for the remaining eight innings, allowing them only two more bingles.

Lebanon Valley tied the score in the fifth on two walks, a hit batsman and Gelbert's fielders choice. L. V. scored again in the sixth when Piersol singled, and took second on Mayer's sacrifice and scored on Metoxen's double.

Piersol was the big man at bat for L. V., along with Metoxen, whose timely double drove in the winning run. Zappia allowed Schuylkill four hits, two of them in the first inning producing their only run.

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

KALOS PRESENT SHORT PROGRAM

A very interesting program was given in Kalo Hall, May 6th, at 6:00 p. m. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all although it was short in order to give the fellows time to get ready for Philo Anniversary.

The Ocarina—a solo given by "Fritz" Rhodes put the boys in good humor for the remainder of the program. John Bixler gave a very enlightening and interesting resume of the Mississippi River Flood. Calabrese took Rudyard Kipling's place and read the poem "If" to the delight of everyone. Hafer demonstrated his musical talent with a piano and drum combine. The Kalozetean Literary Society congratulates the Philokosmian Literary Society on the success of its Sixtieth Anniversary.

Moszkowski; Concerto in D minor, Bach; Pastorale; Sadness; Abandon; Midnight; Serenata; Godard; William Bretz at the piano.

The recital to-night at 8 o'clock will be given by Grace Daniel, piano; Bernetta Burrier, Voice; and Viola Wolfe, organ. The public is invited to all these recitals.

accepted by Leopold Auer is indeed an honor of which Mr. Malsh can be very proud.

Having resided in Philadelphia for the past two years, Mr. Jauss continued his study with Sascha Jacobinoff, a master violin teacher of the Curtis Institute. The program was not only interesting to musicians but also to the general public.

The program was as follows: Sonata in D minor, Handel; (a) The Old Refrain (Viennese Popular song) Kreisler; (b) Gondoliera, by tiful Molloy cover advances the effect of the general theme which is "When Knighthood was in Flower". Several new features increase the book's appeal. The engravings, furnished by Hammersmith-Kortmeyer Co., of Milwaukee are of the best, while the typography is especially attractive.

The staff, having worked patiently and well for months on this year's publication, nevertheless does not propose to make any "wild" boasts. But—well—you wait and see!

The number of copies is limited but there will be approximately twenty-five books for which the Business Manager has no subscription. Persons desiring to be sure of a copy should see Danny Pugh at once. And remember it's dedicated to the Alumni! Perhaps your dad or some friend who is an old grad will want one? Don't forget—Pugh is the man.

then turned over to the reading and discussion of the life and plays of John Galsworthy.

The program: "Life of Galsworthy" — Mae Hame. "The Skin Game" — Eleanor Snoke "A Bit of Love" — Nelda Spatz. The Reader's Club, having advanced greatly during the last year, has a bright future. Each year it is increasing its membership and the scope of its influence. Its members are expecting next year to be even more worth while.

CLIO SENIORS GIVE INTERESTING PROGRAM

The evening of May 6 was given over to Seniors who made the evening bright in the domain of Clio Hall. The Seniors gave a program interesting and amusing in every detail under the name of "Senior Reminiscences." The program was:

Freshmen Days — Emma Madeliff
My Idea of Professors — Bernetha Strickler
Campus Strains — Madeline Mark
The Highlights of Campusology — Jennie Shoup

Acquiring Dignity — Lucie Kamm
After such an enjoyable program everyone realized how much the Senior Clonians will be missed.

The Clonian Literary Society wishes to congratulate the Philokosmian Literary Society on the success of their sixtieth anniversary.

DELPHIANS PRESENT NOVELTY PROGRAM

Delphian enjoyed a seasonable novelty program at their regular Friday evening meeting, May 6. It was extremely enjoyable in the fact that Delphian experienced all the thrills received in Spring storms. The program, entitled "April Showers Bring May Flowers", was as follows:

Black Clouds — Esther Flickinger
Thunder — Olive Weigel
Lightning — Sue Wishart
Rain — Winifred Peck
Rainbow — Elva Riegel
Sunshine — Sara Lou Rose
Showers vs. Flowers — Mildred Lane

The Delphian Literary Society heartily congratulates Philo on its successful Anniversary Programme.

HISTORY CLASS ON TRIP TO GETTYSBURG

Eight automobiles carrying thirty-six people made up the caravan. They left Annville at eight o'clock in the morning, arriving at the battlefields about 10:30. The group gathered on the summit of "Little Round-top," where Pickett made his famous charge, and there Prof. Shenk portrayed vividly the whole battle of Gettysburg and the events which led up to that momentous day. It was pointed out that the battle was supposed to have been fought at Tanytown, that if General Lee had seized little and big round-top the battle would have been won by the Confederates. Before leaving for return trip at noon, the house of Jenay Wade, the only civilian victim of the battle, was visited.

On the return trip a stop was made at Chambersburg where the party visited the home of President Buchanan. In Carlyle the class paid homage to Molly Pitcher at the grave of this Revolutionary War heroine. The grave of John Harris, the founder of Harrisburg, was visited as the group came through Harrisburg. In Paxtang a stop was made at the old Scotch-Irish church which contains the graves and histories of many local Revolutionary heroes.

Every spot was thoroughly explained in a most fascinating manner, and the members of the class report that it was a very valuable excursion.

There will be a meeting of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania at Washington and Jefferson College, at Washington, Pa., on Friday. If Dr. Gossard's health does not prevent him, he will be present at this gathering.

FRESHIE PROGRAM PUT ON AT PHILO

Freshie's Night was observed in Philo Hall on Friday evening, April 29 with an interesting program by the plebes. Each part was well given and the first year men are invited back soon again. The program was as follows:

Rules I would suggest for the Freshies next year. — D. Bovino
Fresh Quartette — J. Rojahn, C. Keene
A. Sitlinger, J. Snyder
Debate: Resolved that the spring round-up is an asset to the Freshie.
Aff: O. Sneath Neg: W. Myers
Fresh Music — R. Jacks
Living Thoughts — R. Sprecher
It is interesting to note that the negative team was victorious after a well planned debate.

as a result they made her their Queen. Queen Nell, happy indeed to be their Queen, then told them of her love for them. Gifts were given to her by Councilmen of the town and the peasants danced for her. In the midst of the merrymaking, King Charles arrived and together they enjoyed this festive and delightful occasion.

Miss Florence Dundore, as Queen Nell, was indeed a charming Queen. She made a lasting impression upon her large audience, thus upholding the popularity which she has established among the student body. Miss Nellie Rabenstein as Maid of Honor also proved to be very attractive. The Attendants to the Queen were Misses Kay Young, Madeline Mark, Gladys Buffington, Blanch Stager, Myra Shaeffer, Bennie Shoop.

Mr. John Walter as King Charles, was an additional feature of the program. He indeed presented a regal appearance and was a fitting mate for the Queen. The Gentlemen of the Court were Messrs Walter L. Ness, Wade S. Miller and Henry Ludwig.

O. Pass Bollinger, as Court Jester, performed to the delight of the audience. Even the Court ladies and gentlemen found it hard not to smile when he clung to the May pole with the Chef's monkey. The Mayor of Hereford was Raymond Koch. The Townsmen were the presidents of their respective classes. The Peasant Dancers composed of Freshmen, demonstrated their ability in performing for the Queen. The Fairies, who were Sophomore girls drew several nods of approval from the Queen. The Taterlude "Pyramis and Thisbe" proved to be very amusing as well as interesting. The May Pole Dancers who were Junior boys and girls, presented a pleasing appearance as they danced about the May Pole. The Herald, Frederick Miller and Miles S. Kiehner warned the whole country side with their clear, clarion warning to "Make way for the Queen."

The audience was a very appreciative one and it was inspiring to have a crowd of people assembled like the one that witnessed this year's May Day activities. Again another May Day festivity has passed into the history of Lebanon Valley—one which will long be remembered.

Grateful acknowledgement is due Mrs. Green, Miss Green, Miss Mary K. Wallace, Miss Shaw, Miss Alice Kindt, Mr. H. D. Albright and others who made this occasion a decided success.

GLEE CLUB HOLDS MAY DAY CONCERT

joyed by all and Prof. Rogers is to be complimented upon the club which he has put together and trained in spite of adverse conditions.

The musical numbers were all well received. Mr. Carpenter's solos were appreciated by all. Mr. Albright deserves mention for his readings, as well as for the novelty sketches. He very vividly and effectively recalled to memory an old scene in which our own "Jit" was an active participant. Members of the 1927 Glee Club will always remember the York Y. M. C. A. cafeteria with a smile because of the comedy enacted there by our own clown.

With the exception of a single post-season concert in Lebanon tonight, the season is ended and everyone is looking forward to the annual banquet. Needless to say, there will be no Y. M. C. A. cards necessary at this important event.

SPEAKERS NAMED FOR GRADUATION

the judges of the United States circuit court of appeals for the third judicial district, while Mr. Fisher is a prominent Presbyterian minister.

Judge Davis received his A.B. and A.M. degrees from Bucknell University and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Crozer Theological Seminary. He studied law at the University of Chicago and at the University of Leipsic, and later received a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Pennsylvania, and an L.L.D. from Bucknell University.

In 1907 Mr. Davis began the practice of law and in 1912-1913 when he was a member of the New Jersey State Senate, he sponsored many progressive administrative measures during the administration of Governor Wilson in 1913. After serving as the U. S. Attorney for the district of New Jersey and then as a judge of the U. S. District Court, District of New Jersey, he was elected in 1920 to his present position as a judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of appeals for the third judicial district.

Mr. Davis is a talented man, a full speaker, an active worker in the religious work of the Baptist Church, and a leader in educational affairs.

The Rev. Charles Allen Fisher, after graduating from L. V. C. in 1903, received his M.A. from Princeton University in 1915, and a B.D. from the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1906. He served three pastorates since his graduation, one in Maulapan, N. J., one in the second Presbyterian Church of Providence, R. I. and at present he is in Worcester, Mass.

Dr. Fisher has always been successful in building up his church in numbers and in finances, and is active in the New England Synod of the Presbyterian Church, having been sent three times to the General Assembly as a commissioner. His scholarly attainments, his ability as a pastor and administrator have placed him in the front rank of the ministers of his Church.

Mr. Fisher has many friends in Lebanon and its vicinity for he is the son of Mr. John H. Fisher of Lebanon, a prominent member of the Trinity U. B. Church in the same city. His brother is Dr. Geo. S. Fisher, a well-known physician of Lebanon.

W. S. G. A. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

On Monday afternoon, May 1st, at four o'clock, the Woman's Student Government Association met in North Hall parlor to elect members of the governing board for 1927-28. A vote on the candidates as presented by the faculty, resulted in the following board members being elected:

President, Mary Geyer. Senior Representatives, Sara Lou Rose, Mabel Hafer, Olga Freeman. Junior Representatives, May Burkholder, Jane Fearnow. Sophomore Representative, Anna B. Apgar.

These of course are very responsible positions. This year's board included the following: Mary McLanachan, Kathryn Young, Mabel Hafer, Jennie Shoop, Sara Lou Rose, Mae Burkholder, Bernetta Strickler, Ruth Cooper.

GIRLS HOLD PARTY FOR MRS. GREEN

The girls of L. V. C. all joined in a surprise party for their dean, Mrs. Green, on Thursday, April 21. It was a surprise indeed, for the girls as well as Madame Green, for the program was unique. Madame Green told about her vacation and how she spent her birthday. She was then presented a beautiful basket of flowers from the W. S. G. A. The girls part came next. They showed their ability to entertain by giving the following program:

Reading, Madeline Rife; Piano Solo, Fae Bachman; Spanish Dance, Edna Gorski and Elizabeth Matthes; Sketch, Jane Fearnow and Eleanor Snoke accompanied by Ruby See and Lucille Kann; Solo, Leah Miller.

CHUBBY: "Old boy, I want to tell you how much I enjoyed your sermon last Sunday night—I certainly did."
PARSON: "Thanks, but I thought you had a house date with your girl."
CHUBBY: "I did—her parents went to hear you."

SOCRATES: "When better jars are built, Ford will build them."

Y.M.-Y.W. HOUSEPARTY HELD AT MT. GRETNA

Annual Conference and Social Gathering Promises to Become a Tradition

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. held a joint house party at Mount Gretna over the week-end of May 13. Both the old and the new cabinets of each organization were present at this week-end conference and social gathering. The party left the college Friday evening after supper, and they hiked to Mt. Gretna, arriving there late in the evening. During the several conference and discussion periods that were held at various times all the plans for the coming year's work was discussed. The presidents led in these discussions, in addition to which Dr. Bennett made an interesting talk. The principle items were the big brother and big sister movement, the point system, and the Eagle's Mere Conference.

On Friday evening the past President of the Y. W., Miss Emma Madciff, led the opening devotions into which all entered heartily. Saturday morning the two retiring Presidents Miss Madciff and Mr. Miller spoke to the group about the purposes and present problems of the Christian Association. Following this Miss Eleanor Snoke, the new President of the Y. W., led in an open discussion on plans for next year.

TWO RECITALS ON FOR THIS WEEK

Splendid Program Presented on Tuesday—More Students Should Attend

Another of the series of spring recitals was given in Engle Hall, Tuesday, May 24 by Christine Evans, organ; Bernita Strebig, organ; Violet Krone, piano and Leah Harpel, voice.

Miss Evans opened the program with a group of organ numbers with beautiful melodies which were well rendered.

Every one enjoyed Miss Harpel's vocal numbers. Miss Krone's Beethoven Sonata and the rest of her piano numbers are worthy of praise with respect to technique and interpretation.

KEISER—SNYDER LEAVE HOSPITAL

"Red" Keiser and "Dick" Snyder, both well-known juniors from our campus have both left the Lebanon Sanatorium, where they were confined for sometime. Mr. Snyder has been out for over a week and will soon be able to leave the house, but Mr. Keiser has been out of the hospital only a few days. Both are well and will be back to school next year better than ever. Neither hopes to complete his school work this year. Keiser was operated upon for appendicitis, while Snyder had an operation performed on his leg, which was becoming infected due to imperfectly removed pieces of steel lodged there.

Mrs. Francis Conklin, white-haired grandmother who is a co-ed of the University of Denver, thinks the current derogatory criticism of youth is all wrong. It was not Mrs. Conklin's pleasure to attend a college until her children grew up. When her youngest daughter graduated she entered Denver as a freshman. She has now come to the conclusion that "College life is not what the critics say it is". She declares that she is proud that her children have a better and healthier attitude toward life than she had in her youth.

GLEE CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Officers Elected for Coming Year After Annual Feast
Held Last Week

The Lebanon Valley Men's Glee Club brought to a close one of its most successful seasons on Wednesday evening when they journeyed to Grantville and enjoyed the annual banquet of the club. With Fred Rogers, Bender, Butterwick and Gingrich, 23 members of the club made the trip to Grantville. Chicken and waffles and country ham with all the trimmings constituted the menu for the evening. All seemed to enjoy the meal and there was plenty for all. Horst led the attack on the food and "Jit" got all he wanted on his Y. M. C. A. card.

Following the meal, Bruce Behney, acting in the capacity of toastmaster welcomed the guests and then called for short talks from the following: Prof. Andrew Bender, Prof. R. R. Butterwick, Prof. C. R. Gingrich, Prof. George Rogers, Pass Bollinger, '28, John Walters, '27, Henry Brubaker, '28, Harold Herr, '27, Harold Herr, '28.

LAST WEEK'S RECI- TAL PRESENTS FOUR

Misses Hess, Weigel, Lindemuth and Daniel Give Well Balanced Program

A recital was given by Grace Daniel, organ; Hilda Hess, piano; Olive Weigel, piano and Pearl Lindemuth, voice; Tuesday evening, May 17, in Engle Hall.

Miss Weigel opened the program with a lively number and ended her group with Valse Chromatique, filled with runs which she played clearly.

Miss Lindemuth followed with three German selections. She also sang a group of English song which she sang sweetly, producing good tones on the low as well as the high notes.

Miss Daniel's organ numbers were a pleasing contrast to the loud and brilliant piano numbers. The sweet spring like melody in the Spring Song and the lovely Scherzo as well as her other numbers pleased the audience.

Miss Hess played the well known Military Polonaise in a commendable manner. Every one enjoyed the brilliant Polichinelle.

LEBANON VALLEY WINS-DROPS TWO

After Losing Two Hard Ones on Southern Trip, Mylinmen
Brace and Bump Muhlen-berg and F. & M.

Annville, May 21:—

Lebanon Valley won its sixth game of the season in nine starts, defeating Franklin and Marshall here this afternoon 5-3. Piela started on the mound for L. V., but was relieved by Zappia in the fifth when he filled the bases by allowing a hit and two walks. Zappia who relieved him was nicked for a double, three runs scoring. He held F. & M. scoreless for the remainder of the game. Lebanon Valley scored one in the second and fifth innings. L. V. scored three in the eighth. Zappia started the inning with a double; Hendricks beat out a bunt; Zappia was out on Albright's fielders choice; and Wentz walked, filling the bases; Gelbert's long sacrifice fly scored Hendricks; Piersol singled, scoring Albright and Wentz; Piela ended the running by grounding out to the shortstop.

Washington, May 11—Lebanon Valley's two games below the Mason and Dixon line, while well played, resulted in defeats. Mt. St. Mary's nosed us out 3-2, in a game stopped at the end of the fifth inning because of rain. Chances are we might have won the game if the weather man had not interfered, since we had two men on and none out when the game was called.

The Georgetown game was a hard one to lose. It took the Washington Collegians ten innings to set us down 4-3. Zappia pitched a beautiful game, making it all the harder to lose. He allowed them seven hits in ten innings, which is pitching nice ball. Leading 3-2, Georgetown went into the ninth frame, confident of it ending in the regular time. But Wentz first man up, got his third hit for the day, Gelbert walked, and Piersol's slashing single drove in the tying run. Gelbert was out on an attempted squeeze play. The next two men fanned. Georgetown and L. V. could do nothing in their half of the ninth and tenth respectively. A double by Graham, followed by O'Neils single scored the winning run for the Hill-toppers.

POET-SOLDIER IN CHAPEL ADDRESS

On Friday, May 13, "The Poet Soldier" spoke to the most attentive audience that chapel has been able to boast of for quite a while. The speaker, who was a member of the famous Rainbow Division, the first division of American troops to fight on the front, described very graphically the "high-lights" of the World War from a dough-boy's viewpoint. He rounded out his address by giving several poems of his own composition, each of which "told a story" about the "Poet-Soldier" and his buddies. A free-will offering was taken to help this most welcome visitor on his way.

The president of William and Mary College recently announced that there will be no freshman rules next year. The freshman class a few days ago broke all previous customs by breaking restrictions two days before scheduled time in defiance of the rules made by the student body and to the dignity of the upperclassmen. That the old men had to have power to enforce rules was obvious to them. Therefore they took the stand that unless power was granted to tribunals to enforce the rules by appropriate punishment, there was no need of having them.

SECOND ANNUAL CLIO CIRCUS A SUCCESS

Varied Performances Presented on the Campus This Week
Peases Several Hundred
Local Folk

Clio's "Bigger and Better" Circus came to town as is usual with circuses in a cloudburst. This is the second annual appearance of the show in Annville. The fact that it had to be postponed from Wednesday till this Monday presented no problem, for the crowd was bigger than ever.

The parade around the town began at 6:00 P. M. and by 6:30 they had formed the large ring on the campus of L. V. C. The circus added a new feature to its list this year in the form of sideshows.

The events of the evening were set going by the bareback riders on their spirited colts from the Pine Splinter stables.

The sideshows with their freaks caused no end of excitement, especially the snake charmer, Senorita Carmen; Sophie, the fattest woman in the world; the woman immune to pain; and Mamie, the tattooed lady.

The Indians came in with a whoop that sent chills down everyones spine. They caused quite a bit of disturbance and ended by scalping several white men.

L.V. TENNIS TEAM WINS AND LOSES

Locals Drop Match to F. & M.,
But Take One From Urisinus
And Albright

The Lebanon Valley Tildenties won two and dropped one in the past two weeks, winning from Urisinus and Albright, but losing to F. and M. Rain interrupted the match with Urisinus, Lebanon Valley leading 1-1 at the time. From the type of play exhibited in the singles, the doubles sets would have undoubtedly been fast and closely contested. Lefever first man for Urisinus, beat Shroyer of L. V. 6-2, and 9-7 in beautifully played sets. Herr and Hertzler were driven to three sets before they were able to vanquish their opponents. Fink set Tomilson down in straight sets.

ELECTION HELD FOR MEN'S SENATE

Many Changes Noted in Next Year's Senate—Two Ties
Require Extra Voting

On Wednesday, May 11, the annual elections for the Men's Senate were held. Great interest was manifested in these elections because it is one of the highest honors of the college to be a member of this organization. Six Seniors, five Juniors and three Sophomores compose the Senate with the addition of one Freshman to be elected by the incoming class. Any member of the Senior class standing, except the day student, is eligible for the presidency of the Senate.

This election proved to be one of a tie vote between Clifford Singley and Walter Pugh for one of the Senior representatives, and Howard Wentz and Dominic Calabrese for Junior representative. On Wednesday, May 18, the tie was voted off in favor of Singley and Calabrese. Those who comprise our Senate for the year 1928 are as follows:

Seniors: Clifford Singley, Milford Knisley, Elmer Keiser, Samuel Meyer, Millard Miller. Day Student Representative, Walter Waggoner.

Juniors: Henry R. Aungst, Maynard P. Wilson, Dominic Calabrese, Miles S. Kiehner. Day Student Representative, Lawrance B. Derickson.

EURYDICE GIVES LAST CONCERTS

Lancaster and Harrisburg Concerts Repeat Former Successes—Girls Broadcast
From Lancaster

The Eurydice Choral Club of Lebanon Valley College, under the direction of Miss Ruth Engle, has given two more concerts, one at Lancaster and the other at Harrisburg.

The girls had the largest and most appreciative audience at St. Andrew's Reformed Church, Lancaster. Judging from the hearty applause, the program was enjoyed. Miss Anna Appgar gave "The Highwayman" by Alfred Noyes instead of her usual reading.

ENGAGEMENT IS AN- NOUNCED BY SENIORS

The culmination of a four year campus romance came with the announcement, at the Y.M.-Y.W. house party, of the engagement of Wade Miller and Benny Shoop, both members of the class of '27. Mr. Miller, who is well known on the campus, due to his participation in numerous campus activities for the past four years, is universally liked on the campus. Since Benny is also very popular, the match promises to be a splendid one. It is rumored that Wade and Benny have "paired" since the second week of their Freshman year. "La Vie" unites with the student body in wishing them "lots of luck".

CAREFUL!

At the time that this is written there is a report that there will be no Senior Play—an activity whose failure will be a discredit not only because it appears in the College Calendar in the Catalogue, but because it is a splendid and well-loved tradition. There may be several reasons for the failure of the seniors to respond. It may be that the fault lies in their lack of the well known "class spirit and loyalty". This condition would of course be regrettable, but we feel that this is not entirely to blame—nor are others which have been suggested.

For some time the administration—and unfortunately the student body as well, but for different reasons—has been neither encouraging nor supporting worthwhile student activities. This temporary (we hope) disappearance of a men's debating team is a "classic example". With a faculty cry on one side of, "To the books", and a student wail on the other of "What's the use" the value and the dignity of extra-curricular activity on our campus are fading—slowly and weakly disappearing. Student activities, which really unfold the character and personality of the student as no prescribed college course ever will, are being gradually suppressed and discouraged. The proposed Point System, if it limits activity instead of over-activity will be worse than a failure. Beware lest we kill the goose that laid the golden egg!!!

BUT THEN — — —

There seems to be a general tendency on the campus for students to want the honors a position will give, but to let someone else do the work. This is true among the literary societies and all our organizations and campus activities. Don't complain about the dull programs which your society offers if you are one of those students who constantly refuse to serve on its programs; or who provide a substitute instead of serving. Substitutes are often inclined to throw an air of 'duty' around their production, and substitutes lack the snap which your own presentation would possess. When you refuse to do what is asked, your are depriving the organization or activity of the service of others as well. They will point to you as an example—you aren't going to serve, why should they? You are not put on a committee merely to make that committee the required number, but because there is work for you to do. Possibly you can do that work more competently than any other student on the campus. Then do it whole heartedly, and be ashamed to see a task done in a slip shod fashion by another, just because you were too indolent to do your part. If you know that for a good reason you absolutely cannot afford the time, or if you do not feel competent enough, let those in authority know and the work will be given to some one who can do it.

Too many irons in the fire are worse than none at all. Don't accept many positions just for their honors when you know that you can't perform their duties. It's better to be recognized for one service competently done than to be known as a student who never does what he is asked to do.

FLOOKIE: "Say Mooney, do you know that Janet is going around telling people that she made a man of you? You can bet my girl never says anything like that."

AUNGST: "No, but she did her best."

FROSH (from the sticks): "What's this?"

WISE KRACKER: "That's a shoe horn of course."

FROSH: "A what?"

WISE KRACKER: "A shoe horn, I use that for playing foot notes."

Mr. Charles C. Peters, '05 who is now professor of Education at the University of Miami will become prof. of Education and Director of Educational Research at Pennsylvania State College in the fall.

Mr. Charles B. Wingerd, '97 who has been pastor at the Presbyterian Church at Martin's Ferry, Ohio has been transferred to New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Mr. J. Maurice Leshar, '15 has just received the S.T.M. degree from the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh.

Miss Alta B. Bortz, '22 a teacher in the Junior High School of Lebanon will teach English in the Lebanon High School.

MISS GILBERT IN CHAPEL ADDRESS

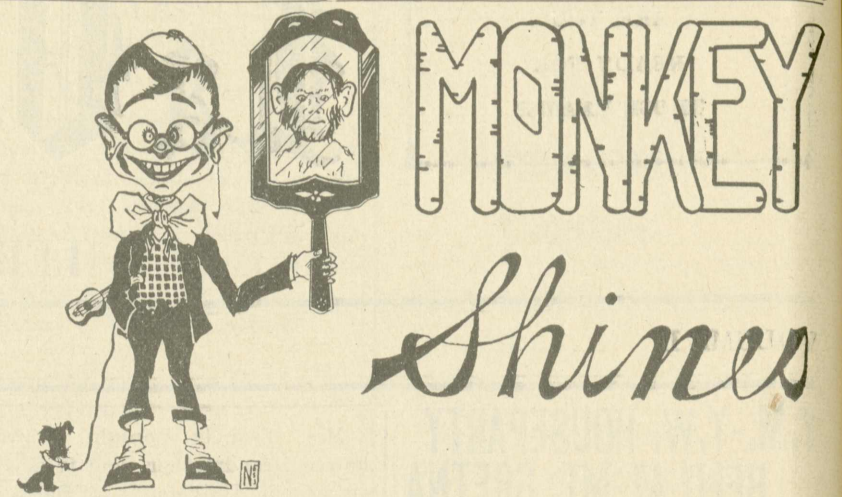

Everyone, especially the girls, were pleased by the short but inspiring talk given in Chapel last week by Miss Janet Gilbert. She is Denominational Secretary of the Otterbein Guild, thus having much opportunity to deal with young folks and their problems. Miss Gilbert quoted several cardinal points for success, illustrating them extremely well. Most of us will remember especially that "insane people never cooperate". After her address, Dr. Shenk welcomed her back to Lebanon Valley. Miss Gilbert talked at several church services during the preceding Sunday.

Sophomores: James C. Hazelton, Rudy Cunjack. Day Student Representative, Edgar Shroyer.

The above mentioned will take their oath of office at the first chapel exercise of the 1928-1929 school year.

The spring round-up this year was a quiet affair. No one noticed it except the Frosh and those citizens of Annville who live near the campus.

George S. Brookes, ex-16 University of Rochester, could not get his sheepskin because he was unable to pass Freshman English. Now with Walter B. Lister he is co-author of "Spread Eagle", a new play now running in New York. With finals so near this should bolster the courage of L. V. Frosh, as well as lend a ray of hope to any upper classmen who need it. Brookes has also written for "True Story", a good method for getting rid of Freshman themes.

Judge Marshall's social experience has totally destroyed his faith in human nature.

It was once feared that the present Senior class would do nothing to uphold the traditions of L. V. as a matchmaking institution, but the 'Y' house party saved the situation.

There are matches sulfuric
And matches phosphoric,
But the safest to have
Is a match with a cleric.

This may be a bit premature to discuss, but the army alpha Intelligence test might be used to advantage at the Student Reception next September. Is here any better way to get acquainted than to discuss with your neighbor whether a Papuan had two, six, or eight legs? And there is no cause for one to be bored when he is occupied in putting an x in that part of the triangle which is in the square but not in the circle, and a y in that part of the circle which is in the square but not in the triangle.

When you go to bed late and get up early,
Break every date, and the profs are surly;
When mid-flopping seems much labor lost,
And time wasted shows, too late, its cost;

When dorms are quiet and papers crackle,
Brains working hard unused to battle;
When the library's more than a meeting place,
And you hope and pray you'll draw an ace;

When every prof's glance is meaningful,
And you wish you had just a little more pull
When you look for notes you didn't take,
And plan how beset to stall and fake;

When your diploma looks unattainable,
Credit hours are few and to pass impossible;
When next year's schedule sets your head in a whirl,
And Seniors hear 'Soggy' snap and snarl—

The final exams are near.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CIRCLES

Mr. William Davis, who left two months ago for the Soviet Republic to make arrangements with the Russian Student Bureau for the reception of the official American Student Delegation, has just returned to New York City, and the Committee on the American Student Delegation to Russia is now able to make public complete plans for its first summer trip. The Student Council of New York is an affiliation of the social problems clubs and several of the student governments of the New York University, New York School for Social Work, Teachers College, and Union Theological Seminary. These groups meet from time to time to hold intercollegiate meeting on China, Nicaragua, Mexico and Russia, and other leading problems of the day. The committee has expanded its numbers and is now a national council with affiliated groups throughout the United States.

—The New Student

The eighteenth anniversary of the founding of Otterbein College was celebrated last Tuesday morning by a special service held during the chapel hour and extending through the following class hour. Professor W. H. Siebert, dean of the Arts College at Ohio State University and Miss Alma Guitner were the chief speakers.

Dean Sieber, speaking on "The Relation of the Small College to the Large University" said, "In Ohio at least there is no such thing as the small college." He stated further that the attitude of hostility which used to exist between the university and the small college, has changed to an increasingly friendly one due in a large measure to the efforts of W. O. Thompson, former president of Ohio State University. "The remarkable increase in the number of students has eradicated all vestiges of rivalry among the colleges of Ohio," he said.

Robert Knight, student representative, spoke of the purpose of the college, stating that it was the production of men and women of good character rather than teachers and preachers as was so commonly supposed.

Pres. W. G. Clippinger presided, Dean N. E. Cornet and Dr. T. J. Sanders led the devotions. Dr. Clippinger is a graduate of Lebanon Valley.

Oberlin College is scouring the country to fill the vacancy left when Dr. Henry Churchill King ends his term in June after twenty-five years at the head of the institution. Among those mentioned as possible successors to Dr. King is Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet.

In no other American University is there a "Campus Day" celebration comparable to that recently held at the University of Hawaii. Typical of Hawaii alone, of the island ancient traditions, is the luau or grand feast which is the main event of the day. Five long tables were arranged under tents, facing a platform where hula dancers and musical numbers enlivened the luau.

Visitors thronged over the University grounds at this celebration, the chief object of campus day being to acquaint the public with the work of the university.

The University of Hawaii is now nineteen years old. It is one huge cosmopolitan club, having students of all varieties of color and race. Practically every country bordering on the Pacific is represented at this island university.

KALO-CLIO HOLD JOINT SESSION

Kalo and Clio held an enjoyable and seasonable program in chapel last Friday evening under the caption of "Springtime." It was one of the most successful joint sessions in the history of both societies.

Spring was surely in the air and just this type of program was necessary to clear the minds for the exams so soon to follow. The opening feature was a "Spring Dream" an original paper by the famous authoress Alice Kindt. Walter Waggoner then responded with "Reminiscences of the World War", a very interesting and appealing account of some of his experiences in that great struggle. After this talk, Violet Krone on the organ and Hen Ludwig on the piano gave us some masterful bits of jazz, proving again that they are truly artists. "Red" Calabrese came next with his renowned interpretation of Kipling's "If".

After the program an hour or so was devoted to sociability at which time refreshments were served.

SECOND ANNUAL CLIO
CIRCUS A SUCCESS

Not the least of the attractions were the tight rope walker and trapeze performer. Their grace and ease proved their skill. Soon, however bicycles entered the ring, and a race was matched which ended in a slight accident. That prepared the way for the great wild west show featuring the cowboys with their lassoes, but no one was roped in.

There is always a cloud arising in a clear sky, and so on circus day the minstrel show presented a dark spot and plenty of action.

The whole circus was a roaring success. The kiddies were amused by the animal performances, and the older folks received their thrill from the shows and other attractions.

EURYDICE GIVES

After the concert the club-broadcasted part of their program from station W.K.J.C. at the Kirk-Johnson studio. This was quite a new experience for most of the girls.

The last concert was given at Harrisburg, Thursday evening, May 19, at the Sixth Street United Brethren Church Harrisburg. The audience was large. All the members of the club have thoroughly enjoyed the trips and hope to continue them next year. The girls are especially grateful to Miss Ruth Engle, the leader, as well as to Mrs. Harnish, Mrs. Mills and Miss Saylor, their soloists who have helped to make the programs a success.

PHILO ELECTS
NEW OFFICERS

Officers for the closing term of the year were elected by the Philo Literary society at a special business session on Monday, May 9. They are:

President, Homer Weist; Vice-President, Elmer Keiser; Recording Secretary, John Beattie; Corresponding Secretary, Uhl Kuhn; Critic, D. Leroy Fegley; Chaplain, Oscar Sneath; Pianist, Jacob Horst; Treasurer, Millard Miller; Chairman Executive Committee, Milford Knisley; Judge, Emerson Metoxin; Trustees, Arnold Zwally, Harvey Nitrauer, Harold Rider; Sergeant-at-arms, Albert Sitlinger; Assistants, John Snyder, John Rojahn.

Friday, May 13 marked the beginning of the Senior Oration program in Philo and the program was:

We all labor against our own cure; for Death is the cure of all disease, Fegley. The 320th Anniversary of the first settlement of Jamestown, Klinger. Crafty Men Condemn studies; simple men admire them; and wise men use them, Ulrich. Vocal Solo, Sneath. Truth sits upon the lips of dying men, Sloat. Living Thoughts, Sprecher.

On Friday evening, May 20, the following variety of serious thought and humor was offered to Philos and friends:

Current Events, Zwally. Where there is a will, there is a way, Keene. Better late than never; but better never late, Hoffman. Why are Sophomores so silly, Oyer. Socratic Debate: "Resolved that the Ministry is a better profession for service than teaching." Affirmative: Stone; Negative: Wise.

Hertzler in the doubles for L. V. were the only ones able to break through the strong game flashed by the F. & M. team.

Doubles

Shroyer, Hertzler—4-6-6
Lefever, Fegley—6-3-2

Eberly, Herr—4-1
Taylor, Stroble—6-6

Lebanon Valley emerged from the L. V.—Albright tennis match with an easy triumph 6-0.

Shroyer, Herr, Hertzler and Fink won their singles in straight sets. In the doubles, Herr and Eberly had little difficulty, beating Asper and Youse. Hertzler and Shroyer paired up for the second set of doubles, whipping Bashore and Hangen of Albright.

This is Albright's first year in the intercollegiate tennis field. In view of this fact they made a fine showing, and should have a strong team on the courts next year after this season's competitive experience.

Hertzler—6-6
Hangen—2-3
Shroyer—6-6
Bashore—0-2
Fink—6-6
Youse—2-3
Herr—6-6
Asper—1-0

Hertzler, Shroyer—6-7
Bashore, Hangen—1-5

Total score—L. V. 6, Albright 0

EXTEMPORANEOUS PRO-GRAM HELD AT KALO

The extemporaneous speeches given by several Kalos on the regular meeting night, May 13, proved very amusing as well as interesting. The speakers were by no means at a loss for what to say in spite of the fact of their being called upon "on the spur of the moment". One of the most interesting numbers on the program was Walter Waggoner's talk on "The Most Important Battle of the World War". Having taken part in several conflicts himself, he made one feel that he could see the whole affair in Kalo Hall.

Following is the program:
"The Most Important Battles of the World War" — Walter Waggoner
"Gunga Din" — J. Fiorello
J. Gordon Starr
J. Gordon Starr
Violin Duet — Shroyer-Lewars

Y.M.—Y.W. HOUSE PARTY
HELD AT MT. GREINA

Despite the inclement weather the several hours open for recreation and social enjoyment were pleasantly spent. It was during the social hour of Saturday evening that Mr. Wade Miller and Miss Jennie Shoop announced their engagement in a most unique manner. It was a splendid culmination of the evening's entertainment.

On Sunday morning Mr. D. Leroy Fegley conducted a Sunday School class, and there was also regular worship. In a discussion following this some very commendable plans were made concerning next year's work; the working out of the point system whereby awards would be given; The sending of delegates to the Eagle's Mere Conference; and the establishment of a goal.

In the afternoon Dr. Bennett talked on a number of things that were most vital. He brought up the questions of what faith is; at what time we become Christians; and the viewpoint of whether doing Christian service is a duty or a privilege.

Three party hiked back to Annville again after supper. The general sentiment seemed to be that the having of joint house-parties of the two organizations should become a tradition. This is the second year that it has been done.

Allentown, May 18—Muhlenberg undefeated, until to-day, with a record of six straight wins, was treated roughly by the L. V. batsmen, succumbing under a deluge of two base hits, 13-6.

Blasting out sixteen hits, eight of them doubles and one a triple, Lebanon Valley took the kick out of Muhlenberg. Every man on the L. V. team cornered one or more hits. The brilliant playing and hitting of Bendigo at backstop and the fine fielding of Albright was not diminished by the creditable performances of the rest of the team. Weidmayer played a fine fielding game for Muhlenberg.

Editor, "La Vie Collegienne",

Annville, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

I am very thoroughly dissatisfied with some conditions which exist at Lebanon Valley College and I wish to thank the staff of La Vie Collegienne for an opportunity to express my feeling on certain subjects.

There is one condition at present with which I am extremely disgusted.

No other causes so great a feeling of revulsion as the state of affairs which exists between the males and females in our school. It might very well be said that after a single date, a couple is "regular"; by a second meeting, the pair is automatically engaged and when the third becomes known, the marriage certificate is signed.

As a general rule, no one else will ask the girl for a date because the fellows think her already taken.

Then, too, none of the other girls wish to accept an invitation from the fellow for fear that they may hurt the first girl's feelings.

Why should such a condition exist?

Let us be democratic and permit both boys and girls complete freedom.

Put away petty dissensions and discussions when one does not follow the set rule. Let us mutually agree to follow our own thoughts and ideals and not be governed by age old cusoms.

I say—Away with "custom marriages" at L. V. C.

I trust that you will publish this at your earliest convenience as a contribution from

Sixty-six Degrees In 58th. Annual Commencement

BACCALAUREATE SERMON SUNDAY

Special Music Prepared—Dr.
Charles Allen Fisher, an Alumnus to Speak

On Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock he graduating class of Lebanon Valley College will open their week of Commencement exercises with the Baccalaureate services. Charles Allen Fisher A.M., B. D., will deliver the address to the class. Dr. Fisher is a graduate of Lebanon Valley, having gone out in 1903. He later entered the Princeton Theological Seminary and was awarded the B.D. degree there in 1906. In 1915, he received his Master degree from Princeton University.

He is at present serving as the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Worcester, Mass.

Special music for the Baccalaureate exercises is in charge of Miss Ruth Engle who has arranged a choir for the occasion. The services, as usual will take place in the United Brethren Church and the graduates will occupy a reserved section with the faculty, headed by G. D. Gossard.

ALBRIGHT TAKES ANNUAL B. B. GAME

Sherrid, P.M.C.—Albright Star,
Holds Mylinmen to Five Hits
Gelbert Stars for L.V.C.

Lebanon, Pa., May 30.

Lebanon Valley was defeated by her old rival Albright for the fourth straight year; in their annual baseball classic 6-1.

Lebanon Valley's lone tally came in the fourth inning when Gelbert lifted one of Sherrid's fast ones over the left center field fence for a home run.

Albright had but one earned run off Zappia who did the hurling for L. V. The hitting of both teams was scarce and well scattered. In only one inning was more than one hit made off either pitcher. This was in Albright's half of the sixth when they nicked Zappia for three hits to push across

OFFICERS NAMED FOR NEW SENATE

On Friday of last week a meeting of the newly elected Men's Senate was held in the office of President Gossard for the purpose of electing officers. For President Mr. Clifford Singley was elected, Mr. Millard Miller for Vice President and Mr. Miles Kiehner for Secretary. Dr. Gossard spoke briefly of the honor and responsibility devolving upon those elected as members of the Senate. The newly elected body will not be officially installed until the opening of the next college year, but a number of matters required attention at this time, most important of which was a revision and approval of the college rules and regulations.

Professor O. Edgar Reynolds, professor of Education and Psychology at Lebanon Valley College received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University, New York City on June 1, 1927 at the 173rd commencement of Columbia University. Both he and Mrs. Reynolds went to New York on Wednesday morning to attend the exercises.

Dr. Reynolds received his A.B. from the University of Illinois in 1916 and his M.A. from Columbia University in 1917. Before coming to Lebanon Valley College, he was an assistant in School Administration, of the Teachers College, Columbia University. Lebanon Valley College congratulates him.

L. V. DROPS SEA- SON'S LAST MATCH

Tennis Team Suffers Defeat at Bethlehem in Season's Final Match

Bethlehem, May 28—

Lebanon Valley closed its tennis season by dropping their match to Moravian 6-0 at Bethlehem. In the singles Hoffman and Shroyer, played three fast sets. Shroyer was leading 5-2 in the first set, when Hoffman started his winning spurt, that carried him to victory 7-5. Shroyer took the second set 8-6. The third set went to Hoffman 6-4.

Captain Herr pressed A. Spaugh in a 9-7 set before Spaugh triumphed. The second set also went to Spaugh 6-2. Hertzler and Fink went down in straight sets before G. Spaugh and Yaick.

The score in the first match of doubles by no means shows the great game exhibited by the losers, Shroyer and Hertzler dropping it, to Hoffman and A. Spaugh. Herr and Eberly followed their teammates losing to G. Spaugh and Yaick.

The L. V. tennis team experienced a good season, in view of the fact that three of the four members of team were playing their first season of intercollegiate tennis. In six matches played they emerged victors in three, finishing the season with an

ENGLISH DEPT. VISITS CHEF'S

Professors in the English Department and their assistants spent a very enjoyable evening at a party at Chef's Place last night. A program of speeches followed a most delightful lunch, which began at seven o'clock, the party having left the campus in cars earlier in the evening. Both this and next year's assistants were present, as well as Miss Myers and Mrs. Wallace. The party included: Dr. and Mrs. Wallace; Miss M. K. Wallace; Misses Esther Walmer, Alice Kindt, and Nelda Spatz; and Messrs. Donald D. Kulp and H. D. Albright.

L. V. CLOSES 1927 BASEBALL SEASON

Team Bumps S. U. and Juniata, But Loses to Penn State
in Last Games

Annville, May 28—Lebanon Valley bumped off Susquehanna, in a game filled with many extra base blows, 7-5. Five of Lebanon Valley's seven hits went for extra bases. The ability of the L. V. team to hit with men on base accounts for their victory. Susquehanna scored only five runs on thirteen safe blows.

Huntington, June 2—Timely hitting behind Piela's pitching beat Juniata here 5-1. Piela struck out ten men, being particularly effective with men on base. Juniata's only run was the result of a fluke three bagger. The hitting of Gelbert and Bendigo featured.

Penn State, June 3—Lebanon Valley closed it's baseball season by dropping one to Penn State 11-3. The State team made eleven runs on twelve hits, two of them homers. L. V. made three runs on eleven hits, being unable to connect safely with men on the paths. Piersol, L. V's big first baseman, was their outstanding player, cornering a double and a three base swat.

TWO RECITALS HELD LAST WEEK

These Last Two Programs Mark
The End of The Spring
Recitals

The last of the spring recitals, given by the more advanced pupils of the Conservatory of Music of Lebanon Valley College under the direction of Miss Ruth Engle, was rendered by Violet Ferree, Piano; Violet Krone, organ; David Shroyer, Voice; Alcesta Slichter, violin; and Edgar Shroyer, violin.

Miss Ferree opened the program with the lively Fantasia in D minor Mozart.

Enjoyable Entertainment in the Gym Precedes Trip to Chef's
Place for Banquet

President and Mrs. Gossard proved to be very charming hosts on Friday, May 20 at the Snior Indoor-May meet held in the College Gym. The gym was beautifully decorated with flowers and also the class and society pennants.

After the guests had been divided into two groups, known as the Ens Society and the Rios Society an interesting and amusing program was rendered as follows:—

Lebanon Valley will be represented at the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Summer conference to be held at Eagles Mere, June 10-20. The representatives from the Y. M. are Messrs Bruce Behney, Millard Miller, Roy Flook, and Russel Oyer. Those of the Y. W. are Misses Eleanor Snoke, Ruth Strubhar, Corrine Dyne, Emmeline Shaffer, Madeline Rife.

For many years these conferences have been mountain top experience for College groups and individuals. Over 600 interested men and women students from colleges and universities of the middle Atlantic region will attend. These nine days will contribute much to the International student movement now afoot.

WRITER'S CLUB CONTEST CLOSES

Anna Mark Winner of Short Story—John Beattie Winner of Parody

The Writers' Club of Lebanon Valley College announced the winners of the short story and parody contest in chapel on Thursday morning, May 26:—first prize Anna Mark, second prize Alice Knidt, honorable mention Esther Flickinger for the short story contest; and first prize John Beattie, honorable mention Helen Payne for the parody contest.

Dr. Wallace, the faculty advisor of the Writers' Club, after saying a few words about the sport of writing, called the winners on the rostrum and presented each with a curious little bag containing a fortune in gold.

Miss Mark's story was "By His Deeds Shall He Be Known", Miss Kindt's "The Daffodil Lady", Mr. Beattie's parody on "The Raven", and Miss Payne's "A Day-Students Ride" will be published in the next issue of the "Chat Book". The remainder of the book will be devoted to the graduating class. Let everyone be ready with twenty cents next week to buy a "Chat Book" immediately for there will be only a limited number published.

FACULTY—SENIORS ARE BIG-LEAGUERS

The faculty-senior base-ball game, held last Monday proved to be an oasis in the desert of exams. The bleachers were crowded, more students turning out for this than for some of the Varsity games. The faculty line-up included: Stokes, Mylin, Bender, Bennett, Gingrich, Wagner, Richie, Grimm, Reynolds, and Butterwick and Wallace, utility. Mylin, who pitched for the faculty, was "Foxed" several times. Reynolds, who also shone in the outfield, was daring on the bases. The umpire fielded well, while the other players made one or two errors in the course of the game.

Commencement Exercises to Climax Activities of a Busy Week

In its Fifty-eighth annual Commencement next Wednesday, Lebanon Valley College will confer degrees on sixty-six candidates. This constitutes one of the largest groups that has ever received degrees at one time. Beginning on Sunday with the Baccalaureate Sermon four days will be given over to activities relative to commencement.

At ten fifteen Sunday morning, June 12, the Baccalaureate Service will be held at the College Church. Charles Allen Fisher, A.M., B.D., of Worcester, Mass. will preach the sermon of the occasion.

The activities of Monday will consist of the Annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees at 10:15 A. M. In the evening at eight o'clock the Commencement Music Recital will be rendered in the Conservatory of Music. An excellent program is prepared for this last recital of the year.

TWO SUMMER SES- SIONS SCHEDULED

Summer School to be Held at Harrisburg and Annville
Enrollment Large

Lebanon Valley College closes its winter term of 1926-27 only to re-open the 1927 Summer term on June 20. The Summer School will not be confined to Annville alone, but will also be held in Harrisburg, as last year. The Harrisburg enrollment was even larger than the local one in 1926.

Claude S. Chappalear, M.A., and Verno L. Mongun, Ph.D., have been added to the Educational Department faculty for the Summer term. Both men come well recommended.

TWO SPEAKERS AP- PEAR IN CHAPEL

It was indeed a pleasure to have with us within the last two weeks, two prominent men in United Brethren Church—Dr. S. G. Ziegler and Dr. S. S. Hough. Dr. Ziegler is secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions and Dr. Hough is secretary of the Board of Administration whose offices are in Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Ziegler gave a very interesting talk in chapel concerning Foreign Missions. Later he held an audience with the Y. W. and Y. M. Cabinets to discuss the methods of support for our missions for the next year.

Dr. Hough related how the United Brethren church has been progressing, and pointed out the many ways in which improvements can be made. All will be pleased to have these men return some time in the near future.

HOW ABOUT IT?

This issue of LA VIE marks the last for the school year. The Staff, in putting out these few issues since its installation, has become "acclimated." We expect to do big things next year—for the School and for you. You can help, as we have said before, with your interest and support. Fall in line! The School is progressing—how about its Student Publication?

BEST WISHES!

The LA VIE staff, in this last issue of the year, extends to faculty, students, alumni, and friends best wishes for a happy and profitable vacation. To the Seniors we wish Godspeed and all manner of success next year and in the years to come. For the rest of us—may we all be back, looking forward to a "bigger and better" year.

GIVE US A LIFT!

Students—will you "give us a lift"? All of us want a better LA VIE, and one of the shortest ways to attain just that is a larger and comprehensive subscription list. Seniors—will you subscribe? Do it now! Alumni—how about you or your neighbor, or your former classmate? Students—how about your dad, or your friend who is an alumnus, or your high school teacher who once trod these paths? Help us out! It means more for all of us.

First F. and M. eats our chalk; next our bats disappear. If the base ball season was longer we might have to ask for another endowment in order to support our team.

Lindberg takes a cat across the Atlantic and is considered a hero. But many a student has taken a poney into the class room and never received even honorable mention.

SENIORS-ATTENTION

You will want to subscribe for LA VIE next year, lest you lose contact with the campus and its people. See that "Danny" Pugh or "Jake" Horst gets your dollar at once, or at least leave your name with one of them, with the promise to subscribe at the beginning of next year.

ALUMNI!

Fall in line! Send in your renewal at once. The business staff will appreciate any new subscriptions you could "land"—or information about people who would want LA VIE. Thank you!

CLASS OF '27 TO GET SHEEPSKINS

as Alumni Day, and is a tradition of long standing. In the forenoon there will be a Business Session, with luncheon at eleven thirty. In the afternoon at one thirty the Class Day Exercises will be put on. Following this at three thirty there will be a Reception by the President and Mrs. Gossard. As a culmination of the day the Annual Banquet will be held in the evening at six-thirty, at Chef's Place.

There will be but one affair on Wednesday, this will be the Commencement held in the College United Brethren Church. Judge J. Warren Davis, L.L.D., of Trenton, New Jersey is the commencement orator. Following the address President George Daniel Gossard will confer the degrees to the graduating class, and the prizes will be awarded.

It is not possible to state definitely at this time the places where all the graduating members will be going and the professions into which they enter. But it is definitely known that about twenty have positions as teachers. Several of the ministerial students are going to Bonebrake and other Theological Seminaries, and there are quite a number who will carry on post graduate work for other degrees. Mr. Manard Sparks has been awarded a Latin Scholarship by the University of Chicago.

At this commencement there will be a few honorary degrees conferred by Lebanon Valley College. Two persons, Mr. Phares G. Gible, and Miss Lillian M. Kell will receive the A.M. degree. A Conservatory of Music diploma will be awarded to Esther Koons.

The following are candidates for the A. B. degree: Elmer Ross Andrews, Sara Elizabeth Blecker, Annetta May Boltz, Gladys Mary Buffington, Sadie Amanda Daub, Miriam Rebecca Daugherty, Florence May Dundore, Virginia Katherine Edwards, Leland Keiser Fackler, Daniel LeRoy Fegley, Beatrice Boone Happel, Hilda Heller, Lucile Meek Kann, Albert Herr Kelchner, Robert Theodore Knouff, Mark Hertzler Lyster, Leland Campbell Lehman, Pearl Kathryn Lindemuth, Madeline Anna Mark, Mary Catherine McLanahan, Wayne Sellers Miller, Nellie Grace Rabenstein, William Alvin Sauer, Myra Olive Sheaffer, Jennie Elizabeth Shoop, Carl William Sloat, John Luverne Snively, Walden Maynard Sparks, Blanche Rebecca Stager, Bernetha Elberta Strickler, Clarence Erb Ulrich, John Floyd Walter, Kathryn Mary Wheeler, Kathryn Young, Charles Harold Snively.

Those to receive the B. S. degree are as follows: Ester Lydia Beyerle, Samuel K. Clark, Clair Milford Daniel, Russell Seitz Fornwalt, Harold Warren Fox, William Forrest Hemperly, Harold Harry Herr, Henry Lester Ludwig, Emma Isabella Madciff, Robert Gaylord Martin, Luke Shigeyuki Mimura, Mervin Lester Morrow, Roy Vern Mauer, Walter Lee Ness, Homer Erdman Wiest, Earl Carlton Williamson.

The B. S. in Education degree will be conferred on the following: Mary Catherine Davis, Adessa Fry Kistler, Charles Floyd Lichtenberger, Emerson Metoxin, Grant Samuel Smith, James Gordon Starr, Charles Daniel Wise, Walter Zenski, Maurice Clinton Demmy.

Those to receive degrees at the close of 1927 Summer School are as follows: A. B. (Elias Jacob Kline and Esther Mary Walmer); (B. S. in Education) Harry Grant Garberich, Daniel Hamilton Gingrich, Chester V. Koppenhaver, Gertrude Hassler Nisley and Guy Rudisill Shumaker.

This is the time when:

Senior Men

Try to appear at ease in cap and gown and wish they didn't have such big ears.

Senior Women:

Spend hours before their mirrors desiding as to whether the cap looks better tilted north, south, east or west.

All other students are wishing they had never seen this man's college.

Faculty

finds its reputation is being established.

This worm has often wondered whether all professors—as we say—go to the bone-yard for their examination questions.

The exam cartoon on the bulletin board last week was painfully prophetic. By this time many of us have gone on the rocks.

The gym during exam week, furnishes a perfect subject for a still life painting.

An old grad was wandering around the campus. His thoughts were of his far off college days. How changed the college was from his own short days! The Old Grad sighed. Where were the beautiful, willowy, billowy coeds and the husky men who had walked the campus when he was a student? He remembered how the strains of guitars had echoed romantically across the campus. He had a vivid memory of the meeting of the Haasen Pepper Club. Were stray hairs still found in the butter, and had prunes and pears remained on the menu? North Hall steps shone bare in the light of the setting sun. The Old grad dreamed on. A crowd of students poured out of North Hall and went on down the hill. A 'uke' and a 'sax' echoing over the campus joined their noise to barnyard braying which issued from the Conserv. Dusk was falling and couples were slowly—very slowly—coming up the hill. Couples congregated around the steps of North Hall. Stars appeared, lights and shadows marked the campus. On North Hall steps couples were talking—talking. The Old grad stirred and lighted a stogie. After all, college hadn't changed much.

Many a student before us, has lived on cheese and spaghetti. The Campus worm found the following verses in an old "Bizarre" We should always remember that others have suffered.

Was it cakes that I spoke of? Excuse the mistake!
Look close and you'll not see a sign of a cake.
Cakes here at the college? Yes, sinkers no doubt.
If you board at the college, you'll never get gout.

We've a trick—we young students, you doubtless have heard
Of calling our food by names most absurd.
That dish is the "Doggies", and that is the "Dope".
'Tis a horrible diet,—of course—we've lost hope.

That dish is the "Bullets",—the one on the right:
Oh, dear! they are hard! Will you have one tonight?
That's our "Crisp Breakfast Cereal". We call it the, "Chaff".
That's the "Cream". Have another dish? Don't make me laugh.

That dish with the "Macaroni—Tomatoish" look
Is one that is made by our clever new cook.
You see that "Duke's Mixture"? That's made out of bread
It's the principle diet on which we are fed.

That dish, we think, is intended to dope.
They try to conceal it by naming it "soup".
Two beans, much cabbage, one small green pea,
Just look in the bowl, that's all you can see.
(H. E. W., '12)

The Campus Worm, because of exams, has had one eye shut for a week, and now he's going to curl up and sleep until next September, dreaming about the funny Freshmen who will help to fill this column.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CIRCLES

Rutgers University is the latest victim of the "Ask Me Another?" craze, according to the New York Herald-Tribune. The answer given by the senior class to a recent questionnaire are illuminating if not alarming.

Mussolini, the Italian dictator, was favored over President Coolidge by a vote of thirty-two to seven as "the biggest man in the world." George Bernard Shaw also received seven votes. Concerning the question of "the biggest man in America" sixty-seven seniors voted for the President as against eighteen who chose Gov. Al Smith.

It seems that eight Rutgers seniors are not yet sixteen-or at least they've never been kissed. Twenty members of the class decline to smoke while seventy-one admit a liking for the weed. Fifty-one of the graduates-to-be would rather have a Phi Beta Kappa key than a varsity letter, while thirty-four would prefer the athletic honor.

A bewildering paradox has occurred in the senior class at Auburn University, Alabama. Only five men in the class pledged themselves to 'turn up' any classmate he saw cheating on an examination, and yet the majority wished to maintain the honor system. In an effort to ascertain the real feeling on the Auburn campus, the senior class has submitted the following questionnaire to be signed by those individuals who wish to signify their support of the system: "I hereby pledge myself to support the honor system to the extent that I shall report any violations of its constitution that come to my attention."

Students of Washington and Jefferson College have revolted against the rulings on absences which continue to become more severe. At a student meeting held recently, a petition was drawn up, voicing the general opinions in favor of abolishing the faculty committee on absences, and was submitted for adoption. A favorable adjustment of the matter is expected soon, especially since the administration has communicated with other colleges and universities to determine their policies concerning absences.

COLUMBIA SPECTATOR

We need snap courses. Good students take them in order to have time to concentrate on other subjects that happen to interest them more—and that in itself justifies them, if ever they need justification; poor students take them because they are easy, and not infrequently interesting; and why not? As long as one hundred and twenty-four points are required and both kinds of students are so completely taken up, just so long will snap courses fill a defendable want in the curricular mart.

IN AND ABOUT THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

KALOZETEANS CLOSE YEAR

Kalo closed the 1926-27 year with two senior programs. A final business meeting was also held, for the installation of next year's officers, final reports of committees, and so on. Kalo wishes everyone a "big" vacation and extends to the Seniors best wishes for all sorts of success.

Mr. David Shroyer followed with "The Trumpeter" by Dix and Road ways" by Densmore.

Miss Slichter and Mr. Shroyer then played Violin Duet No. 1 by Pleyel. This being the only number of its kind that has been given at the spring recitals.

Miss Krone then played "Hymn of Glory" by Yon followed by a selection from "Paliacci" Leoncavallo by Mr. Shroyer.

Miss Slichter played a violin solo, Berceuse from "Jocelyn" by Godard, this piece has a sweet melody as well as several difficult runs which were well rendered.

Miss Ferree followed with three pieces by Schumann, Warum, Grillen and Romance, also a piece called Invitation to the Dance by Weber. The first three pieces had flowing melodious while the last piece was filled with runs all of which were clearly played. We all love to hear Miss Ferree play the piano.

Mr. David Shroyer sang "I Heard you Singing by Coates and Red Bombay" by Reddick. Mr. Shroyer who has appeared at various recitals before always pleases his audience with his mellow voice.

Miss Krone closed the program with Bourée and Musette by Karge Elect, Bon Jour-Reiff and Sherzo in G minor—Bossi. As usual Miss Krone's numbers were greatly appreciated because of the excellent manner in which they were played.

Another of the spring recitals was given Tuesday, June 1st by Mildred Myers, piano; Mable Yingst, organ; Leah Miller, voice; and Edgar Shroyer, voice.

Miss Myers opened the program with a Sonata in A major by Scarlatti and ended the group with the well known Gavotte and Musette by d'Albert. Everyone loves to hear the sweet melody in Liszt's Liebestraum. Miss Myers is to be complimented upon her interpretation of this piece. Her last piece as well as all the others were well rendered technically.

We always like to hear Miss Miller sing with her clear high soprano voice. She sang The Ninety and Nine accompanied by Miss Hida Hess on the organ. Everyone enjoyed the cheerful lively song "The Answer" by Terry. Her songs were all given in a commendable manner.

This is the first time we have heard Edgar Shroyer sing at a recital. The audience enjoyed his numbers and we will be eager to hear him again.

Miss Yingst is to be praised for the exceptional manner in which her difficult pieces were rendered. The sweet pieces formed a delightful contrast to the rest of the program.

The following program was rendered: Sonata in A major, Scarlatti; Gavotte and Musette, d'Albert by Miss Myers. When Love is Kind, Night and the Curtains Drawn, Ferrata, by Miss Miller; Sonata in D minor, Chorale (con moto Maestoso), Scherzo in moto pastorale, Toccata, Rogers by Miss Yingst; I attempt from Love Sickness, Purcell, The Asra, Rubenstein, Mr. Shroyer; The Ninety

DELPHIAN TEA DELIGHTS MANY

On Tuesday, May 24, Delphian and her friends enjoyed a delightful resumé of the year, in the form of a Birthday Tea. The various months of the year were represented as follows:

Flossie Dundore, as January, read a poem, introducing the following months with appropriate sketches. Blanche Cochran offered Cupids Arrows for February; Mildred Umholtz, an Irish reading for March; Anna Appgar, April; Mary Overly, May. A Novelty wedding under the direction of Fran Long told those present that June had arrived. July by Alice Woy furnished a delightful contrast to June; while a line of lovely bathing beauties carried everybody to Atlantic City in August. Miriam Daugherty proved a splendid teacher with the coming of September, which Violet Ferree and Frances Hammond ably represented October and November. Louise Fencil, is December, brought her gifts in the form of a delightful, dainty lunch.

FROM THE MAIL BAG

Editor, La Vie Collegienne.
Dear Sir:—

I noticed from the last issue of your paper that a certain Sammy Salmon is "very thoroughly dissatisfied and disgusted with some conditions which exist at Lebanon Valley College." I take this opportunity to express my feelings on these same conditions in order to defend my Alma Mater and a few others. Mr. Salmon,—"If your feeling of revulsion is so great, as you say, why not go to a college where this condition does not exist? Why not remain in your high school or in your home town? Why not go to a Male College in Utopia? There probably you would find 'Optimum' socializing! My dear friend, do not lose faith in your Alma Mater because of such conditions, for they exist in every college. It is a perfectly natural thing,—it is even true to human nature. 'Tis true a variety of friendships is valuable, but who would sacrifice for the frivolous flirting with a thousand girls, a quiet stroll with the one whom you admire? Why is a sailor's life never settled? Because he has a different sweet heart in every port. How true to life! Lebanon Valley should be proud of her marriages because not one has resulted in divorce. What is more valuable than to learn to know your life mate before marriage? And where is there a better place than in college? Certainly not on the streets. Where could there be more in common to mould lives into perfect harmony? Who is so 'Democratic' that he will share his bride with the world in order that she may know other personalities? Oh, my friend do not become discouraged with humanity. Some day probably you will appreciate the fact that other boys do not want to take your girl.

I trust you will publish this in the defense of our Alma Mater from.

DELPHIANS ELECT 1st. TERM OFFICERS

With the closing of the year, Delphian Society has been very much interested as to who should carry on her activities during the coming year. After careful consideration by the girls, the following officers for the opening term were appointed:

President, Frances Long; Vice President, Frances Hammond; Recording Sec., Mildred Lane; Corresponding Sec., Helen Hand; Treasurer, Mildred Umholtz; Chaplain Ruth Cooper; Pianist, Alice Woy; Warden, Josephine Schell.

We congratulate these new officers and wish them much success.

The standards for our summer school are being raised yearly, making them consistent with those of our regular sessions. The following courses will be offered during the summer: at Annville: Bible, Education, Chemistry, Mathematics, English, French, History, Economics and Political Science. At Harrisburg the courses offered are: Education, English, Latin, History, French, German, Mathematics, Political Science and Sociology.

The enrollment at both places is expected to be larger than ever this year.

their only earned run. The remainder of Albright's runs were due to good base running and misplays by Zappia's teammates. Albright scored a run in each of the first three innings on one hit per inning. The one in the third was scored on a piece of hard-luck, when Bendigo's throw to third hit the runner and rolled out to left field, the man scoring. Sherrid pitched a masterful game allowing only five hits and striking out ten men. Zappia had fate against him and undoubtedly deserved better than a 6—1 decision against him.

Four of Lebanon Valley's players are first year men including the battery. Their lack of experience was much in evidence during the game. The large crowd and the importance of the game unquestionably had some effect upon them.
